 —A reporter of THE ASTORIAN was present yesterday when William Orders, proprietor of the Astoria water works, tried one of the fire plugs at O'Brien's hotel, and demonstrated to the citizens present that he has made a success of bringing water from Cockscombs hill. Mr. Orders is entitled to credit for his energy and perseverance in accomplishing this, as the city of Astoria has long been in need of plenty of good fresh water.

The Concert.
 The concert at Liberty hall last evening by the Espinosa company was well attended and well received by the large and appreciative audience, interrupted only by enthusiastic applause. M. Espinosa, by the way he manipulates a piano, shows that he is a master hand; and we doubt if he has a superior on the coast; while the playing of Mr. August Zech is of almost equal excellence. The singing of Miss Jennie Landmann gives evidence of true operatic training. Miss Sylvia Gerlich has a splendid voice, and her whole appearance on the stage is such as to insure success before any audience. The violoncello solo by Mr. Schmidt bespeaks him a musician. Mr. Kinross is well known over the state and needs no commendation.

It is now stated that Fort Stevens will not be abandoned until early in July, company H, 21st infantry to remain there until that time.

The Church Messenger (North Carolina) states that the "Rev. J. C. Atkinson, late of England, and quite recently admitted to the priesthood by Bishop Lyman, has gone to Oregon." Mr. Atkinson is looked for on the next steamer. Where he will take up his abode is not definitely settled.

A San Francisco dispatch, dated 31st ult., states that the United States steamer Wachusett sails on that evening in search of the steamer City of New York, overdue at that port. A report was in circulation yesterday that the steamer had arrived at San Francisco, but we could not obtain any reliable clue to the report. The City of New York has on board a large quantity of tin, mostly for this river.

In another column to-day will be found a word from a cow in regard to the ordinance recently passed by the common council. The intelligence of this cow is certainly remarkable, and her card deserves the space it occupies. We are not advised whether this cow is a gentleman or not. However, we say bully for a cow. We hope her wants will be attended to by our city fathers best-of-long, and for information we might refer her to the auditor and clerk or city attorney.

We learn on good authority, says the Oregon City Enterprise, that it is the intention to abandon the salmon hatching business on the Clackamas. If this is done it is much to be regretted, and we believe that the cannerymen on the Columbia river will not have to wait long ere they will see their error. The most of the expenditure necessary has already been made. The buildings are in splendid condition and so are all the appliances, the dam is intact and the fish rack is only a little expense every season.

It is a fact that Kendall's Spavin Cure is all it is advertised to be. See their advertisement.

A Word From a Cow.

EDITOR ASTORIAN:
 In to-day's ASTORIAN, I am told, it is said "all cows not complying with the requirements of this ordinance will be taken in charge by the cow officer and if not redeemed, after due notice, will be sold." Mr. Editor, I am an unfortunate cow and I cannot read, and only that I am fortunate in having a master who takes the Astorian and can read, I should never have known the danger I am in. And now—please pardon my ignorance—will you kindly inform me what are the requirements with which I must comply, or run the risk of being arrested by the cow-catcher? Anything I can do I am perfectly willing to do, but ought not your wise councilors to publish in THE ASTORIAN a copy of the said ordinance so that intelligent and law-abiding cows may have a chance to comply with its requirements? And I would suggest, also, it would only be right and proper for them to cause guide and finger posts to be erected defining the city limits to which the ordinance applies. I am sure you will use your influence to secure us these favors, and forgive my boldness in addressing you, when you remember I am only
 A. Cow.

P. S. Please state if the gentlemen cows are included in said ordinance.
 A. C.

—Not the least important feature in Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, is the comfort, buoyancy, and vigor which is inspired by its use, as the patient recovers from sickness. No other preparation known contains the same potent and direct effect on the nervous system.

—COLOMA, Mich., Nov. 4, 1880.—Dr. B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents: Accept thanks for circulars which help us considerably. We are selling a large amount of your Kendall's Spavin Cure which gives great satisfaction. We are authorized to say for Mr. A. H. Sutton, a farmer near here: "I have used six bottles of Kendall's Spavin Cure and cured as many spavins (well marked) on different horses. I consider it a remedy never equalled for spavins or ringbones."
 Yours truly,
 RYNO & GILSON.

—An advertisement is now appearing in the Astorian having faith in itself, as the most effective means for securing for their wares a wide recognition of their merits.

—An advertisement, said one of the editors, "has an effect like that of taking horses to the water—you may do so, but you cannot make them drink." No, but you certainly cannot do so if you do not take them to water. It is doing something to do that.

—We are always ready to publish death notices, if the friends of the deceased will send in the particulars, such as name, date of death, age, etc. This is, we think, as little as they can do, and is as much as can be expected of us. Long obituary notices must be paid for.

—Look at it as you will, advertising carries with it a certain moral influence. Most people cannot resist the impression that a man who advertises a large stock of fresh goods, is more likely to have them than one who does not do so. Advertising has at least one good chance in its favor.

—Why are advertisers able to sell at the lowest prices? Is it not because they obtain the largest custom, by the most reasonable expenditure, and are really able to buy lower than their neighbors. Many people imagine that the effect of advertising is only to enable a merchant to sell. The real active effect on his power to buy well is often lost sight of.

—What pleasure it is to say one's debts! In the first place, it removes that uneasiness which a person feels from dependence and obligation. It affords pleasure to the creditor, and therefore gratifies our social affection. It proclaims that future confidence which is so interesting to a honest mind. It opens a prospect of being readily supplied with what you want in future necessities. It leaves a consciousness of our virtues; and it is a measure we know to be right, both in point of justice and sound economy. Finally, it is the main support of a good reputation. Pay us, that we may pay others.

—Never go shopping without consulting the advertising columns of THE ASTORIAN. They will tell you where the best bargains are to be had, and just what merchants are alive and doing business.

Central Hotel.

The Central hotel, near the steamship dock is now open for the reception of guests, where the well known caterer, Mr. Anton Beloh will always be found ready to wait on his patrons.
