A LOST LOVE

Romance of the Recent Royal Marriage.

Cor. Chicago Times.

VIENNA, May 21.—A curious story was whispered in court circles last night, and is repeated again this morning, perhaps with embellishments. It relates to the sudden outbreak of emotion by the Princess Stephanie at the critical moment of her marriage. Once while at Paris, by an accident she met an American gentleman. She and her father were in Paris in cognito, and were living in a quiet manner at a not over-pretentious hotel. The American, ignorant of the real name and rank of the young lady, but charmed with her beauty, grace and simplicity, fell quickly in love with her. Seizing an opportunity one afternoon, the American told her who he was, explained in a very few words that he possessed wealth in abundance and an unsullied name; told her that he admired and loved her, and asked her permission to speak to her father, whom he presumed to be only a well-to-do manufacturer or merchant, and solicit from him the privilege of paying to her his addresses, in the hope of winning her affection and making her his wife. The Princess, to whom all this was like a dream, knew not what to reply; and, seeing her hesitation, the American renewed his protestations, and pressed his suit with such passion that the Princess, becoming alarmed, and catching a glimpse of her father in the distance, hastily fled to him. A few inquiries on the part of the American soon afterward disclosed to him who was the young lady; and this disclosure put an end to what hopes he might have entertained. Upon the return of the king and princess to Belgium, however, he followed them, not with any intention of thrusting himself upon the young lady, but that he might occasionally have the gratification of seeing her at a distance when she appeared in public. This gratification he did receive more frequently than he had hoped, and his passion deepened. The princess was not unaware of his presence, and something like a romantic, although wholly hopeless affection, sprang up between the two. After the announcement of the betrothal of the princess to Prince Rudolph, the American disappeared from Brussels; not, however, without first seeking Stephanie once more as she was driving with her mother, through the park in Brussels. But on her journey to Vienna she saw his face at different stages of the journey. According to the story, as told by one of the ladies-in-waiting, the melancholy and despair manifested by the handsome American affected her. It appears he found his way into the church of the Augustines, and occupied a place near the left side of the altar. It was when happening to raise her eyes in that direction the princess met his gaze, that she broke out into that fit of hysterical weeping which for some moments interrupted the ceremony. When somewhat recovered, she looked again toward the place he had occupied. He had disappeared. Nothing that happens in court circles in Vienna is long concealed, and long before midnight last night this story was being told in the salons of the palace. The American is said to have left Vienna for Paris early last evening.

DIANA'S PHOTOGRAPH.

The way the Astronomers Make the Inconstant Moon Sit.

New York Sun.

"Do you think I don't know the moon from a peeled orange?" was the half-indignant, half-laughing exclamation of a young lawyer who was shown a stereoscopic picture of the earth's satellite in the writer's presence. Probably he is not the first intelligent person who has made the same mistake. In truth, a common photograph of the moon does bear a striking resemblance to a peeled orange. The great crater, Tycho, looks like the nib whence the stem has been removed, and the long lines of trap rock, or whatever they may be, that radiate from the crater, resemble the whitish streaks marking the divisions of the orange. But in larger and better photographs, and especially in those taken of one of the quarters, instead of at full moon, all resemblance to an orange is gone. Where the line of daylight falls, the saucer-shaped craters, with their sharp central mountain peaks, and the long, jagged shadows cast by lofty ranges, are revealed with surprising distinctness. Photographs of the moon are not mere scientific curiosities. They not only serve a useful purpose in astronomical research, but they have a commercial value. Few collections of stereoscopic views are destitute of one or more of these photographs. They are as popular as the pictures of some actresses. The way these views are obtained is interesting. Everybody knows that a stereoscopic picture of a person or a waterfall is got by combining two pictures of the object taken from different standpoints, so that each shows a little around the corner, and the two being combined make the object appear to stand out in lifelike perspective. To produce the same effect with the moon, advantage is taken of the fact that she librates, or rolls a little upon her centre, in swinging about the earth, so that at one time we see a little more of one side than usual, and at another time of the other side. When two photographs of the moon taken at opposite librations are combined by the stereoscope, the lunar orb seems suspended before the eyes like a ball that the hand can only celestial object whose picture can be taken. Photographs are also made of the sun, showing the spots and phenomena of eclipses. Venus and Mercury have been photographed when in transit across the sun's disk. Even stars can be photographed, and recently Prof. Draper succeeded in photographing the great Nebula of Orion, which astronomers believe to be an enormous mass of gaseous matter containing in itself the germs of future worlds and suns.

New Road to Tillamook.

