SAILED.—The schooner Hayes, with cargo of lumber, etc., left Knappton for San Francisco yesterday.

ON THE WAY.—The ship Rufus E. Wood is on the way from San Francisco for this port.

SPOKEN.—The British bark Alumina from Astoria for Cork, was spoken August 11th in latitude 15.55 north, longitude 25.12 west.

LOADING.—The British ships British Monarch and British Peer are at the Farmers' dock, receiving a cargo of wheat for Europe.

BORN.—On the Willapa river, Pacific county, Washington territory, September 17, 1877, to the wife of George Armstrong, a daughter.

ARRIVED SAFELY.—A dispatch from Mr. John Badollet of this city, announces his safe arrival at Vincennes, Indiana, on Friday last. He left Astoria by the Ajax on the 11th inst.

IMPORTING HIDES.—We are informed that the Hendock tannery of Messrs. Lieneweber & Brown at Upper Astoria are importing hides from California. A lot came up on the Orizaba.

NEARING COMPLETION.—A private letter from J. H. Shannon, South Bend informs us that Watson Bros. are pushing their new cannery building to completion and expect to be ready for operation in a few days.

RECOVERING.—John Wood, of the firm of John Wood & Co. at the South Bend mills, who was severely burned and bruised at the explosion of the mills is getting along quite well and expects to be able to be around in a short time.

PERSONAL.—We notice among the arrivals at the Parker House the names of Hon. W. W. Page, Hon. John Gearin, Capt. Joseph Wiley, of Portland; Jas. W. Stevens, Esq., of San Francisco, former partner of W. W. Page, and A. G. Allen of Fort Stevens.

ARRIVED.—The Pacific Coast Steamship company's steamer Santa Cruz arrived at this port yesterday with a cargo of 440 tons, consisting of coal oil and miscellaneous articles, of which 150 cts of coal oil and a lot of nails, ropes, powder, etc., were discharged and the vessel proceeded to Portland.

HILDEBRANDT MONTROSE.—We are indebted to Mr. Geo. W. Cornart for a select sheet of music entitled "Hildebrandt Montrose," composed by Mr. E. Harrigan and published by Sherman & Hyde, San Francisco. Mr. Cornart is agent for this great music publishing house and keeps the latest publications.

SEA PIGEONS.—We learn from men on the bar tugs that the days the sea pigeons came into the Columbia so thick, forming a line similar to a dense black cloud for a distance of fifteen miles, the same scene was witnessed outside. The cloud extending as far north and south of the river as the eye could reach along the coast. Mr. Neiderauer killed one of the birds. They are a small bird, and live upon smelt, herring, sardines, etc., and probably followed these fish into the river.

SHIP-MASTER'S READING ROOM.—Mr. Peter Wilhelm has permanently fitted up a ship-master's reading room in connection with the Gen saloon in Astoria. The latest shipping papers and home-ward and outward bound shipping lists are kept on file. Call and see him.

SOUTH BEND MILL.—Hands are at work removing the debris and re-building the South Bend mill. The machinery was much less damaged than was at first supposed. How an explosion so terrific could occur without more damage to life and property is beyond comprehension.

ENCOURAGING.—Some time ago Mr. Lieneweber of the Hendock tannery at Upper Astoria, sent a few sample sides of leather from their works here to Europe. The returns from these hides which have just been received are very encouraging. The Europeans say they want two hundred sides as near like the samples as possible, and that if those hold out good in proportion to the others, possible future orders will be for all the headlock leather that can be manufactured here.

UP THE CREEK.—Yesterday we witnessed a fine sight while a part of our fleet of vessels was leaving this port for an inland voyage to Portland, where they will receive wheat sufficient to ballast them on their return voyage to Astoria, when they will complete their cargoes. This fleet consisted of four vessels, all leaving about the same time in tow as follows: The Paetolis in tow of the Columbia; Candida in tow of the E. N. Cooke; Beccoff in tow of the Alice, and the Abeona in tow of the J. Ordway.

