The Oregon reached San Francisco on Friday.
Steamer day. State of California to arrive; Columbia sails.
The Singapore reached Liverpool from this port on the 22d ult.

Mr. C. W. Borroughs, civil engineer of Portland, is in the city.
It costs just a bushel of wheat now, to ship a bushel to Europe from this coast.

Services of the Methodist church, in the Baptist church to-day, at the usual hours, by the pastor.
Fast riding on the streets of Astoria is not only exceedingly dangerous but will not be tolerated.

The Signet cleared for Queenstown yesterday with 20,232 cents of wheat, valued at $27,000.
The Belle of Oregon has at last got started in this direction. She left New York for this port on the 5th.

All hands and the cook struck on the Katata yesterday. A new crew will take the steamer out to-day.
Keel-laying ceremony was running in full blast last evening. It will be held again to-morrow at 2 and at 7 o'clock P. M.

The British bark Earl of Airle, from Wellington, New Zealand, arrived last evening in tow of Brenham, Hanson pilot.

We should like to borrow a copy of Owen Meredith's "Lucille" for a few days, also "Our American Cousin" by Lord Dunsany.

Mr. Holden will to-morrow pack the beautiful wedding presents, from friends of Mrs. Strong, and forward them to The Dalles on Tuesday.

The streets of Astoria looked gay yesterday. There was an unusually large number of ladies out, both on horseback, in carriages, and walking.

Mr. E. D. McKee, general manager for Rodgers, Meyer & Co., of Portland, arrived in the city yesterday, looking after the interests of the firm.

The Standard is sloshing about to try to find out "who is to blame" for the Kate L. Herron disaster. Let us know Brother, when you hit upon him.

Carrie Wood, a poor run besotted cyprian who has given the authorities much trouble here, was yesterday adjudged insane, and will be conveyed to the asylum.

The public school in district No. 18, Astoria, closed on Friday last. Miss Gillam will teach a private school in the district, if sufficient encouragement is offered.

Little Miss Frankie Holden celebrated her third birthday anniversary yesterday. Quite a number of her little friends were present, and they had a very happy time.

The British bark Signet was libeled for wages due to sailors yesterday. Deputy United States Marshal Barry has placed a keeper on board the vessel, Mr. Jas. Christie.

Since the Vancouver Ink Blotch has got to giving Geo. Hill of this city gratuitous advertisements, Hill has extended his area to Chenamus street. The building is almost under cover.

Clinton and Gill returned last evening with their pile driver, having driven fourteen piles for Leinenweber and Cook, Sand Island, and ninety-five for J. O. Hantorn & Co., Ilwaco.

Thieves in and about Astoria are the cheekiest lot of hounds ever heard of. Friday night they stole a horse and buggy hitched to a post on the street, but they could not get away with it for all time.

Mr. O. D. Young, of John Day, gives us hopeful encouragement that the day is not far distant when we can ride from Astoria to his place in a buggy, and enjoy a picnic on as fine grounds as can be found anywhere in Oregon.

The Kate L. Herron
Following is a copy of the log of the ill fated schooner Kate L. Herron, furnished by the master, Capt. Albert Patterson, for THE ASTORIAN:

TELEMOOR BAY, April 27, 1881. At one o'clock P. M. got under way, and started to beat out of the harbor with a strong north west wind, and backing. On the third tack she missed stack and went on to the sands and stuck, with a heavy sea running. At low water on the same day we ran out the log anchor. At ten o'clock P. M. started to leave her. At 11 o'clock parted the chain and went ashore again. There could be nothing more done but let her pond, the sea making a chain break over her. They had to hold on to the rigging to keep from being washed overboard. She knuckled a hole in her and filled with water, wetting everything in the cabin. At low water on the next day we put everything ashore, to wait for further orders.

Non-Compos.
Oregonian, 7th.
It seems impossible for a fellow named Parker, who runs an alleged newspaper at Walla-walla to publish the truth. He is either non compos mentis, or an inheritor of the leading characteristic of Anapias. Whatever may be his fault or his misfortune, he is hardly the person to be trusted with a half of type and a press. Here is his latest and most vicious lie, published in his alleged telegraph columns:

That Glorious Bar!
The Kate L. Herron was wrecked while crossing the Columbia river bar. Her cargo and crew were all lost. This adds another feather in Portland's cap.

Paraphrasing a stanza of Burdette:
How doth the lazy Parker
Improve time as it flies—
And lies, and lies, and lies,
And lies, and lies, and lies.

It is unfortunate that Parker should be permitted to mislead Mrs. Newell's paper as he does.

As will be seen by advertisement elsewhere, Messrs. Balfour, Guthrie & Co. have the Elberbank for dispatch at once to Liverpool direct. Cassed salmon taken in lots to suit shippers.

Mrs. Judge Geo. H. Williams and Miss Williams are returning by the incoming steamer. They will occupy the residence of Mrs. S. M. Smith, Third street, near Stark, in Portland.

Rev. G. H. Atkinson will preach at the usual hours in the Congregational church to-day, morning and evening. The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered immediately after the morning service.

The signs of the times in Astoria, as painted by Stockton, indicate business. He has just put up one one hundred and fifty feet long for Mr. Cohn, and another almost equal to it is under way for Isaac Foster.

