OBITUARIES

MOORE—Jack Orson Moore, born Oct. 10, 1934 (Colfax, Wisc.), passing on July 29, 2020.

Due to the pandemic, a private ceremony will be held with his immediate family. In lieu of flowers, the family asks that you make donations to the New Life Lutheran Church, Florence, Ore.

Below is from Jack's Memoir's he wrote a few years ago: "From as far back as I can remember, I always wanted to be a carpenter. Teaching was more secure, but I even thought about becoming a minister. But I felt I lacked the polish to preach to all ages, and that through my interest in sports I could help young people more. I loved teaching in the classroom (or shop) but thought many of my administrators and all of the legislators where nuts.

The pay for teachers was ridiculous. I drew designs and plans for over 1,000 buildings (houses, remodels, additions and several small commercial buildings). Without the income from this, I would have had to quit teaching and probably would have been a contractor.

I am very proud of my family. My wife, who stuck with me through some tough times, I hope she'll write her memoirs; I know she'll do a better job than me.

Sean and Darrin both married well and have very fine children. Kevin is still single and lives in Oregon. I, along with volunteers, helped him to build a house in Diamond Lake Junction where he owns a café.."

Jack was an Eagle Scout and Scout Master of Troop 25. He graduated from Chico State University and was a charter member of Phi Kappa Tau.

He taught for over 31 years. Jack began his teaching career at Brett Harte Junior High in Oakland, Calif., then at Piedmont High School (teaching and coaching JV basketball, varsity baseball).

Later, he moved to Colfax, Calif., to teach at Colfax High School (coaching JV basketball and varsity baseball).

He taught architectural drafting and drawing at Sierra Junior College for 20 years before retiring in 1989.

Jack wanted everyone to know "He knew how to work." He always loved to have a project. Some of those projects included an addition to the Lutheran Church in Meadow Vista, Calif., and several projects at New Life Lutheran Church in Florence, Ore.: The Memorial Garden plaque, Grapevine rendition behind the altar, Lectern, and he was working with the men's club on an addition to the fellowship hall and the ABC Preschool.

During all of this time, he was able to help with Habitat for Humanity.

Jack was a dog lover too, having several dogs: Casey, Gomer, Rusty, Maxwell, Bruiser, Maggie and Tilly.

Jack is survived by his wife of 63 years, Colleen Ann Moore (Jack and Colleen resided in Florence, Ore., for the past 23 years); three sons: Sean Patrick Moore (wife Sharon), Darrin Timothy Moore (wife Kelley), and Keven Dow Moore; grandchildren: Blair Ann Hudson (husband Michael), Blaine Allan Moore (wife Erin), Ryan Patrick Moore (fiancée Lauren), and Jacklyn Tara Moore; great-grandchildren: Hayden and Harper Hudson, and Callie and Cooper Moore.

Burns's Riverside Chapel was in charge of all arrangements.

Police seek whereabouts of two suspected kidnappers

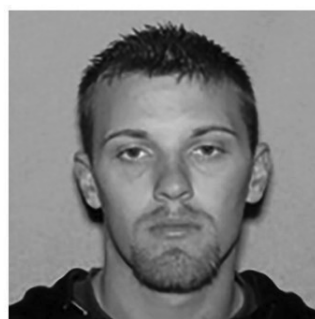

On Aug. 23, at approximately 7:30 a.m., Troopers from Oregon State Police Florence and Springfield Area Command responded to an injured male on Hwy. 126 W. near milepost 26.5.

The male victim was located on the highway with extensive injuries to his head, face and body and was transported to PeaceHealth Peace Harbor Hospital in Florence for treatment of his injuries.

It was reported that Michael Light and two additional unknown males had assaulted the male victim for an extended period of time in his campsite before Michael Light left with a female victim against her will.

At some point in the early morning hours, the male victim escaped into a heavily forested area and hid until daylight hours before he was eventually found on the highway.

An area search located Michael Light and the female victim in a vehicle in the area. Michael Light was taken into custody without further incident.

Florence landlord accused of housing discrimination

The U.S. Attorney's Office announced Monday (Aug. 24) that it has filed a lawsuit in federal court alleging that the owner of residential rental housing in Florence, Ore., made discriminatory statements, preventing a foster parent from applying to rent a home, in violation of the federal Fair Housing Act.

The lawsuit, filed in the U.S. District Court in Eugene, alleges that Kathie Carmer, 74, of Florence, engaged in unlawful familial status discrimination in connection with a single-family home in Florence that she had advertised for rent on Craigslist.

The civil complaint alleges that a prospective tenant called Carmer in November 2018 to inquire about the rental and disclosed that she was looking for a residence suitable for herself and her four foster children.

The filed complaint asserts three allegations against Carmer of discrimination against families with children, based upon the findings of HUD's investigation: (1) refusing to rent or to negotiate for the rental of the advertised property because of familial status; (2) discriminating in the terms, conditions, or privileges of the rental of a dwelling because of familial status; and (3) making discouraging and other discriminatory statements to a potential renter with children.

NEWSPAPERS IN EDUCATION PROGRAM

The Siuslaw News is looking at ways to help support the kids in the Siuslaw & Mapleton school districts as they enter the new school year.

Newspapers in Education is a program we have done for the last several years that allows teachers to request copies of the Siuslaw News to use in the classroom and this year we would like to extend the offer of a subscription directly to the students.

From literacy to politics, current events and world history, newspaper stories teach valuable skills and life lessons. Encouraging kids to read the newspaper not only makes them better students, it also makes them informed citizens. By encouraging kids to read, ask questions and think critically, newspapers play an important role in our future as a country.

A donation of $25 will supply a 9 month subscription for one student for the 2020-21 school year.
