THE DAILY ASTORIAN will be sent by mail at 75 cents a month, free of postage, to persons who containable residence from the city and have THE ASTORIAN follow them, DAILY or WEEKLY citizens to any post-office without additional expense. Advertisements may be entered as usual, as desired. Letters orders at the counting room.

Twenty Dollars Reward.

Some bill, pretending to be a collector for THE ASTORIAN, made a raise in this city last Saturday. We will give $20 to find him out by name. Mr. C. S. Woodworth or F. W. Bailey are the only collectors employed in the city. We recognize no receipts given by any other person, nor will pay any bills contracted by any other person in our name.

The Falkenburg is loaded and ready for sea.

Do not fail to note the auction sale of E. C. Holden to-day.

The steamer California left for the north on Sunday, with a full cargo.

After a very successful visit to Astoria, Mr. Foley, agent for the Standard left for up river yesterday.

A man named Smith had his leg broke on John Days a few days ago. He was brought to the city for treatment, and Dr. Baker attended the case.

The schooner Alpha, Capt. Starr, will sail for Tillamook bay this morning. She is loaded with a general assortment of merchandise. Capt. Starr expects to get back here in about two weeks.

The North Bend and Trustee arrived at San Francisco on the 16th. The Oregon sailed for this port at 10 A. M. on the 16th. The Rival sails for this port to-day. The North Bend is loading for this port.

For the first time yesterday we saw a live salmon. We witnessed the drawing of the seines of Smith & Co., at Fort Stevens, and Wm. Hobson & Co., at Tanzy point. A live salmon is a fish to be seen, to be enjoyed.

Mr. Peter Wilhelm is in receipt of dispatches to the effect that the steamer State of California had arrived at San Francisco 37 hours and 20 minutes from Astoria. This beats the Oregon's best time an hour and ten minutes.

A private letter from St. John, N. B., informs us that an old friend, the ship Prince Charlie, has been rigged as a bark since she was here. She is still a good sea boat. Capt. Scott of the Prince Umberto has sailed for Cape Town. Capt. Brass is to be shifted to the Prince Regent.

Capt. Parker took his sub-marine armor down to the Republic yesterday, intending that Mr. Edward Spencer would make a dive to survey the bottom, but the weather was too rough. Another effort will be made in a few days. Capt. Parker has a splendid outfit for sub-marine work.

Boat sponges, wholesale and retail at Dements drug store, Astoria. Five thousand just received.

The blue-ribbon club was organized at Tanzy point, Fort Stevens, yesterday. Governor McCabe's private secretary, George, made it pleasant for the party at the gubernatorial mansion on Sand island, and Messrs. Smith, Williams, et al, left not a fish returned at the other ports.

Yesterday we paid our first visit to the Tanzy point fishery. It is one of the neatest, nicest arranged canneries on the river. We suggested one amendment only to Capt. Jim., which, if he adopts it will make him a happy man. He needs a house-keeper. We are under obligation to him for special favors, and will endeavor to reciprocate.

The successors to the Oregon Steam Navigation company, etc., are Henry Villard, James B. Fry, A. H. Holmes and Christian Bors, W. H. Starbuck and Charles E. Brotherton, all of the city and state of New York, and H. W. Corbett, C. H. Lewis, J. N. Dolph, Paul Schulze and H. Thielsen, all of Portland, associated together as a corporation under the general incorporation laws of Oregon, under the name of the Oregon Railway and Navigation company.

SOMETHING MARVELOUS.

E. S. Larsen, of this city, importer of tobacco and cigars, and wholesale grocer, is in receipt of an invoice of the famous Grand Seal Cigar. A San Francisco circular says:

This marvelous and unrivaled brand has just made its appearance on the market, and its popularity is already unbounded. No cigar ever met with such an enthusiastic reception since the invention of tobacco. The doors hadn't been opened ten minutes before the house was crowded, and the standing room was so full of eager purchasers that their feet stuck out through the transom. President Grant sent for the first box, and said he would rather be the man who made that cigar than be president.

