RACES OF GLACIAL ACTION IN WASHINGTON LAST WINTER

Washington, April 17.-Geology has demonstrated that in comparatively recent times, some two hundred thousand years ago; a polar climate extended southward as far as to the tropics, and vast of the cavity glaciers moved slowly down our great river valleys. The learned geologist can take you to the hillsides and point out to you the scars left on the everlasting rocks by the glacial teeth as they ground their relentless way down the ravine. He will show you the morraines and the places where the glacier ceased, by melting, and where a stream had its source. He will show you the big boulders, transported for many miles from their native hills; tell you how they were split by the frost; quarried out by the tempest and by gravitation; caught in a glacie after it had

The Countess, his wife, was prostrated by an intermitient fever, from which she was freed by the use of the native remedy, the Peruvian bark, or, as it was called in the harmone of the country. Onlineating danguage of the country, "Quinquina."
Grateful for her recovery, on her return to Europe in 1832, she introduced the remedy in Spain, where it was known under various names, until Linnæus called it Cinchona, in honor of the lady who had becount them that which was who had brought them that which was more precious than the gold of the incas. To this day, after a lapse of two hundred and fifty years, science has given us nothing to take its place. It effectually cures a morbid appetite for stimulants, by restoring the natural tone of the stomach. It attacks excessive love of liquor as it does a fever, and destroys both alike. The powerful*tonic virtue of the Cinchona is preserved in the able to classify them and announce with certainty whether the author of the cavity