McMinnville Reporter.
Mr. A. Tyler of Forest Grove was in town a day or two ago, and from him we learn that a new wagon road is being constructed over the mountains from the Grove to Tillamook. About two dozen men are engaged in removing the timber from the route, and others are at work with oxen and plows upon the grading. Several miles of the road have already been made, and it is the determination of its projectors to push the work ahead with all possible speed, promising to have it through to its western terminus by the 1st of July. Portland people have contributed liberally to the enterprise. It is said there is a lot of fine land along the route, which will be made valuable by the opening of the road, and this fact is at the bottom of the project. The route strikes the Dougherty river about half way from Forest Grove to Tillamook, and runs down along that stream to connect with a road already opened some distance from the Tillamook settlements, up the Dougherty. The route is said to be an unusually easy one to traverse, and with comparatively little improvement can be made so that a team can go over it easily with a load of fifteen hundred pounds.

The Popular Vote for President

I am referred to you as authority to settle a bet between myself and another party on the popular vote for president. The bet is as follows: That Hancock would receive more of the popular vote than Garfield, or the greatest number of individual votes. Please inform me how it is.
You lose your bet. According to the Tribune Almanac the vote is as follows: Garfield, 4,450,921; Hancock, 4,447,888; Garfield's plurality, 3,033. Later and officially corrected returns give Garfield, 4,446,638; Hancock, 4,443,106, or a plurality for Garfield of 3,522. The total vote cast for Garfield, Hancock, Weaver and Dow was 9,207,779.

Bayard Taylor as a Letter Writer.

Congregationalist.

Taylor was a scholar in several literatures, but he was never a man to be satisfied with a smattering in any language. What he got he worked for, and so it was worth having when he made himself master of it. Letter-writing seems now-a-days a "lost art." In the hurry of this present busy world there is not sufficient leisure for elaborate correspondence, as there formerly was in the days of Cowper and Gray, two of the most charming epistolary geniuses that ever lived. But Taylor, like Dickens, among modern authors, excelled as a letter-writer, and his brief notes were sure to contain some felicitous expressions, some humorous quip, worthy to be remembered. When his memoir is written, as it is sure to be before long, it is to be hoped his letters will be collected and given to the world with the story of his remarkable career as a traveler, poet and novelist.

A Winter Incident in Iowa.

Keokuk Gate City.
We have no objection to forgetting the last winter and its storms, but one of its most noticeable last snow-flakes is a story of a young Bohemian couple living near Glencoe, Iowa, who met with a peculiar experience during the last snow-storm. They were living in a little shanty under the hill, which was covered in a drift, and the husband dug his way out and went over to one of the neighbors. Another storm coming up, he was unable to find his way back, as nothing of the house could be seen. It was three days before they could find the house, which was finally done by sounding with a pole. They dug through the drift and found the young wife as comfortable as could be expected for a girl just married and her husband gone.

Wild Canaries.

London Field.
From nearly every garden in Manila the rich notes of the wild canary can be heard, and in the opinion of many its songs are preferable to that of its more brilliant domestic brother; for, without the shrillness of the latter, it has very nearly its compass and fullness of tone. It generally chooses the topmost branches of a tree and pours forth a little flood of music, which it sustains even when flying from one tree to another. Occasionally, though rarely, it will also sing from the tops of houses. Ornamental furs and other thick foliage trees are its favorite building places, and it is not uncommon to find five or six nests in the same tree. The song is continued more or less throughout the year, but in the winter many pack in flocks with the finches and goldfinches.

Buy the Weekly.

THE WEEKLY ASTORIAN for this week is full of just such information and news of the country as your friends in the east want to see. It has very few advertisements, and is a check to the muzzle of information that no family can successfully squeeze along without. Two dollars will buy the whole year for a year, $1.50 for six months, or ten cents per copy.

Ice Cream Saloons.

Frank Faber's ice cream saloon, on the roadway near Humes mill, is now fitted nicely with private rooms for ladies. It is also the depot for choice confectionery, taffy, etc. Remain punch served to order.

Oars, Oars.

Oars, eleven feet; caustic soda, golden lacquer, asphaltum varnish, furniture varnish, tan baak, etc., in quantities to suit at
Geo. W. Humes.

The Central Hotel.

One of the finest, cleanest and best kept hotels in Astoria, situated near the steamer landing, with first class, airy rooms, good board and very reasonable rates. Bar and billiard rooms. The best of wines and liquors, and an excellent glass of San Francisco beer. ANTON BELON, Proprietor.

—Blocks of paper, useful on the desk of accountants, put up to order and for sale at THE ASTORIAN office.

—Peter Wilhelm has established a first class saloon in C. H. Page's building, on Squemoche street, near the bell tower, and has appointed Messrs. Wm. Beck & Co. his agents. The best of everything in the line of wines, liquors, beer, cigars, etc., will be kept on hand.

