"We opened bids for the project in July, but the lowest qualified bid was $212,555 greater than our anticipated funding allowed," Miller said. "Since July, we have been in discussions with the NW Mountain Region FAA, looking for additional funds for the project. In August, we submitted a grant request for a small portion of the additional $1 billion that has been authorized in supplemental discretionary funds for airports."

He added that the disbursement of the supplemental discretionary funds may not occur until after Oct. 1.

Miller also wanted residents to know that the project will be modified to account for the arrival of additional state funding, to supplement the monies received from the FAA, over the next few years. These future upgrades will eventually make air travel to and from Florence safer for pilots and passengers.

"At this time, we will be reducing the scope of the project and removing the crack sealing and slurry seal of the runway and taxiway and the Runway End Indicator Lights. The airport runway and taxiway are in good shape and we can wait until we have enough non-priority entitlement funds to combine the crack sealing and slurry seal with either the scheduled Automated Weather Observation System in 2021 or the taxiway seal coat project in 2023," Miller said.

The upgrade to the Florence Municipal Airport will begin in the spring of 2019.

"Airports like ours in rural and coastal areas are a vital link to the rest of the world, enabling participation on the board, introduced a new effort being undertaken by the district, the "Roots of Empathy" program.

Mann-Heintz showed a short video about the program with input from associate Jeanne Shannon, which was well received by directors.

According to the group's website, Roots of Empathy's mission is to build caring, peaceful and civil societies through the development of empathy in children and adults and strives to break the intergenerational cycle of violence and poor parenting.

This is accomplished by bringing infants and toddlers into classrooms in the hope that young students will develop stronger bonds with others starting at a very young age.

Roots of Empathy is also looking for an upriver family with a baby to participate in the program at Mapleton Elementary School.

Grzeskowiak followed with a presentation of the new district website, highlighting the new site's features and usability.

"The new site is set up to give parents the information they need right off the bat," he said. "Parents can easily access the sports schedule for the day or what we are serving for lunch. They can get that information now with just one click and it is automatically resized and reshaped, refitting it all onto your mobile device."

In addition, the board heard a report on the formation of a Political Action Committee, an officially sanctioned group that will attempt to convince Siuslaw School District voters of the need for a new school bond.

Robert Orr introduced himself as the chairman of the committee and briefly discussed the plans the group has for reaching out to the community regarding the Nov. 6 General Election and Siuslaw School District's bond levy proposal.

He emphasized that the committee is committed to providing information to the community that members hope will convince the voters of the Florence area to support the upcoming school bond measure.

To conclude the board meeting, policy revisions regarding tobacco, diplomas and compliance and reporting policies were discussed.

PROSTATE CANCER AWARENESS MONTH

FACTS & STATS

Prostate cancer is the most common non-skin, male-specific cancer in the U.S., affecting one in nine men. Approximately 165,000 men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer in 2018 (Since more than 220,000 men were diagnosed with prostate cancer in 2015, we're concerned that confusion over inconsistent messages about the value of PSA testing for prostate cancer is causing some men/physicians to forego testing for early detection resulting in an increase in prostate cancer initially diagnosed at a more advanced stage). Some men are at a higher risk for developing prostate cancer:

- o African American men have the highest incidence of prostate cancer; they are 60 percent more likely to develop the disease and more than twice as likely to die from it compared to Caucasian men
- o Men with a family history of prostate cancer are at higher risk for developing prostate cancer
- o Men who served in the military during the Vietnam and Korean wars who were exposed to Agent Orange are at a higher risk for developing prostate cancer (and other cancers/diseases)

More than 29,000 men will die this year from prostate cancer (81 men every day); prostate cancer is the second largest cancer killer of men following lung cancer

If detected early, prostate cancer is often treatable. Screening for prostate cancer includes a PSA (prostate specific antigen) blood test and a DRE (digital rectal exam); a biopsy is required to diagnose prostate cancer

Nearly 3 million men in the U.S. are living with a prostate cancer diagnosis; that number is estimated to climb to 4 million by 2024 as men in the baby boomer generation age

Rather than any "quick fix" for prostate cancer, there are many treatment options and related side effects that each patient needs to evaluate

Signs and Symptoms

Early-stage prostate cancer may not be associated with any obvious signs or symptoms. Most cases of prostate cancer are detected by testing men who have no signs or symptoms.

The signs and symptoms of advancing prostate cancer may include

- Pelvic pain
- Frequent need for urination
- Difficult or painful urination
- Blood in the urine
- Painful ejaculation
- Loss of appetite and weight
- Bone pain
