The Weekly Astorian

Is a mammoth sheet, exactly double the size of the Daily. It is just the paper for the fireside, containing in addition to all the current news, choice miscellany, agricultural matter, market reports, etc.

THE CITY.

THE DAILY ASTORIAN will be sent by mail at 25 cents a month, free of postage. Readers who contemplate absence from the city can have THE ASTORIAN follow them.

Steamer day to-morrow.

Page's building is now on the move.

What will be done in Astoria on St. Patrick's day?

Though cool, the weather yesterday was delightful.

The schooner Emily Stephens is the only vessel in port.

Gardening has commenced and button-hole bouquets will soon be ripe.

The bark Serica started up river on Sunday in tow of the Ocklahoma.

Dr. Tuttle leaves for Portland this morning. He will be absent from the city but a few days.

Don't forget to call on Sheriff Twombly and pay your county taxes for 1880, now due.

Hill's brass band occupied the observatory of the Custom-house yesterday and discoursed fine music.

The steamer Quickstep is receiving a new coat of paint and being placed in readiness for the fishing season.

The body of a moon-eyed celestial was taken to the cemetery yesterday and the customary chicken and rice ceremony performed.

Messrs. Gill & Clinton yesterday commenced driving piles for a wharf below the Astoria Fishery upon which will be constructed a large number of net racks for use by that cannery.

The schooner Emily Stephens came down yesterday in tow of the Alice. She is in command of Capt. Forbes, and has a partial cargo of assorted merchandise, for Neah bay, where she will be stationed and enter into the seal fishing business.

A drunken Indian fell overboard at the foot of Cass street yesterday afternoon while trying to get in his boat. The alarm was given by some boys who were watching him at the time. He was promptly rescued by Policeman Riley and young Cody and carried to the city jail by four policemen where he was left to sober off and meditate over his narrow escape.

After a suspense of several months the steamer Katata is again in active service in command of Capt. B. F. Stevens. Yesterday she was placed on the beach to undergo some necessary repairs, and to-day she leaves for St. Helens with a barge in tow for a cargo of lumber which will be taken to Sand island, where Messrs. Badollet & Co. intend erecting the necessary buildings for a fishing station.

We direct attention to the advertisement of Messrs. Ford and Evanson of the Fair Wind Coffee Saloon and Chop House on Water street, near the steamship dock. Messrs. Ford and Evanson have just finished fitting up the above establishment and offer special inducements to all who desire to combine economy with comfort as regards the necessities and comforts of life. Give them a call.

Mr. H. B. Parker informs us that our local item in Sunday's issue contained a very material error. He was made to say that he was aware that to build his steamer here would cost him a thousand dollars more than to build it in Portland, whereas his real impression is that having most of his machinery already landed here and for other local reasons, he can build it for a $1000 less than it would cost him there. A material difference certainly, but everybody knows reporters are, like well regulated facilities, liable to mistakes.

Loss of Cattle.

Numerous stockmen throughout eastern Oregon and Washington, it is estimated, have lost eighty per cent. of their stock, not on account of the extreme cold weather, but because the grass was covered with snow and no food was provided for winter. Ben Snipe and B. Huntington, Yakima cattle raisers, after visiting the range where they have several thousand head of cattle, informed the Yakima Record that they counted in one place on the Miller bottom, Lower Yakima, the carcasses of over 70 cattle which had perished of want and cold. In one day they had counted up 250 head which had perished. Losses are fearful, to say nothing of the suffering which has been and is now hourly inflicted upon dumb brutes. The Baker county Reville says of this: "Men take a purely business view of the matter. They say that stock will live without feed four winters out of five; and that it costs less to lose a certain per cent of stock by starvation than to provide hay for them. But some winters they get bursted out entirely; this will be the case with a good many this winter. We hold that no one has a right to raise stock in this way. Every one who engages in stock-raising should provide feed for his stock, so that he can feed them if necessary. If the winter prove to be mild and his cattle and sheep live without being fed, let him keep his hay or straw for the next winter. A man has a right to make money with stock but he has no right to be so imprudent as to let them starve to death by scores, as many poor dumb animals have already done this winter."

