Steamer day-to-day. State of California to arrive; Columbia to sail.

To-day is the 149th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

School taxes for district No. 18, must be paid. See notice in another column.

Messrs. F. J. Taylor, C. J. Trenchard, and Capt. John West returned to Astoria.

Mr. Howard Winter, of the firm of Haggood & Co., Waterford, arrived in the city last evening.

Mr. E. P. Thompson arrived in the city last evening. He will sail by the outgoing steamer to-day.

The American bark Harrison G. Johnson, from this port, arrived at Queenstown on the 17th inst.

Mr. S. Schlusel, who has been for three weeks past under treatment at St. Vincent's hospital at Portland, is rapidly recovering.

The annual meeting of the Pioneer and Historical society will take place at the hall of Rescue engine company to-day at 10 o'clock, a. m.

The building adjoining Hume's lumber yard, sold at auction by E. C. Holden yesterday, was purchased by C. H. Page and will be moved on the lot adjoining the city book store. It sold for $78, subject to a mortgage of $240.

The steamship California, which sailed about two or three weeks ago from Port Townsend for San Francisco direct, will not touch at this port on her return. She was to have sailed on Sunday from San Francisco direct for Port Townsend. On arriving there she will proceed to Sitka.

A large audience assembled at Liberty hall last evening to witness the performance given by the Astoria Dramatic association for the benefit of Grace church parish school. The plays were well selected and rendered with such completeness as would do credit to professionals. It was a decided success.

We regret exceedingly that an item in Sunday's issue caused such a flutter among susceptible bachelors. About forty have accosted us since, seeking information on the subject, which we cheerfully gave, as we have always entertained a heartfelt interest in anything pertaining to the growth of our city.

Messrs. C. Timmons & Co. are building a new cannery at upper Astoria in the same block upon which the cannery of the Fishermen's Packing company. Piles are now being driven and the work of building will soon be commenced and completed before the beginning of the season. The members of the firm are C. Timmons, F. C. Reed, A. T. Brakke and B. Gallagher. The gentlemen are still members of the Fishermen's Packing company.

Two lots of leather, shipped by the Henlock tannery, leaves the Oregon Railway and Navigation company's warehouse by steamer Columbia; one lot to Cheyenne and the other to Chicago. The Henlock tannery, owned by Messrs. C. Leinenweber & Co., was established in 1857, since which time he has gained the reputation of manufacturing the best leather in the world. The large shipments which are constantly being made throughout the entire United States prove this fact.

The Ship Prince Amadeo.

Capt. Linskill, so well known in this city, in writing to a friend here gives the following particulars of his late rough passage from Hongkong to San Francisco: "We sailed from Hongkong, September 20th, encountered a violent typhoon while in latitude 21, 50 north, longitude 115, 23 east, on September 23d. The storm set in from the northeast and shifted around to the southeast. The whole time of its duration was sixteen hours. The sea was so violent heavy and the hurricane blew so that nothing could be done save run before the wind under bare poles. Two of the boats were stove in and rendered useless. The skylight and binnacle were washed away. To add to the dismay of the crew, one of their number was carried overboard by an immense sea. Nothing could be done to save the unfortunate man. His name was C. Cataldo, he was an Italian. Following the storm we had eighteen days of light wind. On the first of October we passed Pratas shoals and saw a steamer ashore. On October the 30th, while in latitude 24, 04 north, longitude 125 east, a second typhoon, blowing from the south southeast and veering to the northeast, struck the vessel, and for twenty-four hours endangered the safety of all on board. The gale was followed by light northeast winds and a heavy sea. A succession of heavy gales from north to north, and veering from north to south, were accompanied by snow-squalls from Bonin islands to 140 degrees west. Latterly the winds were variable and the weather moderate. We arrived in San Francisco after a passage of 106 days."

The Splendor of Venus.

The increasing splendor of Venus must attract the attention of every one who glances at the western sky after sundown. She is fast approaching the earth, and in a few weeks a very slight magnifying power will show her as a beautiful crescent. It is a curious fact that the great brilliancy of Venus has baffled the astronomers who have sought to learn something of the physical aspect of the planet. The most exquisitely constructed telescopes are unable to penetrate the dazzling veil thrown around this planet by the sunlight reflected from its surface. This is the more disappointing, because there are many reasons for believing that Venus is in a condition more nearly resembling that of the earth than any other planet.

"Why should we celebrate Washington's birthday more than mine?" asked a teacher. "Because he never told a lie!" shouted a little boy.

Captain Simmons, of the bark Great Western, has gone east to take charge of the new steamer collier Wilamette, the iron steamship launched on the 1st inst. at Chester, Pa., for the Oregon Railway and Navigation company.

The executive committee having in charge the arrangements for the inauguration ceremonies of General James A. Garfield, has invited through Capt. Wilkinson, the president, faculty and cadets of Pacific university, to be present at the same on the 4th of March. Only colleges where a military officer is on duty is thus honored, hence the Pacific university is probably the only college west of the Rocky mountains, whose officers have received this special compliment.

Mr. F. P. Arbuckle, agent of the Pacific colony, is now on his way to this state from Kansas for the purpose of selecting a location for the members of the same. The colony is to consist of one hundred families from the town of Russell, Kansas, and it is the intention on coming to the great northwest to secure a tract of land sufficient for the location of the entire party, and form a town of their own. Mr. Arbuckle is expected shortly and will start out in search of the desired land as soon as possible after his arrival here, as the members of the colony are anxious to become settled in their new homes.