About 12 o'clock Friday night a couple of pirates came along to the Elmore Packing company's works in this city, and spying the watchman on the dock sang out: "Watchman heave off that line!" and it was done, as the watchman of course supposed the men were entitled to the boat and net which it fastened—but they were not; and after stealing the net they anchored the boat out in midstream and it cost Sam $10 to get his boat home yesterday. Isn't there a sample of unadulterated brass for you in this transaction.

Fire-brick and fire-clay in lots to suit M. C. Crosby's.

Max Wagner's San Francisco National brewery beer can't be beat.

Molasses chewing peppermints and chewing candies of all flavors, at the Astoria candy factory, opposite the bell tower.

Why will you let your horses suffer from lameness when you can get Kendall's Spavin Cure. Read advertisement.

Since the Chinese started to brew "cheap San Francisco beer" there is little or no demand for that article any more. Call for the Columbia brewery beer, if you want something good.

Birthday Party.
Oregonian.

An event not soon to be forgotten by those present was a party given Monday evening on the occasion of the birthday of Miss May VanDusen, at her residence in Astoria. At an early hour the guests began to arrive, and in a short time the spacious parlors were filled to overflowing by a merry throng of young people, evidently bent on crowding as much enjoyment as possible into one evening. Special provisions were made for those who danced, and they very willingly availed themselves of the opportunity afforded. The music was excellent throughout. A piano duet by Misses May VanDusen and Lou Warren, was specially well rendered. At 12:30 the guests were summoned to the supper-table, over which the fair young hostess presided with dignity and grace, characteristically her own. Dancing was then resumed and followed up until "the chimes of the clock for the wee small hours warned those who toil that the night was spent."

Do not be induced to endanger your life by using mercurial "blood purifiers," they may dry up old sores, but leave a death snap in the system. Buy Fishermens Oregon Blood Purifier, which is a purely vegetable one, and, in fact, will remove, by continual use, all mercurial poison from the blood.

A Mountain Storm.
Oregonian.

The following beautiful scenic description is from the pen of Col. McClure, written to the New York Tribune from Denver, Colorado, in 1867. It gives expression to those emotions common to all on the first view of the sublimities of the Rocky mountains, and is not inferior to D'Israeli's description of a storm, held as a model descriptive composition:

Go where you will in this section, the prospect is most charming, but all is dwarfed by the indescribable grandeur of the mountains. We have read and written volumes about the grandeur of the Alps, but the world has only one such view as is presented from the rolling prairie east of Denver. It is its parallel. There may be isolated views of the Alps as beautifully as any twenty miles of the Rocky mountain range, and the icy land of Russian America has its Saint Elias, that towers higher toward the heavens than the highest of these, but here is presented in one grand view nearly two hundred miles of the Rocky mountains, from beyond Pike's peak far off to the south, thence by the Spanish peaks to Longs peak, and still on toward the north, until the range is lost in the dimness of distance. Black threatening clouds hung about them when first I saw them, and added to the peerless beauty of the scene. Around Longs peak the storm-kings seemed to be spell-bound or held an easy captive, for he had no deliverance until his heavy clouds had been discharged and broken, and his thunderbolts drawn in harmless violence. Far beyond the struggling tempest the setting sun was casting his evening rays through the tossing clouds, and fringing the very lightning with his matchless tints. On either side of the storm he was reaching out his light, flinging the silver lining around the raging elements, breaking in resplendent splendor on the distant peaks, and flashing in almost dazzling brilliancy upon their eternal snows. To the north the sweeping snows, falling and flitting in graceful waves, seemed to defy the lightning's erratic flash, while on the south the bow of promise illumined the heavens. It was the very sublimity of moral and material grandeur, a panorama that God alone could have fashioned. The great snow range is the first to meet the eye, and the observer insensibly wanders along the vast, rigid and unbroken sweep, until it is lost in the deep blue vaulted dome on either side. It has no two points alike, as if the Great Architect meant to confuse the very conceptions of men in this colossal masterpiece of His creation. Yonder is a cluster of peaks as if made up of huge inverted icicles, and beside them it would seem that gigantic snow drifts, with their unique and countless forms, had fallen in. Here is a hillock of spotless white, whose garments change not with the revolving seasons, regular, graceful, rounding with apparent mathematical precision until it finishes with its tapered cap of snow. There are deep ravines, vast gorges and rude, craggy peaks, as if the earthquake had taken the western world in its frenzied arms and tossed its mightiest rocks in wild disorder across the plains. Thus north and south, as far as the eye can see, and for two hundred miles toward the setting sun these vast, snow-clad monuments of omnipotent power present their varied beauties and surpassing grandeur, and I turn from them only when the last ray of the receding sun has parted with their topmost crowns, and the mellow moonlight takes up the grateful task of displaying, through nights weary shadows, this mute but most impressive tribute an all-wise God has reared to Himself.

For a first-class oyster stew, fry, pan-roast or fancy roast, go to Roscoe's on Main street, opposite N. Loeb's. Fishermen supplied by the hundred or the sack, opened or in the shell.

Three years ago St. Julien the great California trotter was unknown, the same may be said of Kendall's Spavin Cure. Now both have a world wide reputation, why? Because they both have merit, one as a great trotter, the other as the most successful remedy ever discovered to be used on man or beast. See advertisement.