Peruvian Bitters.

Cincinnati Raber.

The Connection was the Spanish Viceroy in Peru in 1639. The Countess, his wife, was prostrated by an intermittent fever, from which she was freed by the use of the native remedy, the Peruvian bark, or, as it was called in the language of the country, "Quinaquina." Grateful for her recovery, on her return to Europe in 1652, she introduced the remedy in Spain, where it was known under various names, until Linnaeus called it Cinchona, in honor of the lady who had brought them that which was more precious than the gold of the Indies. To this day, after a lapse of two hundred and fifty years, science has given us nothing to take its place. It effectually cures a morbid appetite for stimulants, by restoring the natural tone of the stomach. It attacks excessive love of liquor as it does a fever, and destroys both alike. The powerful tonic virtue of the Cinchona is preserved in the Peruvian Bitters, which are as effective against malarial fever to-day as they were in the days of the old Spanish Viceroy. The Bitters are the ingredients of these bitters to be absolutely pure, and of the best known quality. A trial will satisfy you that this is the best bitter in the world. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating," and we willingly abide this test. For sale by all druggists, grocers and liquor dealers. Order it.

The New School Books.

Messrs. Chas. Stevens & Son have a full supply of text books lately adopted by the state, and which must be introduced in the public schools by or before October 1st, 1881.

The following books are offered at introductory rates, but not on exchange: Watson's Third Speller, Watson's Fourth Speller, Watson's Youngs Speller, Montiel's Easy Lessons in Popular Science, Lyles Book Keeping, Westlake's Common School Literature, City Book Store, Astoria, Oregon.

Letter From Mr. Davidson.

Astoria, May 26, 1881.
Editor Astorian:—It is with pleasure that I call the attention of your readers to the fact that I have established a branch photograph gallery in Astoria, opposite the Court-house. I earnestly invite every citizen of your town and vicinity to visit it and examine the display of pictures, firmly believing that the verdict of each one will be that my work is not only of the best but that the prices are reasonable. All the finishing will be done at my house gallery in Portland and mailed direct to the customer. The operator in charge is an accomplished artist and has an abundance of patience with children and nervous people. I am prepared to do all kinds of viewing, coloring, copying, and enlarging to any size. In all respects, I feel sure that my customers go away satisfied, and respectfully solicit their patronage. Very truly,
J. G. DAVIDSON, Photographer,
Corner First and Yamhill streets, Portland.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting their teeth, or so on at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere, 25 cents a bottle.

Barnett's Cocaine for Loss of Hair.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11, 1880.—Three years ago my hair was coming out very fast, and I was nearly bald. I was also troubled with dandruff. I began using Barnett's cocaine, and my hair immediately stopped coming out, and has constantly been getting thicker. My head is now entirely free from dandruff. My wife has used the cocaine with equally gratifying results. P. T. Platt, with F. McVeach & Co.
Barnett's extracts are the purest fruit flavors.

Have Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry always at hand.

It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, whooping cough, croup, influenza, consumption, and all throat and lung complaints. 50 cents and $1 a bottle.

For a first-class oyster stew, fry, pan-roast or fancy roast, go to Roscoe's on Main street, opposite N. Leck's.

Families supplied by the hundred of the sack, opened or in the shell.

Song of the Albany Beer!

Respectfully Dedicated to and Sent by
CHAS. GRATKE, - - - - - ASTORIA.

Good evening kind friends, just listen to me, and when you have heard me, I'm sure you'll agree.
I will give you a story, and sing it out clear, and the name of my song is the ALBANY BEER.

You can find it all round in this city of gold, and the way that they make it has never been hid.
That's a secret they keep and hold very dear, for their whole country is drinking that ALBANY BEER.

The brewery is large and the machinery is fine, and every order is sent to you right up to time.

They get all kinds of orders from far and from near, and every one is healthy that drinks ALBANY BEER.

For every thing there looks so clean and so bright, and their beer is so sparkling, it cannot be hid.

If you are feeling bad or the blues do appear, you can drive them away by drinking ALBANY BEER.

I have an old father, who's now eighty-three, and this is the advice he gave unto me.
He spoke to me kindly with a voice bright and clear, "If you want to be healthy, drink ALBANY BEER."

Since then I have done so, and I'm hearty and sound, at the round age of fifty I can always be found.

At my daily labor before the sun does appear, and each day and night I drink ALBANY BEER. Also, on straight, THE CELEBRATED BUCK BEER.
C. GRATKE, - WELCOME SALOON, Roadway, opposite O. R. & N. Co's Dock.
