

The Daily Astorian.

FRIDAY.....MAY 5, 1876.

In order to detect the presence of carbonate of lime in water, add lime water, which will precipitate carbonate of lime, giving the water under test a milky appearance.

A man who had climbed up a chestnut tree had by carelessness missed his hold of one of the branches, and fell to the ground with such force as to break his ribs. A neighbor going to his assistance, remarked to him that "had he followed his rule in these cases he would have avoided the accident." "What rule do you mean?" said the other, indignantly. "This said the philosopher, "never come down from a place faster than you go up."

Experienced gamblers can stock a pack of cards for almost all games, which makes it very hazardous for novices, whose money is at stake, to play with them. A noted professional gambler having made a large fortune at the game of vingt-et-un (twenty-one), was finally detected in his mode of stocking a pack of robbing his victims. There being fifty-two cards in a full deck, consequently there are thirteen of each suit, which, then arranged by certain words forms a stock that cannot be disarranged by cutting the cards a hundred times. It is done by the following key: Eight kings, three tens to save nine fair ladies for one sick knave. After the cards have been cut (not shuffled) as many times as is desirable, see the bottom card and take that from the starting point, then the whole pack can be called off from top without making a single mistake. The trick above exposed is beyond ordinary comprehension and well calculated to lure young men to certain ruin.

Yours truly, boys, Uncle Jake, the Miller, in Sunday Visitor.
