Addresses may be changed as often as desired. Leave orders at the counting room.

The Barracouta arrived at Liverpool on the 30th.

Three inches of snow fell in Portland on Friday last.

The Herbert Black arrived at Honolulu on the 27th, of November.

The Bark Edward James sailed from Honolulu for San Francisco on the 5th ult.

The weather at Astoria was of the usual winter mildness yesterday, and the ever welcome rain has taken the place of the beautiful snow—and not a growl was to be heard in all this fair city.

Private dispatches yesterday inform us that the weather has moderated considerably in Portland. It was snowing there, and all along the line, from Kalama up to Ilwaco.

Steamship passengers who are weather-bound at Astoria and have taken up their abode at the Occident are unstinted in their praise of this popular hotel, which is really the best kept house north of San Francisco.

Messrs. J. G. Megler & Co., steamer Edith made the trip to Brookfield and return successfully yesterday. Mr. Megler was thus released from his isolation, and is in the city enjoying the news. The Edith went up as far as Bay View.

The steamship Oregon remained at her berth at the Oregon Steam Navigation company's dock in this city all day yesterday. Commodore Connor thinks he will make a success of his next effort to reach Portland. We sincerely hope that he may not be disappointed.

A man by the name of Haywood, a passenger on the Oregon, was taken into custody yesterday by Chief Barry on a warrant by telegraph from San Francisco, charged with robbery. Haywood's story is to the effect that it is a trumped-up charge, for the purpose of separating him from his wife and children, who are here with him. He has been leading a somewhat crooked life, keeping a saloon in a style beneath his taste, and had become estranged from his family, but with a determination to do better, came to Oregon to resume the status of a man, only to be confronted with new troubles.

Week of Prayer.

The members and friends of the Congregational, Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches will observe the week of prayer by a series of union meetings to be held as follows:

Thursday Jan. 9th, at the Baptist church. Subject, "Prayer for nations; rulers and people; for peace and religion; liberty on the earth."

Friday Jan. 10th, at the hall of the Presbyterian church. Subject, "The press; publishers; editors, and authors; the cause of temperance and their social reforms."

Saturday Jan. 11th, at the Congregational church. Subject, "Home and foreign missions and the conversion of the world."

The services on Sabbath Jan. 5th and Jan. 12th, will be conducted by the churches as usual, separately.

A cordial invitation is extended to all. "O give thanks unto the Lord; call upon his name; make known his deeds among the people."

Printing by Steam.

In consequence of the freeze-up, navigation closed before we received the belting, and one piece of machinery necessary to start the steam engine in THE ASTORIAN office, but thanks to the timely assistance rendered us by Mr. John Fox, chief engineer on the bar tugs, and Mr. G. W. Raymond, of G. W. Hume's works, the engine is now in full and complete running order, and printing by steam was thoroughly inaugurated yesterday, and the engine is pronounced a perfect success. The second trial will be made to-day.

Disreputable Business.

Kentucky is one of the few states in the union which legalizes lotteries. But Kentucky does worse than this. She appoints her own state officers to conduct the lotteries, and appropriates her share of the proceeds towards the building up of a state library. There have been five of these lottery drawings in Kentucky, from which the gross sum of $6,250,000 was realized. Of this amount there was awarded to the holders of prize tickets, $3,142,500. The library was given $24,396.32, and the remainder, $2,683,103.68, stuck to the fingers of the lottery managers. Thus, it will be seen, the library fared worst of all. This sum of $24,396.32, so comparatively small, is but a poor recompense to Kentucky for lending her name to such a disreputable business.

Father DeSmet's Gold Mountain.

We are glad says the Black-bills Times, that that famous mountain of gold seems to have been discovered at last. At any rate quartz has been found in the Rockville district which yields $2.50 to the pound—$5,000 to the ton, and there are immense quantities of it in sight, and there is a story afloat that a solid body of gold has been found weighing several tons.

