The Fallinburg has completed discharging her cargo, which consisted of 50 bales of pulu, 20 sacks coffee, 500 sacks rice and 1,379 kegs of sugar. She will have quick dispatch for Honolulu. See advertisement.

In consequence of a failure to elect, Mr. Ben. Young holds over as director, and Mr. T. P. Powers as clerk of school district No. 9, upper Astoria. The tax-payers levied a tax of 2 mills on the dollar for school purposes for the ensuing term.

Dr. F. Crang informs us that he has concluded to remove to Forest Grove in a short time, for the purpose of receiving the benefits of the Pacific University in the education of his daughters. The best wishes of his numerous friends in Astoria will attend him.

Last Thursday night some wretches visited the hen house of Robert Trenchard and stole every chicken but one. They probably left that one for a starter for a new stock, but as Robby has been twice robbed in this manner, within a year, he proposes to go out of the poultry trade until some better protection is afforded citizens against the marauding band of thieves which infest Astoria.

'Tween the Morning and the Night.

[WRITTEN FOR THE ASTORIAN.]

Come sit beside me Edith, and put your hand in mine. And let my hair, now white with years, commingle with yours.

Ab, little thought we Edith, when life's young morn was bright, Of the toil and care and sorrow, 'tween the morning and the night.

Just now led back by fancy, I've been living o'er these years, And all their checkered pathway I have watered with my tears.

But the little mounds beside it where we laid the precious links, From the chain of love's that broken, are still fresh and green we think.

I can see you, my poor Edith, all radiant and fair, And your eyes were dimmed with weeping and your features marked with care.

Our grief was ever bitter, but soon the piece of grief was stilled, Hope spread her gilded wings; the voice of grief was stilled.

'Tis sad, sad, looking backward, let us turn again and view The lovely land of promise that we are And let us trust him Edith, who said, "Blessed are ye that weep."

The hill of life is rugged but its summit we have passed, And the valley stretched beyond it, opens to our gaze at last.

JEAN BROADIE, Astoria, March 21, 1879.

The Best Family.

Sewing machine is the New American, sold in Astoria by Chas. Stevens & Son at the City Book store. It is a light running self-threading machine, in fact it is the only sewing machine which has a self-threading shuttle and self-setting needle. It never breaks the thread; never skips stitches; is the lightest running, and is in every respect the best family sewing machine. Chas. Stevens & Son, agents, Astoria, Oregon.

—Mr. Russell, formerly of Shoalwater bay, has just returned from the Atlantic side, and he brought with him from Philadelphia a drawing of the new steering-gear on the magnificent steamship State of California, soon to arrive here and take her place in the Pacific Coast Steamship company's line. The State of California also wears a head light lighted by electric light, and her engine rooms, saloon, etc, are lighted in the same manner. Mr. Russell has presented this drawing of the steering-gear to Messrs. Megler & Wright, who have placed it on exhibition. We are indebted to Mr. R. for a copy of a pamphlet: "The Voice of the Stars, or the Effects of the Coming Perihelia," by Prof. Grimmer.

—If you have a chronic disease which has resisted the skill of your local physician and your own good care of yourself, place yourself in correspondence with E. B. FORT, M. D., 120 Lexington Avenue, New York City. It will only cost you the postage you put on your letters, as all consultations by letter as well as in person are free. Dr. Fort is the well-known author of Medical Common Sense, Plain Home Talk, Science in Story, etc.