The tobacco from which these cigars are made is grown entirely in conservatories, and the cigars are manufactured on mahogany tables by thoroughbred tubans in claw-hammer coats and white kids. When a man smokes one of these cigars he walks on air, and dreams he has a diamond scarf-pin and a sixty-five dollar suit of clothes, and has just married rich. It makes the breath sweet and keeps the teeth white; and will force a mustache on the smoothest lip in five weeks. It improves and beautifies the complexion, eradicates tan, freckles, and dandruff, and imparts to the oldest countenance the rosy freshness of youth.

It permeates the house, window curtains, closets, and clothes with the delicate odors and exquisite fragrance of heliotrope, frangipani, jockey club, and white rose. It will fasten the front gate every night, carry in the paper in the morning, chase the bees of the garden, and blister the boy with the rubber gun. No christian family can properly keep house without it, for the man who smokes this cigar will never cut wood too long for the stove, step on a trail, join a club, or go down town to the post-office after supper.

People who smoke this cigar will live longer, make more money, wear better clothes, drive faster horses, pay bigger pew rent and go to church more regularly, and marry prettier wives than any other class of men. It burns with an ash so white that chalk would make a black mark upon it, and it wouldn't break off and fall inside your vest, not if you were to strike it with an earthquake.

The genealogist of the Washington family has appeared. He has printed a book, and defends his assertions against irreverent newspaper criticism. It appears from this volume, says the Star, and its defence by the author, that George Washington is descended from the Anakim, the giants whom Joshua drove from Palestine, who begat so and so, who in turn begat others, until in the regular line Odin, the head of the royal race of Denmark, was begotten, among whose descendants was Earl Thorfinn, the founder of the Washington family in England. These facts should become generally known. Though plain George Washington wait in vain for a monument, we surely would not try the patience of a descendant of royal Scandinavian ancestry, a relative of the great Rollo of Normandy and William the Conqueror of England.

The little girl prayed, "God bless papa, and mama, and Uncle John, and Aunt Jane, and sister, and brother, and baby, and everybody." But the little sister offered a criticism: "If you'd said 'everybody' to begin with, you'd have got 'em all in and wouldn't have had to make so long a prayer." The hint might serve to a good purpose for some of the brethren whose pulpit prayers are needlessly verbose.

A Miss Stevens of York state, died on May 1st of toothache. Although this is a rare occurrence, it is an undisputed case of death resulting from an excruciating toothache. The victim suffered entire nervous prostration from the extreme pain, and gradually sank until death ended her sufferings. An army surgeon, who attended her, pronounced her symptoms the same as those following the amputation of a limb.

A habit of scolding indicates a want of self-discipline. The machinery has got from under our own hands, and has fallen to grating and destroying itself under the friction and perplexities of life. "Possess thyself" is a more important rule than "know thyself." Without this primary virtue, we are not in a condition to receive much good ourselves or to afford aid to others.

Finest cabinets $3 00 per half dozen; $5 00 per dozen, at Shusters.

A Great Country.

"Westward the course of empire takes its way." It is not necessary to include the colored emigration from the south to establish this fact. The hosts of a grand army are coming from every part of Europe to a land which invites them, and where the broad acres of a happy homestead can be acquired at a mere nominal price. In Dakota the registrar of the land office reports that he has received applications for 192,000 acres in one week. During the same week a registrar in the land office of Minnesota received applications for 500,000 acres. Reports are published from ninety-six western land offices, all of which represent the demand for public lands as greater than it ever was at any time before. The words of the old-time popular ballad are exceedingly appropriate in this connection: "Come along, come along, don't feel alarm, for Uncle Sam is rich enough to give us all a farm."

A grand reception at Yesler's hall will greet the party in the evening. This is one of the most favorable opportunities of visiting Puget Sound ever offered to our people. From Seattle parties can visit every place on the Sound. The excursion is under the auspices of the M. E. church, and superintended by Rev. Isaac Dillon.
