Novel Temperance Scheme.

The great temperance work now going on in this country, is not confined wholly to the radical organizations of the land, but is receiving much help from a recently inaugurated society of a rather novel character, in New York city. The first public meeting of the "Business mens society," was held a few evenings since at Chickering hall, Mr. F. B. Thuber, well known to Astorians, occupying the chair. There are some new features about this society which render it especially remarkable in this reformatory age. In the first place, its declared object and purport is for "the encouragement of moderation in the use of intoxicating liquors." The occasion of the first public meeting of the society had the tendency to bring out a large audience. Among the prominent persons on the platform, were Dr. Crosby, Peter Cooper, Thurlow Weed, Dr. Frothingham, L. W. Bates, Henry W. Baldwin and Walt. Whitman. Several new songs were sung, prepared expressly for the occasion, and much enthusiasm prevailed among those present, a large portion of whom were ladies. The meeting was opened by a short address from the chairman, in which he explained the object of the society.

As a part of the new base-line of operations, the society proposes to administer three distinctive pledges as follows: 1. A pledge of total abstinence. 2. A pledge not to drink intoxicating beverages during business hours. 3. Not to partake of intoxicating beverages at the expense of any other person whatever, nor to invite another to partake of the same, during a special time. It is argued that the second and third of these pledges will act as entering wedges to the first, and, on the whole make it much easier for many habitual drinkers to thus taper off than to adopt and live up to the total abstinence principally from the start. On the source of economy alone, this society, it is believed, will rapidly grow in strength and popularity.

It is well known that many families in large cities, would gladly dispense with wine at the table could they do so and consistently maintain their standing in the circle of society in which they, by force of circumstances alone, are compelled to move. A great many men of limited means, mingle, together with their families, in the best society in large cities, and they find, to their vexation and sorrow, that the establishment of a wine cellar, merely for the sake of a meretricious and vain popularity, is a continued and ruinous drain on their finances. The expenses for the wine list alone, in some of the aristocratic households of New York city, amount to an enormous sum during the year, and from significant hints thrown out, it may be surmised that many hundreds of the "first families" in our large cities and country towns, will hail with gladness the advent of the "Business mens society," as an expedient and practical means of a deliverance from the wine bibbling thrall.

It is encouraging to know that this new movement is participated in by men well and favorably known throughout the whole country. The present mayor of New York, son of Peter Cooper, has always been a staunch advocate of the temperance reform, an assurance which will prove doubly inspiring to the friends of the cause, when it is coupled with the fact that his venerable father has now come out as one of the principal workers in the new society. It cannot be denied that we are living in the fever-heat of a great temperance reformation, and those devoted men and women who have long stood in the front rank of the contest, have good reason to rejoice at the signs of the times.

The Forger Lane.

The youthful forger, R. L. Lane, who was taken to Portland from Astoria by Chief Barry last week, was met at the wharf by Mr. Sam Coulter, one of his victims. He declined to converse with him, but expressed contrition for his conduct, and said he hoped there was sufficient money enough to indemnify him and Captain Ainsworth for their losses. It was his first offense and he was drawn into it from necessity. The prisoner is really a fine looking young fellow of 21 years, medium height, smooth face, high, broad forehead, ruddy complexion, bright blue eyes, firm-set mouth and chin, a man of intelligence and education, evidently used to moving in good society. He insists in claiming Lafayette Lane and General Joe Lane as his relatives, and also says that ex-Governor Lane of Indiana is his first cousin, from whom he has a bona fide letter of recommendation. His father's name is W. A. Lane, a large land owner and farmer in northern Missouri, worth $300,000. By advice of counsel he refuses to be interviewed, and is very reticent about his affairs, apparently fully alive to the weighty charge against him and his attendant punishment. He claims the forgery for which he is arrested is his first offense, an acknowledgement which bears the impress of truth, considering the bungling manner of his attempted escape. Previous to the commission of the felony, he had a number of photographs taken by Mr. Buchtel, and neglected to call for them, a fact which would have secured his apprehension. He had no thought of forgery until moneyless and unable to secure suitable employment; he saw Captain Ainsworth's signature in the Stine house in Walla Walla, when the idea first suggested itself and was no sooner thought of than executed. He forged that gentleman's name to a pass to Portland on the Oregon Steam Navigation company's boat, and met with such signal success that he concluded to continue the imposition, without any intention of stopping until taken up with a round turn. It is just as well to convince the arrival from Missouri that these little things cannot be done in Oregon with impunity. That he is a practiced expert his work proves, and he would continue at the same business, did he succeed in effecting his escape, is almost a certainty. He is young, strong, healthy and intelligent, and none too good to earn an honest livelihood, like thousands of others who have chosen Oregon for their homes and earn their bread by the sweat of their brows. His work was of too systematic a description to plead youth and inexperience as an excuse.

Harbor of Refuge.

Office Board of Engineers for the Pacific Coast, 301 Kearney street, San Francisco, Cal., May 24, 1879.

On and after the 5th day of June, 1879, public sessions of the board or of a committee of the same will be held at this office. The object of these is to hear the views and opinions of all persons interested in the location of a harbor of refuge on the Pacific coast, between San Francisco and the straits of Fuca. Shipmasters familiar with the navigation of the Pacific coast and all other persons possessed of information on the subject are invited to communicate with the Board, in person, or by letter.

C. SEAFORTH STEWART, Lt.-Col. of Engineers, Pacific Senior Member.

Dr. Mintie's Nephreticum - A Compound Extract of Buchu.

Dr. Mintie's Nephreticum works wonders. In all cases of Dropsy, Bright's Disease, Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Complaints, or Retention of Urine, these troubles are entirely cured by the Nephreticum. Female Weakness, Gravel, Diabetes, pain in the back, side and loin are cured, when all other medicines have failed.

See what the druggists of Portland and San Francisco say about Dr. Mintie's Nephreticum and English Dandelion Pills.

"We have sold a large amount of Dr. Mintie's medicine; the English Dandelion Pills; also the Nephreticum, and in all cases they are highly spoken of and give entire satisfaction."

John A. Childs, druggist, Second street, Portland. C. H. Woodward & Co., druggists, corner First and Alder streets, Portland. Abrams & Carroll, wholesale druggists, 3 and 5 Front street, San Francisco, say:

"We regard Nephreticum as the best kidney and bladder remedy before the public."

For all derangements of the liver, use Dr. Mintie's English Dandelion Pills. For Biliousness and Dyspepsia, use Dr. Mintie's Dandelion Pills. For Fever and Ague, use Dr. Mintie's English Dandelion Pills.

Every family should keep the English Dandelion Pills on hand.

Dr. Mintie's remedies will not "wear all complaints," but if taken according to directions, give immediate relief and perfect a cure in all troubles for which they are recommended. For sale by R. F. Caulfield, druggist, Astoria, Oregon.

There have been more cures of seminal weakness, nervous debility and paralysis made by the wonderful English Remedy, Sir Astley Cooper's Vital Restorative, than by all other remedies combined. Why will you suffer? Send to A. E. Mintie, M. D., No. 11 Kearny street, San Francisco. Price, $3 per bottle; four times the quantity, $10. Try a bottle.

The boss knight of the shining Sheffield blade and a first-class hair cutter, can be found at the Park House. Prices, 25 cents each for hair cutting, shaving, dyeing, shampooing, and bath.