The wedding of Commander Henry Glass, of the United States navy, now in command of the sloop-of-war Jamestown, stationed at Sitka, Alaska, and Miss Ella Johnson, a well known society bell of Oakland, California, will take place in Portland about the 1st prox. The prospective groom could only obtain twenty days leave of absence from his vessel, and will arrive in Portland about the 28th inst. The intended bride will, accompanied by her mother and sister, her brother, Mr. Frank S. Johnson, and a few intimate friends, meet him here, and upon his arrival the wedding will take place. After the ceremony the newly married couple will leave on the California for Alaska, where they will remain until Commander Glass is ordered elsewhere.

Travels in Alaska.

Archbishop Seghers delivered a lecture on Alaska at The Dalles last week, of which the Times says: "He started for that country in May, 1877, in one of the Alaska Commercial company's steamers from Nainaimo. After arriving he had a considerable distance to travel on foot, and the ground being extremely marshy, the trip was very difficult. The side hills are chosen on account of solid footing, which made the route long and tedious. Winter is chosen as the best season for traveling, as then the lakes which intersect the country are frozen over, and the marshes are sufficiently solid to be walked over without danger.

The speaker related his experience of making two winter trips over the snow and ice to visit Indians in distant parts. At one time he penetrated as far north as to be only twenty-five miles distant from the Arctic circle. His description of the mode of making journeys in sledges drawn by dogs was very interesting. At times intense cold was experienced, the mercury going as low as 60 degrees below zero. At night the place of rest was in "barabaras"—a house dug in the ground by the natives—if he was fortunate enough to reach one; if not, a hole was cut in the snow, a fire built, and there the weary hours were passed until morning. In one of these tours he was accompanied by a Russian and Canadian trader and four Indians. A great many incidents which the speaker related as having occurred on these journeys were decidedly humorous, and the audience were unable to keep sober countenances.

The Yukon river, the Archbishop considered as third on the continent. He had crossed it on the ice 600 miles from its mouth, and it was three miles wide. The river becomes blocked in the latter part of October, and continues so until April. This river has never been thoroughly explored, and its length is not known. It is a magnificent sheet of water in the summer, but presents a dreary aspect when closed by ice gorges in winter.

To illustrate the costume in winter in Alaska, His Grace went behind the scenes, and in a few moments came out arrayed in a coat and hood of reindeer skin, leggings and shoes of seal-skin soles, and uppers of deer skin. He explained the manner of wearing these in extreme cold weather, and also stated that some Indians were in the habit of making their coats of salmon skin, which are impervious to water. Clad in this attire, he gave the audience specimens of some of the songs of the native Alaskans, which evince both melody and time. One, especially, sung by the women, has a very plaintive air. These were a decided improvement upon the guttural lugubriousness indulged in by our Indians.

Mr. Seghers is a very pleasant and agreeable speaker, and all seemed to take great interest in his descriptions. He was frequently applauded, and during some of the ludicrous reminiscences the audience were convulsed with laughter. In a short newspaper article we can barely give a synopsis of the lecture, which occupied two hours and a half, and in the above have but attempted a brief outline of some of the important parts.

Harrison Rice, father of Hon. S. Rice, county judge of Multnomah, who resided twelve miles southwest of Roseburg, died on Saturday from injuries received on Friday while riding a vicious horse from water.

Heretofore the merchants of Idaho city, Idaho, have had their freight taken from San Francisco to Kelton on the Central Pacific railroad, and hauled from there at a cost of $6.50 per hundred. Now they have made arrangements with the Oregon Railway and Navigation company to bring their freight by way of Portland, and by the change will save about $2 on each one hundred pounds.

Attention is called to Holden's new ad. of auction sale this evening of table linen, hosiery, underwear, paisley shawls, etc., etc. Goods are on exhibition at the auction rooms, so that every one desirous of bidding on these goods, has a fair opportunity to judge of their quality before purchasing, and in order to give every one interested a chance to inspect the goods fully, we are requested to state that for that and other reasons there will be no auction sale this afternoon.

Syphon Study Lamp.

Hon. I. W. Case, of Astoria, in placing the new Syphon study lamp on the market, would call the attention of the trade to some of its merits. Its illuminating qualities are not equalled by any study lamp in use. Directions accompanying each lamp. Call upon Mr. Case and buy one. He sells them at remarkable low rates.

From a Prominent Physician.

Washingtonville, Ohio, June 17th, 1880. Reading the advertisement of Kendall's Spavin Cure and having a valuable and speedy horse which had been lame from spavin eighteen months, I sent you for a bottle by express, which in six weeks removed all lameness and enlargement and a large splint from another horse, and both horses are to-day as sound as colts. The one bottle was worth to me one hundred dollars. Yours truly, H. A. Bertolotti, M. D. Read advertisement.

INDEX OF DISEASES.

Which gives the symptoms, cause and the best treatment of each; a table giving all the principal drugs used for the horse, with the ordinary dose, effects, and antidote when a poison; a table with an engraving of the horse's teeth at different ages, with rules for telling the age of the horse; 65 engravings showing the important points in the structure of the horse, also illustrating positions assumed by sick horses in different diseases. A valuable collection of receipts, many of which would cost a horse owner three to five dollars each.

EVERY FARMER SHOULD OWN THIS BOOK.

Thousands who have seen it commend it, and many good horsemen have extolled it in the highest terms, even stating that they prefer it to books which cost $5.00 to $10.00.
