SATURDAY.....JUNE 10, 1876.

Ex-Governor Woods for Vice-President.

From the Alta California.

Now, while that "slate" is being made, we ask for a recognition. We place before the country and the Republican National Convention, to meet in Cincinnati within four weeks, the name of a gentleman known all over this coast, and as popular as well known. He has been Governor of Oregon by choice of the people, and Governor of Utah by appointment of the President, and in each case filled the office with great ability and satisfaction to the people. He is now a resident of this State and this city, a lawyer eloquent at the bar or on the stand, ever true as steel to the cause of the country; who has gone through such a furnace as that of Governor of Utah, coming out like the Hebrews, without the smell or fire upon him. This man is ex-Governor George L. Wood, who has been named as a fit candidate for nomination for Vice-President on the Republican ticket. We herewith quote from the Salt Lake Tribune on this subject, and endorse them so far as the character and fitness for the position of Governor Wood is in question. He would prove a popular candidate.

From the Salt Lake Tribune.

If Mr. Blaine is to be the choice for President, and every day seems to add to his strength, we see no good reason why that staunch friend of Utah, Hon. George L. Wood, should not be put upon the Republican ticket for Vice-President. This would be spanning the continent, choosing our highest officers from the extreme east and the farthest west, and thus regarding the geographical equities of the case. The New York Herald speaking of this eminent Statesman, says he "is mentioned in many quarters as a favorite Pacific coast candidate," and then correctly speaks of him as "a pioneer of early days, a statesman and one of the most accomplished orators in the country." As Governor of Utah, he won an enviable reputation, and his friends among the non-Mormons in this heavenly kingdom are to be numbered by the thousands. In these days of policy and self-seeking, Governor Wood's gift of continuity, his firm and persistent devotion to principle, stands out prominently, and marks him as a man fitted to labor in a more extended sphere of usefulness. His ringing utterances on the platform have thrilled many an ear, and in addition to his superior powers of oratory, he possesses a magnetism which attracts all with whom he comes in contact. This was abundantly shown in August, 1874, when in this city an infuriated mob of nearly a thousand men threatened destruction to the U. S. Marshal's office, where the corrupt Jeter Clinton, a police magistrate of the most malignant type was confined. Mounting a wagon which stood in the middle of the street, the personal popularity of the Governor won him a hearing, and in a few appropriate and well-chosen sentences he stilled the passions of his auditors and prevailed on them to disperse and go to their homes. As Governor of Oregon and Utah, this Pacific coast statesman has won an honorable record, and no better choice for the two highest offices in the Republic could be made, than Blaine of Maine, and Wood of the Golden State.

ADVERTISE.—An exchange says: Maybe you think that people don't like to read advertisements! If you do you are much mistaken. Fresh, well-put well-placed advertisements are news! They are welcomed, read—may, studied! The newspaper that is alive with them is increasingly acceptable and so is the business house that knows how to get them up, possessed with the sagacity and nerve to keep them up.

AN EDITOR'S APPEAL.—As the report that we are very wealthy has gone abroad among our subscribers, and has made them awfully slow about paying up, thinking, doubtless, we do not want the money, we hasten to say the report of our wealth is false in every particular. If ocean-steamer were selling at a cent a dozen, we could not make the first payment on a canoe. The lightning of poverty has struck us square, and had it not been for an armful of hay which our devil managed to steal from a blind mule, our family would be without a mouthful to eat at the present moment. Is not this a sad picture, and can you delinquent subscribers look upon it without feeling the coin rattle with indignation in your pockets. We do not like to dun you but we must if you fail to take the hint.

TAKE YOUR LOCAL PAPER.—A man in Marion county last week saved $150 by taking his local paper, the Mercury, and there is a man in this county, near Brownsville, who told us, a short time ago, that he had made an acre tract of land, by being a reader of the Democrat. He had been wanting for a long time to buy an 80, adjoining his farm, but could get no track of the owner, who was a non-resident of the State, and finally saw it advertised for sale in the Democrat. He attended the sale and bought it for a nominal sum, and is now the owner of it.—Albany Democrat.
