

KXCR Community Radio seeks volunteers

KXCR, Florence's local nonprofit radio station, welcomes volunteers of all ages to learn about the exciting world of public broadcast. Come be a part of your local public radio station. Get your feet wet and even start a new career or do it just for fun — no experience necessary. KXCR streams live over the internet to thousands of listeners around the nation. Now you can launch a new show or announce news and information to communities across Western Lane County and even ships at sea. The station is at 90.7 FM and kxcr.net. Call KXCR at 541-997-5252 for more information or stop by the station to learn about volunteer opportunities.

Please Return Jewelry!

For the person who found personal jewelry — rings, earrings and necklace on September 30/Oct. 1 at a local hotel/motel in Florence, Oregon please return to Florence Police Department, Officer Keenan Walker. No questions asked.

I hope you will never experience the heartache of such a loss and I'm sure if you lost sentimental jewelry you would be forever grateful for it's safe and prompt return.

Thank you.

Call to Artists
Let's Rock!!
Backstreet Gallery
2019 Community Challenge Show

The 2019 Backstreet Gallery Community Challenge is now accepting applications for "Let's Rock."

As the name implies, all artwork must have a real rock or pebble in a hanging or freestanding art piece. No boulders, please, as the size is no larger than 11-by-14 inches for hanging pieces and 8-by-8-by-8-inch for the freestanding. For applications, go to www.backstreet-gallery.org/lets-rock, or stop by the gallery.

Three avid supporters of the arts in Florence will jury the show's submissions. Rosie Hill is known for her Zentangle creations and her art classes. Jo Beaudreau is an artist and owner of the BeauxArts Fine Art Materials & Gallery, 2285 Highway 10, Suite H. Jerry Schneider is a well-versed photographer and KXCR, 90.7, radio host featuring local artists.

The due date for completed applications is Oct. 21. The art will be delivered to Backstreet Gallery, 1421 Bay St. in Historic Old Town Florence, between Oct. 30 and Nov. 2. The gallery is open daily at 10 a.m. All are welcome at a reception to be held in the challengers' honor on Saturday, Nov. 9, 3 to 5 p.m., during the Second Saturday Gallery Tour.

Chamber names new event, tourism development coordinator

She came for the healing and stayed for the people she met and opportunities she gained. Now, she's working to benefit the community that has blessed her with so much.

Mitzi Hathaway has journeyed many a path to her new job as the event and tourism development coordinator for the Florence Area Chamber of Commerce. She's an arranger — from flower arranging to arranging boats in a harbor, from arranging weddings and memorial services to arranging the affairs of the office in a tech firm, Hathaway comes ready and raring to arrange the chamber's major events and further develop business and tourism here in Oregon's Coastal Playground.

Chamber Executive Director Bettina Hannigan said, "Mitzi has an excellent background and valuable experience required to fulfill this job and build tourism's impact in Florence. She was immediately tossed into the refiner's fire of finalizing one of the community's most important events and came out shining."

"My heart is in the same place as Bettina's. We both live to make lives better, to bring people together, to make our community better," Hathaway said. "Bettina often says, 'hearts have chambers and our Chamber has a heart' and that resonates with me. I want to bring locals together, tourists together, and watch them have fun making memories together."

Hathaway has also volunteered and helped organize a number of festivals in Portland.

For Hathaway, Florence is both a fun and healing place. She loves the adventures provided by the forests, dunes, lakes, river and ocean as much as she does the people. She is an active and vocal advocate for small businesses, local shopping, and the commercial fishing and "boat-to-plate" industries.

Hathaway also appreciates Florence for its high-quality local art and food which brings visitors to the area.

"I'll

work hard to help small businesses thrive and build community so Florence itself can thrive," she said. "I want to get visitors into places they might otherwise not see to meet the beautiful people who live and visit here. I want to see pictures of happy, smiling people in Florence online."

Now that she's overseen one of the chamber's biggest annual events, the highly successful Wine & Chowder Trails and Great Glass Float Giveaway, Hathaway is looking forward to the upcoming holiday season.

This year the Florence Area Chamber of Commerce and Old Town district shops are spreading the holiday cheer over two weekends. The traditional kick off on Saturday after Thanksgiving will feature a hot cocoa, hot cider, and cookie trail. On Saturday of the following weekend, the chamber will host the traditional arrival of Santa and Mrs. Claus, hayrides, choirs, carolers, lighted boats at the marina and Florence Mayor Joe Henry's Christmas tree lighting at dusk.

To learn more about joining or supporting the Florence Area Chamber of Commerce, its events, volunteering in its visitor's center, or serving on one of its many committees, contact Hannigan at 541-997-3128, info@FlorenceChamber.com or visit www.FlorenceChamber.com.

Folk art posters to be displayed in Yachats

The coastal community is invited to view a total of 40 drawings by well-known artist Maeona L. Urban on Oct. 25 and 26 in Yachats. There is one 18" x 24" colored pencil poster drawing for each book of the Old Testament. The art is on display at the Yachats Community Presbyterian Church, 360 W. Seventh St. in Yachats. The public can view the drawings from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Urban will be present to talk with visitors each day about the pictures and will be available to answer questions.
