Archibald Forbes, celebrated as a war correspondent, is an invalid in San Francisco.

Gen. Hawley denies that he had a row with Conkling in caucus, or declared he would not vote for Gorham.

A New York dispatch of the 9th says: Mrs. Garfield is seriously ill from nervous prostration, and is threatened with malarial fever.

It is understood that Lamar favored confirmation of Stanley Matthews. The rest of the committee opposed it. Conkling and Garland were absent.

It is now stated that there is no chance of an arrangement between rival Atlantic cable companies, and the prospect is that there will be competition at a shilling per word tariff.

The French ambassador at Constantinople handed the porte a letter Saturday saying that the dispatch of any armed force to Tunis by Turkey would be regarded as an act of hostility.

Senator Frye says that he does not consider it worth while to answer any speeches of democrats in reply to his. The administration had nothing to do with that speech. He alone was responsible for its sentiments.

A contract has been entered into between the Chinese government and a telegraph company, of Copenhagen, for the establishment of a line between Shanghai, and the harbor of Peking. The line will extend over 100 English miles.

Work on 100 stock cars has been commenced in the Oregon Railway and Navigation company's shops at the Dalles. This looks as if the company were going into the transportation of live stock; a branch of transportation which will soon grow to large proportions, and be a big thing for the railroad company as well as for stock men.

Some of the New York dailies are predicting trouble to arise from the great increase in rents which landlords combine to exact. In some cases rents have advanced from fifty to one hundred per cent. There is no corresponding rise in the value of real estate or in the value of the property rented for business purposes. The movement among real estate owners and agents is not a new one. They always resort to the same thing in seasons of prosperity.

The success of the street car drivers and conductors of Chicago has induced the same class of employes in several other cities to imitate their example—those of New York among the number. As there is a reliable knowledge that these men are overworked everywhere, they have the sympathy of the press and people so long as they remain orderly, but lose it by riotous proceedings. The New York Tribune intimates a friendliness to the strikers when it says, satirically: "There has been an impression that car-drivers as a class are slightly overworked, but it must have been erroneous. The statement of one of the strikers shows that the Third Avenue men drive only seventy-five miles a day, and have no less than fifteen minutes for dinner at that."

There are four men in jail in Philadelphia for illegal voting. At the February municipal election, the citizens committee warned repeaters that measures would be taken to protect the polls from fraud, but this warning did not deter old hands from plying their trade. Four have been convicted, and a score are under indictment with prospects of a term in prison. One of the convicted four moved for a new trial, and petitioned to be released on bail. The district attorney resisted the application, which somewhat discouraged the other three, who would doubtless have followed a like course if it had proved successful. It is certainly a hopeful sign when public opinion and the city authorities join their influence to punish frauds at the ballot box. Probably no American city is more in need of such a reform than Philadelphia.

A bill abolishing the tax on shipping has passed the Massachusetts house by a good majority, and was expected to receive similar treatment in the senate. Rhode Island and New York have taken the initial steps looking to the same reform, and it would be a wise move on the part of the legislature of this state to follow the example. The national convention of ship owners and builders recently held in Boston, the board of trade, the New England ship owners association, have all passed resolutions urging that this taxation be removed. There can be no doubt that the local tax upon shipping is a serious impediment in the way of a revival of our shipping interest. The Massachusetts representatives in congress have expressed the opinion that the proposed action on the part of that state will have favorable effect in securing from congress desired legislation.

The following description of the Wood river country, Idaho, is from a letter to the Reno Gazette: This is the country the Bannock Indians fought for several years ago, claiming it as a hunting ground. It is full of game of all kinds—elk, deer, antelope, bear and the lesser spoils of the hunt, grouse and prairie chickens; while beaver, otter and mink abound. The smaller streams are filled with mountain trout, while the river has a seemingly inexhaustible stock of the larger trout. Warm springs are found every few miles. Owing to the elevation (5500 feet) agriculture may not prove practicable, but the numerous valleys of the mountains and Camas prairies to the southwest furnish the finest grazing country in the world—bunch grass thick as it can grow and innumerable streams in every direction.

The best stores made by M. C. Crosby, with fire-brick bottoms, are superior to all others in this market.

Song of the Albany Beer!

Respectfully Dedicated to and Sold by CHAS. GRATKE, - - - ASTORIA.

Good evening kind friends, just listed to me, And when you have heard me, I'm sure you'll agree, I will give you a story, and sing it out clear, And then I'll sing in my song, the ALBANY BEER. You can find it all round in this city of gold, And I'm sure that they make it, has never been told. There's a secret they keep and hold very dear, For the whole country is drinking that ALBANY BEER. The brewery is large and the machinery is fine, And every order is sent to you right up to time. They get all kinds of orders from far and from near, And every man's healthy that drinks ALBANY BEER. For every thing there's a use so clean and so pure, And their beer is so sparkling, it cannot be beat. If you are feeling bad or the blues do appear, You can drive them away by drinking ALBANY BEER.

I have an old father, who's now eighty-three, And this is the advice he gave unto me. He spoke to me kindly with a voice bright and clear: "If you want to be healthy, drink ALBANY BEER." Since then I have done so, and I'm hearty and sound. At the round age of fifty I can always be found At my daily labor before the sun does appear, And each day and night I drink ALBANY BEER. Also, on draught, THE CELEBRATED BOCK BEER. C. GRATKE, - - WELCOME SALOON, Roadway, opposite O. R. & N. Co's Dock.
