

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: THURSDAY FEB. 17, 1881

D. C. IRELAND Editor.

The Burdett Coutts-Bartlett marriage, so much talked of and so many times postponed, has been consummated.

King Kalakua will go to Yokohama to arouse a desire among the desirable eastern people for emigration to the Sandwich islands.

Rev. J. B. Hartwell, of the Chinese Baptist Mission, San Francisco, administered the rite of baptism, recently, to a Chinese matron named Fong San Toy.

Major Robert S. Gardiner, U. S. Indian inspector, has arrived in Washington, bringing to the interior department the papers and articles of agreement between the Dakota Central railroad company and the various tribes of Sioux Indians.

The Denver council is a tie on the proposition to make a contract with the Brush electric light company for lighting the city.

A measure is to be introduced into congress giving 650 acres of the public land to any person who will sink an artesian well on the Great Western plains.

The ancient carpet industry of Asia Minor is now threatened by an attempt to introduce modern patterns in place of the old Turkish and Arabesque designs.

The Industry of the Ottoman Empire.

Always excepting agriculture, the chief industry of the Ottoman empire, especially Asia Minor, is the making of carpets.

The head-quarters of the Turkey carpet manufacture is at Ooshak, not far east of Smyrna. At this village there are some hundreds of looms at work, employing about 3,000 women.

At Ghiurdes, another village of artisans not far from Smyrna, the Persian carpets are imitated. This village turns out about 20,000 yards annually.

The figures given above show that Turkey carpets need no longer be the costly luxuries that they were before the development of trade and consequent competition in Europe.

The ancient carpet industry of Asia Minor is now threatened by an attempt to introduce modern patterns in place of the old Turkish and Arabesque designs.

Immigration Statistics.

The New York board of emigration commissioners have made their report for the year 1880, and a synopsis of it is given in newspapers of corresponding date.
