Horse Education

In something written we have an indistinct recollection of having made reference to a general disposition among boys in their teens, as well as boys of maturer years, to enlighten and bless the world with their pro-found knowledge of the horse and his history. Our books and newspapers are full of this kind of literature, and it varies in style from the production possible prices. Call and secure one with: The horse has four legs and a for they must be sold. tail; up to the eloquent tribute of the scholar when he quotes from Job; That his neck is clothed with thunder and the glory of his nostrils is terrible. He smelleth the battle afar off, the thunder of the captains and the shouting. Between these two extremes of the child at his first school somposition, and the professional literature, we have every grade of pretention, and each professing to have mastered the whole subject. As we approach the close of this nineteenth entury, we begin to look for something better in this department of knowledge from those who assume to instruct." And it is to be found in

Kendalls Treatise on the horse, sent by mail to any person for twenty-five cents, postage paid. Apply to The Astonian office, or address D. C. Ireland, Astoria, Oregon, Presiding Elder of the St. Alba & District. St. Annans, VI., Jan. 20, 1880. Du. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents :-- In te-ply to your letter 1 will say that my experi-ence with Kendall's Sparin Cure has been very subfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I proentred a bothe of your agent, and with R, cured a horse of fametness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became-very hume and I turned bin out for a few weeks when he became better, but when f put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bene was forming, I promes a bothe of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle orner be formal. mand of the Lupata at the time of the disaster which has produced such profound regret here, but we are unable to trace a thread or circumstance to establish that fact. There are no letters addressed to him in the Astoria post-office, and we are still of the opinion that the name of the master was Ravens. We have taken extra pains to find out, because of the many friends of Capt. Irven in Asteria.

-The scarlet fever is really alarming people in Portland. The Oregonian says: "It is dawning now upon the minds of citizens of Portland that scarlet fever, one of the most dreaded of all diseases to children, is becoming epidemic. It raged with some violence between the 5th and 15th of Decumber, during the cold season; abated somewhat in the latter part of the month, but with the new year increased again, and has reached such retarding its ravages."

-It is rumored that the Oregon Railway and Navigation company are about to make some important changes in their Astoria docks. The West- their season. seventh street ell is to all be cut away so that river steamers can pass into a large basin between the present steamship warehouses, the warehouses upon what is known as the Farmers dock, and the roadway; the office will be transferred to the building at the the corner. corner of West-sixth and Water streets. This will enable two steamships and Serths at one time, and also a dozen or more river steamers can be accommodated in the basin at one time.
