Book Review "Full Throttle" by Joe Hill

In this masterful collection of short fiction, Joe Hill dissects timeless human struggles in relentless tales of supernatural suspense, including "In The Tall Grass," one of two stories co-written with Stephen King and the basis for a terrifying new feature film from Netflix.

A little door opens to a world of fairy-tale wonders that becomes the blood-drenched stomping ground for a gang of hunters in "The Faun." A grief-stricken librarian climbs behind the wheel of an antique bookmobile to deliver fresh reads to the dead in "Late Returns." In "By the Silver Water of Lake Champlain," soon to be an episode on Shudder TV's "Creepshow," two young friends stumble on the corpse of a plesiosaur at the water's edge, a discovery that forces them to confront the inescapable truth of their mortality ... and other horrors that lurk in the water's shivery depths.

And tension shimmers in the sweltering heat of the Nevada desert as a faceless trucker finds himself caught in a sinister dance with a tribe of motorcycle outlaws in "Throttle," co-written with Stephen King.

Replete with shocking thrillers, including two previously unpublished stories written expressly for this volume ("Mums" and "Late Returns") and another appearing in print for the first time ("Dark Carousel"), "Full Throttle" is a darkly imagined odyssey through the complexities of the human psyche.

Hypnotic and disquieting, it mines our tormented secrets, hidden vulnerabilities, and basest fears, and demonstrates this exceptional talent at his very best, revealing once again why Joe Hill is "a major player in 21st century fantastic fiction" (Washington Post Book World).
