Terra Nova Trio to perform free concert

The Siuslaw Public Library's Adult Summer Reading "Libraries Rock" program wraps up at the end of July with a free performance by the talented Eugene-based Terra Nova Trio.

The talented group offers their fresh vision of concert programming on Wednesday, July 25, at 2 p.m. in the Bromley Room at the Florence branch of the Siuslaw Public Library, 1460 Ninth St.

The Terra Nova Trio is a contemporary classic group of players from the Eugene Symphony and the Oregon Bach Festival.

Annalisa Morton, Mike Curtis and Sandy Holder, the three musicians, have extensive experience in both playing and teaching music. As a trio, they offer a unique and eclectic blend of music, combining traditional classical instruments (oboe, bassoon and piano) with popular instruments (saxophone, guitar, and accordion).

Their music features classical composers such as Bach and modern French composers while, with the popular instruments, they offer an eclectic mix of pieces such as klezmer (a type of Jewish folk music), tango, blues, and exotic originals.

Morton, a graduate of the Cincinnati College-Conservatory of Music, plays the oboe, English horn and saxophone. She currently plays Principal English horn in the Eugene symphony, teaches oboe and English horn at Oregon State University, and is also a member of the Socarrat Sax Quartet.

Another member of the Eugene Symphony, Curtis plays bassoon, clarinet and sax. He has played with numerous symphonies, including the Mexico State Symphony, and has traveled Europe and Asia performing as a klezmer clarinetist.

Some may remember him from his appearance at the library a number of years ago, shortly after the 2011 publication of his book, "Memories of a Musician in Mexico." His many travels and adventures have influenced his music, giving a worldly feel to his original compositions.

The third member of the trio is Holder, who plays piano, guitar and accordion. Holder began her freelance piano career at the early age of 14. She holds degrees from the Oberlin Observatory and the University of Oregon. She has worked with the Oregon Bach Festival, Eugene Symphony, Eugene Opera, Oregon Symphony, Eugene Children's Choirs, Oregon Festival of American Music and the Oregon Mozart Players.

Currently an instructor at Lane Community College and her private studio, she has also performed in numerous recitals.

Terra Nova Trio offers a unique blend of classical and popular instruments, "a satisfying new world of possibilities," in their words. They promise to delight and entertain the audience with their eclectic compositions including a traditional klezmer piece, a Bach cantata, and even a tango.

Whether you are fond of classical or popular instruments, this summer reading program finale is a must for anyone interested in enjoying a unique musical experience offered by these three talented Eugene-based musicians.

There is no charge to attend the event and this music concert is open to the public. As seating is limited, it is suggested attendees arrive early.

Following the musical treat, the Friends of the Library will host a feast of South American treats. The taste of South American tidbits is also a free summer reading event.

Local author Josephine Faulk, MPH, (above) will be speaking at the Siuslaw Public Library, 1460 Ninth St., on Wednesday, July 25, beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the Bromley Room. Her talk will help attendees understand that they are not broken, defective, nor unworthy of love — especially of themselves. She will talk about triggers, soothing techniques and more ways to address trauma. Faulk's academic training, her own lifelong struggle with the repercussions of childhood trauma and her inspiring recovery have coalesced in "WORTHY: A Personal Guide for Healing Your Childhood Trauma" and its accompanying workbook. In "Worthy," Faulk guides readers through The Childhood Trauma Recovery for Adults Program. This includes a three-part exploration of issues, tools for recovery and finding a person's inherent worthiness. For more information, visit worthyasweare.com.
