CAMPAIGN KICK-OFF

On Wednesday, local business owner Geraldine Lucio held a "Campaign Kick-off" event at the Old Town Barbershop on Bay Street to announce her candidacy for the Florence City Council. "I have a lot of positive ideas for our town and I want to keep Florence moving in a positive direction," said Lucio. She is the owner of the barbershop and a third-generation barber, learning the trade from her father. She spent her formative years in Texas and has been a resident of Florence for the past three years. Siuslaw student receives OSU invitation

Oregon State University's (OSU) School of Arts and Communications/Music has extended an invitation to Lizbeth Garcia-Galvan to participate in its music tour of Europe in the summer of 2019. "Oregon Ambassadors of Music" is an honor choir and band comprised of some of Oregon's finest high school musicians under the leadership of some of the Northwest's most respected music educators. Garcia-Galvan was recommended for consideration in early Spring 2018 by Chris Rowbotham, Director of Bands at Siuslaw High School. Selection by OSU was based on Garcia-Galvan's musicianship and outstanding character.

Siuslaw Director of Bands Chris Rowbotham nominated Lizbeth Garcia-Galvan for the Oregon Ambassadors of Music honor choir and band with OSU.

The Oregon Ambassadors of Music will perform in cities and villages in seven countries for 16 days. The tour will be the 13th biennial European concert tour since 1995. "Lizbeth has been in band since sixth grade," said Rowbotham. "She started on the flute and then auditioned for the alto saxophone in January of her sixth-grade year. Ever since then, she has been playing the alto and really pushes herself to be a strong player." Rowbotham said Garcia-Galvan played in Advanced Band at the middle school in eighth grade and performed a solo in a piece called "The Last Rose of Summer" by Mark Williams. Garcia-Galvan performed it not only for the local band concert but also the middle school district band festival, where Siuslaw Advanced Band was judged by an out-of-town clinician. "The opportunity to perform with the Oregon Ambassadors of Music would be life changing and would create memories for a long time — and she is truly deserving of this," Rowbotham said. Garcia-Galvan is a sophomore honor roll student and the daughter of Delfino Garcia and Guadalupe Galvan. She has performed with both the high school's concert and jazz bands. "I think music connects everybody. And the experience will be a great opportunity to learn from OSU music staff," said Garcia-Galvan. "I'm excited about the chance to share my music." Fundraising efforts for Garcia-Galvan's participation as an Oregon Ambassador of Music will begin soon.

Audition for 'A Christmas Story' Monday and Tuesday

Last Resort Players announces an audition call for "A Christmas Story" on Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 10 and 11, at 6 p.m. at the Florence Events Center. The production will be presented Dec. 14, 15 and 16 as a holiday treat for the community at the FEC on the flat floor. A Christmas Story is a play in two acts with adult Ralphy relaying his memories of a mid-America Christmas in 1938. Primary roles are available for two men, two women, five boys and two girls. There are additional roles for a group of school children (girls and boys), neighbors/parents, a caroling group and various adult cameo roles, including a Christmas tree seller and Santa Claus. Last Resort Players is producing the play under the direction of Jennifer Connor-Chaney with assistance from Cathy Dupont and other LRP members. The production team will ask actors to read short scenes from the show with other actors. Monologues are optional and encouraged — but not necessary. Interested actors may attend both audition dates, but are not required to.

Rehearsals will begin Tuesday, Sept. 18, and be held two to three nights a week, depending on role commitments. The two weeks before the show will be more involved. More information is available from lastresortplayers.org. All levels of participation are encouraged to attend the auditions, including production, sound & stage effects, costumes and backstage assistance.