A FINE FLEET.—The fleet of vessels and steamers at Astoria on Sunday last was a very fine one indeed, consisting of eleven vessels, as follows: The German bark Henrietta, from Newcastle, N. S. W., laden to twenty feet draft with coal, a portion of which will be discharged here; the British bark Drumlog, 65 days from Otago, in ballast—this vessel has a name which will remind readers of the famous Drumlog battle, in ancient times; the brig Sea Waif was at the berth preparing to receive her cargo for Australia; the British ship Oban Bay, laden to 20 feet for Queenstown; and two other British vessels, with wheat, which cargoes are not complete; the British bark Abeona from Liverpool, the British ships Candida and Beccoff, and our old American visitor Paetolis, were added to the number from San Francisco in ballast, to load for Europe. The steamship California arrived from the north and the Ajax departed for San Francisco.

IRON WORKS SOLD.—A sale has taken place of the iron works at Oswego, including the smelting furnace and all the lands and mines of the company in Clackamas county. The extreme low prices for iron have made it impossible to manufacture upon the basis of operations pursued by the old company. The purchasers are Messrs. Seecley, Brown & Creighton, three young men who are intimately acquainted with iron manufacture, having been brought up in the business. Mr. Seecley was formerly superintendent of the works. Mr. Creighton has been used to iron manufacture all his life and Mr. Brown is one of the firm of U. B. Scott & Co., owners of the City of Salem and Ohio, as is also Mr. Seecley. These gentlemen will probably recommence manufacture of iron next spring, and from personal acquaintance with the trade we may expect economy, good management and reduction of expenses that will surely enable them to succeed. The purchase price of the property was less than fifty thousand dollars, while the cost and outlay of the old company was probably four times that. The excellent quality of Oregon iron will insure ready sale, and in the hands of men of practical experience and thorough energy we may look to the development of an extensive and profitable manufacture of this most important staple.

What is a dollar when you can get THE ASTORIAN for it four months, regularly, including a pamphlet telling you all about the great State of Oregon.

Newspaper advertising compels inquiry, and when the article offered is of good quality and at a fair price, the natural result is increased sales.

Says an exchange: "Any family man who says he is too poor to take a newspaper should be indicted for obtaining a family under false pretenses."

The Cincinnati Gazette says: "The publishers of American newspapers, if they would follow the example of the Times, would largely increase their revenues; and why not? Why should not candidates for office, writers of complimentary resolutions, heroes of canoe presentations, and the like, pay for the space they occupy, as business men do? There is far too much free advertising in the reading columns of American newspapers for the good of the publishers or the benefit of subscribers. We commend this suggestion to our friends of the press."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

It looks as though the Czar of Russia had better get out of the Turkish empire and hasten back to his own dominions and his own capital as soon as possible. There are signs of discontent among the Russian people with his imperial Majesty's military operations that may result in danger to his government.

The ground of acquittal from murder upon which a young colored man escaped at Rockport, Ind., recently, was that he believed his victim to be a ghost. He was passing through the woods at night with a gun, when suddenly a white object appeared in his pathway. Terror-stricken, he mechanically raised his gun and fired, bringing the ghost down mortally wounded, which turned out to be a colored neighbor walking home with a white sheet wrapped about him.

It is estimated that the damages which Pittsburg must pay in consequence of the destruction of property by the strike will increase the taxes of the city from six to twelve million dollars; in other words, for the next twenty years every resident of Pittsburg, who pays taxes, will have his annual burden doubled because of this destruction of property. This is a fine outlook for thrifty people who wish to lay up something for a rainy day. Verily the rainy day came too soon for Pittsburgers.

The testimony of two of the foremen of Joseph P. Hale's burned piano-factory, before Fire Marshal Sheldon recently, shows what a fire trap that eight-story affair was. According to their evidence there were no fire extinguishers in the building, although it was liable to take fire any moment. There were no directions given what to do in case of a fire. There were pails of water in the building, but none kept specially to extinguish fires. On the first floor, where the late fatal fire began, there had been no water in the water pipes for a year past, and there was no pump to force it up with. If the account of these men are true, there must have been criminal carelessness on the part of the owners of the factory, who had 300 lives in their charge. It is time that something was done by the city government to punish men who erect towering factories that tunable down in a wind squall, and neglect the most ordinary precautions for protecting the lives of those who occupy them.

