

Tri-Weekly Astorian

SATURDAY.....Nov. 15, 1873

YOU CANNOT FORGET.

You cannot forget me, for memory will sing, Forever the song it has sung; And, roam as thou mayest, its echoes will cling, Till all of life's pleasures are done.

Yes, love as you may, yet you cannot forget, Those pleasures, those dreams, to us brought; Too close are they linked to their early regret, Too deep are the virtues they wrought.

You roam from the path that you once used to tread, To find a new paradise there;

The same silent stars are still seen over head, And the same sober truths they declare, And when the bright splendor of day is near gone,

While the soft mellow twilight draws near, With me most forgotten, some song will be sung That will bring back the days once so dear.

In the stillness of evening beneath the gay skies When the feeling of rest cometh o'er, The same gentle dream-look will steal to thy eyes.

As the spirits soft whisper, is "no more," You cannot forget me; the thought may be vain; But oh! let me deem it a truth, That sometime you pensively muse of my name And sigh for the days of our youth.

"One piano every hour," is the startling announcement recently made by the Steinway Manufacturing company of New York, unquestionably the largest piano manufacturing firm in the world. The justly earned fame and reputation of whose instruments is not confined to America, but is world wide.
