Register cell phones to receive Emergency Notification Alerts

On its Facebook page Tuesday, the City of Florence posted about the large amounts of smoke people were experiencing in the air. On Monday night, the local 911 dispatch center was overwhelmed with the amount of calls from people wanting to know where it was from.

Below is some information on how to sign up for emergency alerts and get information without overwhelming the dispatch center.

AlertSense: People can sign up to receive local emergency alerts through www.ci.florence.or.us/community/register-your-cell-phone-receive-emergency-notification-alerts.

This service allows fire, police and other emergency response agencies to issue emergency alerts to warn citizens of events such as severe weather, fire, flooding, hazardous materials, need for immediate evacuation, civil danger, local area emergencies and missing persons.

People can also enter their address or zip code to receive advanced warning of severe weather or emergencies that directly impact the area. In the event of a life threatening emergency, alerts will be delivered through priority channels including phone calls and/or priority text messages.

Non-emergency notifications are received through text and email.

Emergency voice alerts sent from Lane County will come through with the following CallerID displayed: 541-972-3177.

FEMA Alerts: Another

useful resource is to download the FEMA Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) app on cell phones to receive weather and disaster alerts.

Many people would have received alerts for the wind and smoke event through this app.

The City of Florence also gave information on the 911 Dispatch Center and how it triages calls during an event like the beginning of the week.

The Florence Police Department operates the 911 dispatch center. Dispatchers answer the 911 call, non-emergency calls and dispatch for local public safety entities.

Calling 911 or the non-emergency line to get information that is available elsewhere, rather than to report an emergency, congests those lines for actual emergencies.

It also makes it difficult for our dispatchers to communicate with public safety and utilities to address issues being reported.

Information on confirmed issues that are matters of public safety will be shared through official sources like the City of Florence, Lane County Government, Siuslaw Valley Fire & Rescue, Western Lane Ambulance District and local media partners.
