Physicist James Brau to speak at City Club

City Club of Florence will host speaker Dr. James Brau tomorrow, June 6, at Ocean Dunes Golf Links, located at 3345 Munsel Lake Rd. The program begins at noon. Dr. Brau is renowned for taking scientific terminology and simplifying it in terms understood by the average citizen. He is responsible for establishing Oregon's first experimental particle physics group at the University of Oregon, as well as establishing the Center for High Energy Physics in 1997.

Elks announce Safety Poster contest winners

Florence Elks Lodge #1858 recently recognized students at Siuslaw Elementary School for winning first-, second- and third-place at the district competition for the Elks Youth Eye Safety Annual Poster Contest. Chloe Bitner, Nevaeh Benson and Emmy Center had been previously recognized for winning locally. Bitner took first place at the district level, winning $100. Benson placed second and won $75, with Center taking third and $50. By winning at the district level, all three were eligible for the Elks statewide competition. Benson went on to place third at the state level and won an additional $100. Her poster will be framed and hung at the OHSU Casey Eye Clinic in Portland for the upcoming year. The presentations were made by Karen Smales the Exalted Ruler; Joyce Middleton, the Chair for the District Eye Program and a State Trustee for the Elks; and Bob Catterton, the local Chair for the Annual Poster Contest. The Elks Children's Eye Clinic at the Casey Eye Institution is the major charitable project of the Oregon State Elks Association. The clinic would not be possible without the organization's commitment to providing eye care for babies and children along with safety education for youth. The Elks became involved with the OHSU School of Medicine in 1949 and have contributed enormously to the growth of the clinic. Today, the visual program of the Oregon State Elks Association contributes more than $2,000,000 annually to the Elks Children's Eye Clinic, working with 18,000 children each year through the support of local lodges like the Florence Elks Lodge #1858. Financial assistance is not the only service the Elks provide. Elk volunteers donate thousands of hours at the Casey Eye Institute. They assist patients, work on projects for staff and provide information to the public. The Elks have also funded up-to-date equipment for the pediatric ophthalmology examination room at OHSU Doernbecher Children's Hospital staffed by faculty from the Elks Children's Eye Clinic.

Garden Club presents scholarships to SHS seniors

At the Siuslaw High School Awards ceremony on May 30, The Florence Garden Club awarded two scholarships to graduating seniors. Audrey Lowder received a $1,500 scholarship for her major in Biochemistry at Oregon State University. Angela Bartlett also received $1,500 for her Pre-Med major at Western Oregon University. Since 1994 The Florence Garden Club has given more than $61,000 in scholarship awards to qualified students in Florence and Mapleton whose educational goals lead to a career in horticulture, forestry, biology or an environment-related field. "The Garden Club thanks the merchants and public who support our annual plant sale and raffle," said scholarship committee chairman Carol Jolley. "It's community support and the dedication of Garden Club members that provide the money for these awards."