This mythical mountain of gold has allured many a credulous tenderfoot to roam the hills and gulches in quest of it, but now they can quit their weary pilgrimages, cry Eureka, and take a rest.

A new poet is coming to the front at the east: He threatens to rival the Sweet Singer of Michigan: Here is a specimen chunk cut from his latest idyl:

She leaned upon the fence,
And then she gave a sigh.

And for his footstep down the lane
She waited patiently.

And presently he came to view,
And then she yelled a yell—

A heavenly howl of joy she howled,
And her bosom swelled a swell.

The fine, bracing weather of the past week ought not to be called cold. Take a trip east if you've forgotten what cold weather is.

WHAT WE LIKE.—To hear a man try to borrow his neighbor's paper. And the neighbor have courage enough to reply: "I would as soon loan you my tooth brush" to have a party imagine that he can do as much business without advertising as he can with it; to look at the blank astonishment that settles down on that man's face when, after trying a month, he finds that it cannot be done; to see a man refuse to take his local paper and all the time sponge on his neighbor for the use of his; to hear a man complain when we ask him to subscribe for his home paper, that he takes more papers now than he can read, and then go around and borrow his neighbor's or leaf about him until he gets the news from it; to see a man run down his home paper as not worth taking, and every now and then beg the editor for a favor in the editorial line; to see a man refuse to advertise in a home paper, and then try and get a share of trade that the paper is instrumental in bringing to his door; to see a man who is able to pay for his local paper, always manage to be around in time to read it at the expense of a friend not worth the tenth part of what he himself is, it looks so economical, thrifty, and progressive, you know.

...Mr. J. Stewart, stone and marble cutter of Astoria will guarantee satisfaction to all ordering work of him, and will do a better job for less money than any outside workman. His work in the cemetery here should be sufficient recommendation. Before you let your contracts for work of this kind it would be well to call upon Mr. Stewart.

...Mrs. M. H. Steers has her new stock now open for inspection by purchasers. Dolls of all sizes, and all colors, at prices beyond competition, they are so cheap. Also: Wall-pockets, slipper cases, wall-shelves, children's rocking chairs, picture frames, etc., cheaper than ever.

...Great care has been taken by the purchaser of the stock just opened at the Beehive, to suit the tastes of the people. New music, new books, etc., etc., in fact, you should go and see the nice things in order to know what Mrs. Steers has for you, and how cheap they may be bought.

...Mr. Peter Wilhelm has permanently fitted up a shipmaster's reading room in connection with the Gem saloon in Astoria. The latest shipping papers and homeward and outward bound shipping lists are kept on file. Telegraph office in the same building.

—Dr. Mary Walker comes to the front with the latest "true version" of the Charley Ross story. She says that when he disappeared she hastened to his parents, and gave them not only condolence, but also money, and her personal efforts to fathom the mystery. She stumbled across a bit of information which led her to believe that all was not right, and she finally discovered that Charley's father had put the little boy out to board with a family who were in the conspiracy. She says she did not expose the fraud, because it took her many months to find out where the boy was kept. She claims that Ross has made a large sum of money out of the sympathies of the public, and that he has offered to pay her handsomely if she would keep her knowledge to herself. The boy would have been discovered long ago, and, indeed, arrangements were once made to have the child found in St. Albans, Vermont, but it was known that she would expose the farce, and so he has been kept secluded. She says that within three weeks she has seen and spoken with the child, and that she is acquainted with his entire history since the supposed abduction. She will publish a book in two or three weeks containing the complete story of what she calls the greatest hoax ever perpetrated upon the American people. A good many people have given considerable credence to Dr. Mary's story, while others think it is a shrewd device for raising the wind in a forthcoming literary effort.

—A passenger on the Oregon, name unknown to our informant, left the steamer yesterday in quest of fresh milk for one of his children, and is still missing. His wife is very anxious about him. He was dressed in a gray suit, about 5 feet 11 inches of stature, thin face and light whiskers.
