SUMMER ALL-DEPTH HALIBUT SEASON ENDS

Oregon's recreational summer all-depth halibut season in the Central Coast subarea has ended for the year, as not enough halibut quota or yelloweye rockfish bycatch allowance remains for any additional all-depth openings.

The remaining all-depth quota will be transferred to the nearshore fishery (inside of the 40-fathom line) for the Central Coast subarea which remains open seven days per week.

Anglers may no longer catch or retain halibut in the Central Coast subarea (between Humbug Mountain and Cape Falcon) outside of the 40 fathom line.

In addition, all-depth halibut fishing remains open south of Humbug Mountain in the Southern Oregon subarea.

For more on fishing opportunities available in the Marine Zone, visit www.myodfw.com/recreation-report/fishing-report/marine-zone.
