BRIEF ANNOUNCEMENT.

Schlusset & Kant, at the White House will receive within the next ten days a line of goods for the spring and summer trade that seldom was equaled, and never excelled in this city. Look out for the latest novelties in styles of dry goods, fancy goods, boots and shoes, and especially the complete line of mens and boys clothing. They mean business this season, and will offer goods for the very lowest figures.

A new lot of crockery to be seen at Bailey's.

The Elder has 1,329 tons of freight on board.

Collector Hare returned from Portland last evening.

Mr. Lieneweber is a passenger homeward bound by the Elder.

See late specimens lightning process of photographs, at H. S. Shuster's Art Gallery.

There are now but three vessels offering to charter in this port, and the rivers.

Warren & McGuire have the early rose potatoes for seed. Farmers, please remember this.

The steamship Geo. W. Elder, Capt. Bolles, will probably arrive at Astoria this forenoon.

The steamships Oregon and Great Republic arrived yesterday from Portland, and proceeded to sea.

Adler got away by the Oregon. Go to his store now and help yourselves, at bed rock prices.

Through courtesy of the committee we expect to publish the opinion of Judge Shattuck on the fish law.

Dr. Henry E. Jones and Mrs. H. Savier, of Portland, were married on the 7th of February at Berlin, Prussia.

The Great Republic started to sea yesterday with 1599 tons, laden to 17 1/2 feet. The Oregon had a light cargo, and drew 15 feet.

Water and Squemoche streets should be kept clean by city prisoners. What say you? Chief Barry, and gentlemen of the council?

Dr. J. Welch has arrived in Astoria for the purpose of filling his engagements here, in the practice of dentistry. See card elsewhere in this paper.

The steamship Great Republic returned to the dock last evening as the weather was too thick to proceed to sea. She will leave at an early hour to-day.

Our worthy friend Frank Thompson is having a splendid time at Oysterville. We acknowledge favors from him. May your shadow never grow less, Frank.

To-day at 12 o'clock, at the Walla Walla restaurant, Theodore will serve his patrons with clam-chowder, "gotten up" in the highest style of the art. Epicureans, and lovers of this famous dish should not forget it. Theodore is a caterer that can't be beat in Astoria.

Several vessels heretofore published in our list of vessels on the way, need not be expected at Astoria. We will publish a revised list as soon as the facts can be ascertained. Certain grain speculators who hope to influence prices by refusal of facts of this kind, will find themselves short a peg, by and by.

PEN AND SCISSORS.

The La Grande Gazette has passed into other hands. Snodgrass and Miner are now the publishers and proprietors of that newsy journal. The new proprietors proclaim their intention of running a strictly neutral paper. Please X THEO.

Hon. R. P. Earhart, secretary of state, has decided to allow sheriffs conveying convicts to the penitentiary, and insane persons to the asylum, no more mileage and nothing but the necessary traveling expenses both ways, leaving them to seek redress in the courts.

Depot buildings will be erected at the little town of Clackamas or Marshfield a shipping point of considerable and growing importance on the Oregon and California railway. The accumulated trade has become so great that the agent is unable to furnish necessary store room, hence the move.

The East Oregonian, Pendleton, expresses the thanks of Rev. W. L. McEwan to kind friends who took possession of his home during his absence and made a change in its internal arrangement; and also to all who assisted in raising funds for the purchase of carpet, window curtains, etc. Bro. Turner intimates that Bro. McEwan is about to—well, perhaps; get married.

The Standard tells of a victim of quackery, a young man named Wolf, from Wasco county, who permitted a traveling chiroprapist to cut his corns; and subsequently had to have his foot amputated, and finally died at St. Vincent's hospital on Saturday night. He belonged to an aid society in San Francisco, by which means he was enabled to will to his brother and sister $500 apiece. Probably the Ancient Order of United Workmen.

B. F. Dowell has won his suit against the city of Portland to recover the sum of $86 68, with interest from March 24, 1873, claiming that on that date he paid to the city the above sum for improving a street abutting on a certain lot, and that he recently ascertained that he did not own the lot, and that he paid the same under mistake.

The Jacksonville Times says that if southern Oregon had been blessed with an abundance of rain this season, incalculable benefits would have resulted. The miners were prepared to take out hundreds of thousands of dollars, a considerable portion of which would have found its way into circulation. The scarcity of water will prove a serious injury to the best interests of that section.

