THE VIENNA EXPOSITION.

It seems that after all the uproar that has been raised about it, and all the difficulties and evil predictions that have attended it thus far, the American department of the Vienna Exposition is about as far along toward being placed in perfect order as any other nation's. Bayard Taylor, writing to the New York Tribune says: "The first characteristic which strikes a visitor is the vast scale upon which the show has been arranged. Yet, although the main building is nearly double the length of that in Hyde Park, it produces nothing like the effect. Owing to the comparative lowness of the wings, and the great height of the show-frames and temples and pyramids which fill them, the eye finds no vista. Your aching feet tell you the distances you traverse, but your vision is constantly checked, bewildered and deceived. Even the Rotunda, which gains by its vast span nearly all which it loses by its squat character, is deformed by the strange, irregular, inharmonious piles of productions cumbering its floor. Scarcely one of the transepts is visible from its junction with the wing to its extremity. On the other hand, the space between the cases is so ample that 50,000 persons might circulate within the building without much crowding.

We shall have the best exhibition we have ever made, except in art. We shall occupy twice as much space as in Paris, and show a much greater variety of objects. Switzerland is still the only country in complete order. England and France by hard work have nearly finished their portion of the main aisles, but their transepts are cumbered with unopened boxes. The same may be said of Italy, Holland and Germany. In the eastern wing Austria and Hungary take the lead; in both but little more is necessary to be done. The gorgeous jewelry and Bohemian crystal of Austria balance in bright effect the incomparable porcelain and pottery of England at the other end. Pausing before a display of Bohemian crystal, I happened to notice a large printed card, headed "U. S. A. Customers." The first name on the list was "Sir Hamilton Fish!" Of the Eastern nations, counting Russia as one, Greece and Tunis are just finishing their work, while Turkey, Persia, Japan and Egypt will each require more time.

LET THEM COME.—The area of the thirty-seven States in the United States, as shown by the recent census, is 1,984,467 square miles, and the average population about nineteen and one-fifth persons to a square mile. In 1860, the average population of the States was eighteen and one-tenth persons to a square mile, and in 1850 nearly fifteen persons. The entire area of the country, Territories as well as States, aggregates 3,603,884 square miles, the surface of the Territories being 1,619,417 square miles. In the Territories the population averages about one person to four square miles. There is, therefore, "ample room and verge enough" for the tens of thousands starting every week or two from European ports to cast their lots in our country.

SPECIAL TRIP.—The steamer E. N. Cook made a special trip to Clatsop, leaving Portland Saturday evening with H. W. Scott and Hon. John N. Dolph on board. They returned leaving here Sunday evening, accompanied by Ben Holladay, President of the Oregon Railroads, and Dr. J. C. Hawthorne, who have been to the Seaside House for some time.

The Varuna is now running regularly on her mail routes, with an occasional trip to other points. Last evening she went to Clatsop after the arrival of the Dixie from Portland.

The John L. Stephens left San Francisco for Astoria on Saturday morning at the usual hour, consequently should arrive here to day.

THE FARMERS' MOVEMENT.

Meeting of the Citizens at the Court House.
The citizens of Astoria met at the Court House on Wednesday evening last. A large number of persons were in attendance. On motion of Gen. John Adair, Mr. James Welch was chosen chairman. Mr. S. D. Adair was chosen secretary.

Mr. P. Low first addressed the meet, and showed the importance of shipping the produce of the Wallamet Valley from this port. He then stated the action taken by the citizens of Linn County in order to accomplish this project. He said the farmers of the Wallamet had already raised upwards of $3,000 to build a wharf at this place, and he asked the people of Astoria to raise sufficient to accomplish that object. Mr. Low further showed that the farmers were at the mercy of the wheat speculators of Portland, and so long as this state of things continued the farmers of the Wallamet will be nothing but hewers of wood and drawers of water.

Mr. LEINENWEBER then addressed the meeting on the importance of every man in Astoria doing what he could to advance the contemplated project, and offered to aid it to the extent of his means. He had written to men of influence abroad, and they gave encouraging responses to his inquiries.

Gen. JOHN ADAIR next addressed the meeting. He had no doubt if the Astorians would accomplish the contemplated project, the result would be more favorable than the most sanguine anticipated. He said the only difficulty was our financial ability, but he thought we had friends that could be induced to build the necessary wharves and warehouses at this point.

Capt. J. H. D. GRAY said he was of the opinion that the farmers of the Wallamet ought to build the wharves and warehouses, because they were to reap the greatest benefit. Their wheat would be advanced sufficiently by this improvement that they would repay themselves in a short time. He advanced other reasons why they should do this, but offered to aid liberally if necessary.

Col. JAMES TAYLOR was next called for. He said this was a subject which ought to engage the attention of every man present. He thought the people of Astoria ought to build the wharf and warehouse; and then proceeded to show how it might be done, and that immediately. He thought we should put out proposals, and as soon as we learned what the wharf would cost, to open stock books, and as soon as the necessary amount was subscribed to proceed with the work. He offered to take stock to the amount of $500, besides giving the land necessary for the proposed improvement, and on certain conditions he would double his money offer.

Mr. MERCER said it looked from the reluctance of the farmers to take hold of this matter, and the scarcity of money among ourselves, as if this thing was to be a failure. He, however proposed a plan whereby the project could be carried out. His views were expressed at considerable length, with which the audience seemed to coincide by their frequent applause.

Mr. JAMES WELCH proposed to meet the day following and open books for subscriptions. He thought the amount could be raised, and would do as much as any man present.

Mr. W. W. PARKER thought there would not be any wharf built, and he was not willing to put any money into it, except the farmers would guarantee to patronize it. He proposed a plan which, if it were carried out, he was willing to aid. His plan was that the farmers guarantee two or three cents on every bushel of wheat placed on the wharf to pay for the building of the same, and this would be more money than was needed for that purpose.

At a quarter to 11 o'clock the meeting adjourned until the afternoon following.

the citizens meeting reassembled in the Court House. Mr. James Welch in the chair. Books were opened for subscriptions, and the amounts as heretofore announced, were subscribed.

Subsequent to this meeting another was held, when the whole amount of stock—$6,000—was taken.

A PENAL COLONY.—Charles Nordhoff, presents an interesting article advising the abolition of State penitentiaries, and the use of Alaska as a place of confinement for convicts, after the manner of Russian Siberia. The paper was published by Harper Brothers of New York, and finds numerous advocates in the East. We have no means of saying what was Mr. Seward's view when he purchased Alaska—it is no benefit to the country as it stands, and if any plan can be devised for the abolishment of Penitentiaries and the establishment of a penal colony there as suggested, it should be thought worthy of consideration. We have great difficulty in having the most deliberate assassins hanged. Perhaps they can be disposed of in this way with less trouble. Anyhow it is worth the trial. We have Alaska on our hands, and ought to put it to some use.

Mr. J. F. Saunders, of Fort Stevens, has received his new stock of goods. He returned last Friday evening.

BORN.—Sunday morning, July 6th, 1873, to the wife of J. W. Welch, a son.

A man who understands Mowing and Hay Pressing, can learn of a situation by applying at this office.

Parties wishing to sail, who are not posted as to where they can find boatmen or boats, can leave word at Arrigoni's for John Wirt, who can find a boat if there is one in town.
