change,

Agent

that he has been promoted, for which a man represents himself in such a way as to be held responsible for his actions.

Business

in its present state is not quite so favorable as it was a few months ago, but confidence is still maintained that a recovery is forthcoming.

Mr. D. L. Deane, well and favorably known in Portland, has been appointed as the new agent for the company.

To make a ship ready for transportation, it is necessary to have a large amount of provisions on board, and the amount of provisions required depends upon the size of the ship and the duration of the voyage.

The editor of the Mountainian has wisely brought under the notice of the public the evils of the system of transportation, and is urging upon the public the necessity of supporting such a system as will be calculated to promote the public welfare.