The Walla Walla Statesman speaks in high terms of the stage drivers in Uncle Jake Miller's employ, and say: "Billy Glover, Harry Abbott, Butler, Parker and Thomas all deserve high commendation for their attention to their duties." The Columbia Chronicle adds that they have done what few men could, and the people cannot give them too much praise; but that Uncle Jake has also done everything that could be done to insure regularity.

If you would have a law-abiding people, says the Salem Statesman, you must enforce the law by legal proceeding, but when every principle of justice is violated through legal technicalities, you may reasonably expect an indignant populace to take the administration of law into their own hands. The way to cultivate vigilant committees is to trifle with the forms of law. Sharp practices may bring immediate success, but the ends will be disastrous. A reputation for cunning brings not honor, neither is it profitable in the end.

A Weston correspondent says: "Next to the railroad excitement is that caused by Hayes' veto on the restriction bill. All our politicians, irrespective of party, denounce him in unmeasured terms. This is the peculiar prerogative of a free people; but should not be forgotten that the reasons given for his course of conduct and which are unhesitatingly pronounced as timely and weak, are by some able men considered as cogent and constitutional; and that mistaken as he may be, the one who legally holds the highest honor in the gift of this government is entitled to respectful language, from those at least who put him there. Vituperative abuse never accomplishes any great reform.

Important Sale.

To-morrow, at 10:30 A. M. B. S. Worsley will sell, at his auction rooms, a lot of very desirable goods. We refer purchasers to his advertisement, in another column. Don't forget it.

Best Salem flour is sold in this city at $5 50 per barrel by Warren & McGuire.

During the absence of Mr Carl Adler people are invited to call at his store and help themselves to whatever they choose, at bed-rock prices. His present stock will be reduced to make room for a large assortment in new lines of goods.

We are pleased to learn, from the Intelligencer, that Yesler's hall, Seattle, was crowded to its utmost capacity on the occasion of the rendition of the juvenile operas by Mrs. A. M. Snyder's musical class. Everything passed off pleasantly, and the entertainment was a perfect success. The little ones acquitted themselves admirably.

The Roseburg and Coos bay railroad company, a newly organized corporation, has purchased the franchise of the Roseburg and Port Orford railroad company. The new company has a capital of $500,000, and is composed of San Francisco, Roseburg and Coos capitalists. The fresh interest manifested in the enterprise was awakened by the probable passage of a bill by congress appropriating $4,000 for the improvement of Coos bay harbor. As soon as the bill passes work will be commenced.

Have we a Blalock in this county says the Columbia Chronicle, who will build a flume from the mountains to Dayton, for the purpose of floating wood, lumber, etc? Wood sells in Dayton at $5 per cord; hundreds of cords can be sold every winter at that price; it costs about $1 25 to $1 50 per cord to have it cut. It is worth $4 to $5 per thousand to haul lumber from the mills above town. There is a large speculation in an enterprise of this kind, and it will continue to grow more valuable as wood and lumber is being consumed very fast at the nearest point where it can be had.

Two disbelievers in the doctrine of eternal punishment applied for admission to the Congregational church in Henniker, N. H. They were exemplary persons and desirable as members. The church voted almost unanimously to admit them, and to omit, on the occasion of their reception, the word "everlasting" in reading the confession of faith. The pastor warmly defends the course taken, but is censured by many leading New England Congregationalists.

An eminent French coach-maker says: "I never build two carriages exactly alike, not because I build each one as well as I know how, but in building that one I know how to make the next one better. When I placed these carriages of mine in the exposition building, I thought them perfect, but now that I have spent three months looking over the carriages of other builders, I see that they are not so." Here is an illustration of the value of these shows to intelligent tradesmen.

From a correspondence of the San Francisco Bulletin we learn that the state of many towns in Nevada is in a deplorable condition. Many mining towns with a population, a few years ago of five or seven thousand, has been reduced to less than that number of hundreds. These towns were built during mining excitements. They built fine churches, public buildings and residences, which today glare out in desertion before the traveler. To make elaborate buildings, in a mining district, has long since proven a poor policy, and is simply building "your house upon the sand." Rapid growth of a town if it has a country to back it is not detrimental. But Nevada in her sanguine expectations has learned a bitter lesson.