Plans for the Mariners' Home.

Oregonian. The committee to whom the board of directors of the Portland Seamen's Friend society referred the competitive drawings for the proposed Mariners Home, after long and careful deliberation, have unanimously adopted those which were submitted by Mr. J. Krumbine, the well known architect. Subscriptions toward the building fund at this date are reported to be as follows: From New York, $1,000; from Liverpool, England, $500; from Portland, $2,657 50. Total, $4,157 50. All of these subscriptions and payments are a contingent fund, and will be returned to the subscribers if the sum of $10,000 is not raised. The building, 50 feet square, is to be built of brick, three stories high, with a sub-basement, and will be a great ornament and a worthy expression of Portland's enterprise and philanthropy.

The Christian denomination in Washington territory numbers thirteen churches, with a membership of 781.

The County-court of Coos county are soliciting offers for a tract of land suitable for a farm on which to keep the paupers of that county.

Major-William Gouverneur Morris, late special agent of the treasury department of this district, will leave shortly for Washington.

Cats in Goldendale are dying of diphtheria. There is an unlimited field for that disease in this city, provided it would only confine itself to that species of the animal creation.

It is the intention of the stockmen of Baker city to form a society for self-protection against the unusual number of worthless characters and hard cases who occasionally decrease their stock.

The schooner Mose encountered a heavy storm soon after getting out of the Coquille river recently, and was compelled to throw overboard her deck load. It is stated that she had a rather narrow escape.

The Oregon and California Railroad company is having a two million dollar mortgage recorded on its property at the office of the clerk of Clackamas county at Oregon city. The mortgage is drawn in favor of parties in Germany.

The March number of Our Little Ones comes to us beautifully illustrated and full of interesting reading for young folks. It is published monthly by the Russell publishing company, Boston, Massachusetts, at $1 50 per year.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

There can be no question as to the great merit and cheapness of this magazine; in these respects it is not excelled by any similar publication. The number for March contains, as does every copy, 128 quarto pages and over 100 illustrations, together with a beautiful frontispiece, No Rose without a Thorn. The articles Our Monster Telegraph System, by Noel Ruthven (16 illustrations); A Dash Through Connemara, by N. Robinson (9 illustrations); The Trent Affair, by an eye witness (6 illustrations); The Pineapple Trade in the Behauans, by Mrs. Frank Leslie (8 illustrations); Why the Clouds Float, and What the Clouds Say, by Robert James Mann (8 illustrations); and many other articles, are deeply interesting and replete with information. There are excellent stories, sketches, adventures, etc., by celebrated writers; some admirable poetry, and a very large amount of miscellaneous embracing history, science, travels, fun, etc., etc. A single copy of this delightful periodical can be obtained for 25 cents; the annual subscription is $3; six months $1 50, four months $1, sent postage-free. Governor Thayer has commuted the sentence of G. Newman, sentenced August 27, 1878, to three years' imprisonment in the penitentiary for the crime of arson, committed in Clatsop county. Reasons assigned: Uniform good conduct and extra services in the bakery. Newman, it will be remembered, made several unsuccessful attempts to destroy the Oregon Bakery in Astoria.

Madame Anna Bishop—who, since she became in 1831 Lady Bishop as second wife of Sir Henry Bishop, the composer, has passed through two matrimonial metamorphoses of Signora Bochsa and Mrs. Schultz—sings now to a third generation of New York auditors. This would be a notable event of itself. It is the more notable that she sings with much power and sweetness, albeit sixty-six years of age. Her father, Mr. Riviere, a London artist, gave her an excellent musical education which Sir Henry Bishop perfected. She made her first appearance in public as a concert singer forty-four years ago, and afterwards achieved success on the operatic stage. She has sung in every quarter of the globe and in all the capitals of the world, including Astoria.
