There are men in Astoria who are sensible and wise; whenever they have goods to sell they straightway advertise. And when they find their goods all gone, with all their might and main, they hurry in another lot, and advertise again. Business is business—says the poet.

A few days ago quite a sensation was created among the men at Tillamook creek light upon the discovery that the remains of a woman had washed upon the rock. The remains were found to be nothing more than a cast off hoop-skirt however, and the sensation subsided.

A Maryland man was kicked by a mule just in time to get him out of the way of a stroke of lightning. Some men would have seen a special Providence in this. But he didn't. He cursed that lightning didn't strike him in time to get out of the way of the mule.

The increasing popularity of the cooperative stores in England has furnished the text to Charles Barnard for a brief article in Scribner for April, entitled The Shoppers' Rebellion. He points out the effect which this successful English movement has already had on this side of the water, and predicts a more thorough revolution in the present relations of shopper and shopkeeper.

We found our old friend and fellow Chip, Bob G. Head, chief of the city staff on the Daily Boomerang at Lurline. Bob is looking first rate, and is as straight as an Oshkosh Lucifer. If you wish to read the Boomerang it may be seen at this office, but if you want the story of Bill Nyes meet your mule, you must buy it of the train boys east of Ogden, or from one of Kitchen's clerks on the Union Pacific.

Walla-walla has awoke upon the cow question and now the Statesman says: "If Main and adjacent streets were laid out as a pasture it would be well for our council to leave the cow question as it now stands. But on the other hand, if Walla-walla was not built for the accommodation of cows and their proprietors it would be well to confine them to other places than our streets. A party who cannot feed or pasture a cow has no moral right to own one."

A novelist in Bates county, Missouri, lately wrote Belford, Clark & Co., the Lakeside publishing house, Chicago, inclosing his photograph, concerning a novel, "fresh and pure from his pen" which he requested the firm to bring before the public with a frontispiece of the author, "which I would like to have in the book. Tell the artist to tone down the freckles so that the features may be seen by the observer, and put on a diamond pin, so that it will have that appearance of wealth which the author of a book generally wears." Bill Nye, of the Lurline Boomerang, got hold of the letter and gave the poor devil away.

Thomas Nelson and Sons, Oxford bible warehouse, 42 Bleecker street, New York, in answer to the many inquiries for information regarding the new revision of the bible, state that the new testament will be published probably during the month of May. The old testament not being finished, the complete bible cannot be issued for four or five years. Styles and prices have not been determined on. The trade will do well to reserve their orders for the authorized edition, which will not be equalled for beauty and clearness of type by any reprint. Due notice will be given, prior to publication, giving all needed information not now obtainable.

Somebody put pepper in his cologne bottle, and when he took a sniff at it he got about two spoonfuls up his nose, and the way he sneezed was a circumstance. About the time he had been at it for ten minutes, and was shedding tears copiously, and felt sure that he should loosen his hair at the roots, and perhaps his teeth would come out, a friend entered. "Is anything the matter?" asked the friend. "N-n-n-ca-chor-ooo-ooe-no!" answered Grouty, and then, when he finally got a little quiet, he gave the bottle to his friend and said: "Smell of this." And while his friend was tearing himself all to pieces, Grouty asked: "Is anything the matter, or are you just doing it to kill time?" They are foes now.

Peruvian Bitters.

The Count Cinchon was the Spanish Viceroy in Peru in 1630. The Countess, his wife, was prostrated by an intermittent fever, from which she was freed by the use of the native remedy, the Peruvian bark, or, as it was called in the language of the country, "Quinquina." Grateful for her recovery, on her return to Europe in 1632, she introduced the remedy in Spain, where it was known under various names, until Linnaeus called it Cinchon, in honor of the lady who had brought them that which was more precious than the gold of the Incas.