An English paper says the hopes of those who are looking for the arrival of the Cleopatra's Needle, and expect to find in it either a thing of beauty or a probable adornment of the Metropolis, are likely to be rudely shaken by the disillusioning process adopted by the Board of Works. A wooden imitation of the obelisk has been erected in Palace square, and the effect it produces is by no means pleasing. It at once dwarfs and is dwarfed by its surroundings. The broad massive lines of the plinth bring out in too conspicuous evidence and almost tawdry minuteness of the ornamentation of the House of Parliament; at the same time the height of those buildings is so great that the real grandeur of the monolith is as lost as the spectator, and conveys to his mind no idea of its real size and massiveness. In other respects, the present site is most unhappy. The base of the column blocks up the space between the two gardens facing Westminster Hall, and the Needle itself entirely obstructs the view of the statue of the George Canning from those passing along the road. Similarly, the whole effect of the Peel statue would be lost by those who look at it in face.

Aphorisms.

Judicious advertising always pays. If you have a good thing, advertise it. If you haven't, don't.

If you don't mean to mind your own business, it will not pay to advertise.

Never run down your opponent's goods in public. Let him do his own advertising. No one can censure a man in business who does not advertise, if he has nothing worth advertising.

It's as true of advertising as of anything else in this world. If it is worth doing at all, it is worth doing well.

You can't eat enough in one week to last a whole year, and you can't advertise on that plan either.

A large advertisement once, and then discontinued, creates the impression that the man has failed.

Injudicious advertising is like fishing where there's no fish. You need to let the lines fall in the right place.

If you can arouse curiosity by an advertisement, it is a great point gained. The fair sex don't hold all the curiosity in the world.

Spend Your Money at Home.

The following are the most forcible reasons why you should spend your money at home:

1st. It is your home; you cannot improve it much by taking it away to spend or invest.

2d. There is no way of improving a place so much as by encouraging good merchants, good schools and good people to settle among you, and this cannot be done unless you spend your money at home.

3d. Spend your money at home, for there is where you generally get it. It is your duty.

4. Spend your money at home because when it is necessary for you to get credit, it is of your town merchants you have to get it, and they must wait for the money. Therefore, when you have the cash, spend it at home.

5th. Spend your money at home. It will make better merchants of your merchants; they can and will keep better assortments and sell at lower rates than if the only business they can do is what is credited out, while the money goes to other places.

6th. Spend your money at home. Set the example now. Buy your dry goods, groceries, meats, and everything at home, and you will see a wonderful change in a short time in the business outlook of the place; therefore, deal with your home merchants.

7th. Spend your money at home. What do you gain by going off? Count the cost; see what you could have done at home by letting your merchants have the cash. Strike a balance and see if you would not have been just as well off, besides helping your merchants.

8th. Spend your money at home. Your merchants are your neighbors, your friends; they stand by you in sickness—they cannot keep your business. No stores, then no banks, no one wanting to buy property to settle on and build up your place.

TO BORROWERS.—Do you live in Oregon and borrow and read this paper? If you do, do you think it is right? If you like to read it, there is no reason why you should not pay for it, and thus aid a creditable enterprise. Just imagine that all were doing as you are now doing at this very moment—reading a borrowed paper—how long would there be such a thing as a newspaper office? If you are too poor to pay for it, then we have nothing to say; but that class are very scarce in this country. A man who would read his neighbor's paper week after week just because it don't cost him a cent, would—well, we were going to say steal, but fix it up to suit yourself.

ENCOURAGE STRANGERS.—Just now a large number of persons are coming into the country in search of homes. As a rule they are families with means, but occasionally a poor straggler will be found whose means are exhausted, and who must depend upon employment for his daily bread. In all such cases our cannerymen and men of means should strain a point to help the needy immigrant. Look above your place and find something for him to do, and thus make the stranger feel that he has found a home among a sympathizing and liberal people.

Repp, Damask, Satin-enameled, Porcelain, Transparent-embossed, Marble, and a great variety of tinted Bristol board, suitable for elegant cards for ladies, and hand-some cards for business men; just received at THE ASTORIAN office. Call upon our Frank and leave your order. The San Francisco press says: Work done in THE ASTORIAN office will stand alongside of any city work. It is our intention to do just as well by our patrons as any city, give us the work to do. Every dollar made in the office is invested in the city. Patronize home industries in every line of trade, if you would have your city prosperous.
