

Stories of restoring the Siuslaw to be featured during special watershed presentation

Come to City Lights Cinema to watch eight short films about the partners of the Siuslaw Watershed Council (SWC) explaining the restoration efforts throughout the Siuslaw and coastal lakes watershed. The screenings will be followed by a panel discussion about the groups' work together. The screening is scheduled for Wednesday, March 27, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Arrive early and enjoy the craft beer, wine, gourmet popcorn, and other treats City Lights Cinema has to offer. Also, the public is invited to peruse the display of watershed restoration information materials and chat before the show. The SWC supports sound economic, social, and environmental uses of natural and human resources in the Siuslaw River Basin. The Council encourages cooperation among public and private entities to promote awareness and understanding of watershed functions by adopting and implementing a total watershed approach to natural resource management and production.

Fishing from 1B

Note: Olalla Reservoir is operated and owned by Georgia Pacific and is currently closed due to low water and hazardous conditions.
SIUSLAW RIVER: Winter steelhead
Winter steelhead fishing on the Siuslaw has been slow with the recent high water but is improving as the river drops back into shape this week. The Whitaker Creek trap numbers have been good the last two weeks indicating that fish are moving in the system. Fishing should be good as the river clears up this week and into the weekend.
Lake Creek steelhead fishing has been fair this year so far. The river was in good shape over the weekend and should fish well this week. The majority of fish are being caught near and around Green Creek. Hatchery fish in the Siuslaw system return to Whitaker Creek (Siuslaw) and Green Creek (Lake Creek). Bobber fishing with bait/jigs, drift fishing, and casting lures are good techniques to catch a Siuslaw winter steelhead. Trout fishing in streams will reopen May 22.

ALSEA RIVER: Winter steelhead
Winter steelhead fishing improved on the Alsea with the recent rains and rise in river levels. Both bank and boat anglers are catching fish as the river drops back into shape this week. The numbers of fish captured in the Alsea Hatchery trap continue to be low but more fish should be on their way with the current conditions. The numbers of later returning right maxillary clipped fish should increase with each rain event for the rest of February through March. The earlier returning left maxillary clipped fish are past peak and will continue to decrease for the rest of the season. The Alsea still gets a good amount of the early returning stock that peaks in December and January, as well as a later stock that peaks in February and March. Expect more fish to show up with each rise in the river level from now through April. Bobber fishing with jigs/bait, drift fishing, and casting lures are all effective ways to catch these hard-fighting fish. Trout fishing in streams will reopen May 22.

SALMON RIVER: Winter steelhead
Winter steelhead will continue to enter the Salmon River system through the month of February as the later returning wild fish start to show up from now through March. The Salmon River has no hatchery releases and is entirely a wild run.

These fish will peak through March. Bobber fishing with jigs/bait and casting lures are great techniques to catch a Salmon River winter steelhead. Trout fishing in streams will reopen May 22.
SILETZ RIVER: Winter steelhead
Winter steelhead fishing was good on the Siletz over the weekend with good conditions and dropping river levels. Fishing has slowed a little but fish are being caught everyday by both boat and bank anglers. Conditions look good for the rest of the week and the river should fish well through the weekend. There is a good mix of hatchery and wild fish being caught throughout the system. Numbers of wild and hatchery fish should continue to improve, as we get closer to the peak of the run in February and March. Anglers are starting to catch more wild fish in the basin as well, remember to handle these wild fish with care and immediately release them back into the river. January is typically when things heat up and continue through March/April. Side drifting, bobber dogging, bobber fishing with jigs, and casting lures are all great techniques to catch winter steelhead. Trout fishing in streams will reopen May 22.
