Eastern Crop Prospects.

Wall street is a very unreliable place to get news, and at present the organs of that quarter are engaged in building the wheat market. If there is any truth in the statement made, however, the prospects for the farmers on this coast are more encouraging than heretofore. The New York Indicator some days since gave an estimate showing a heavy decrease in the yield of cereals this year, and follows it up by the annexed statement which certainly has some merit to attention of the trade. It says:

Estimates from persons of recognized ability to judge regarding the probable result of the winter wheat crop are not very encouraging. Messrs. McCormick, Adams & Co., of Chicago report that if from this time everything goes on favorably the deficiency in the winter wheat harvest may be safely estimated at one hundred millions of bushels, as compared with last year's crops. This firm has special facilities for the obtaining of information of this character, owing to its connection with the McCormick reaper company, which makes it a point to be accurately informed, through its various agencies, upon a subject so vast to its interests.

Lyon & Co., the great corn and wheat commission merchants, place the loss in the winter wheat states, as against the crop of last year, at one hundred and seventy-five millions of bushels, while the estimate of Messrs. Wm. T. Baker & Co. places the deficiency at one hundred and twenty-five millions, and publish the same in their circular, giving it as their decided opinion that none of this can be spared for export. In addition to this, the news comes from the agricultural department at Washington, that the area under cultivation in spring wheat this year is twenty per cent less than that of last year. If these estimates are at all near the truth—and coming from the sources they do they can scarcely be set aside—the prospects for the railroads this summer and fall cannot be considered as flattering. The deficient crops will react most unfavorably upon their earnings, and as a matter of course, the stock market will sympathize with the situation.

A rich native recently died in Bombay who had led a rather wicked life, and in order to secure his eternal welfare, his widow went to the priest to obtain for her departed husband a letter of introduction to the Archangel Gabriel. The priest informed her that, owing to the acknowledged wickedness of her husband, it would be difficult and expensive to appease Gabriel, but that it might be done for 500 rupees. The money was paid and the woman received a letter which enjoined Gabriel to take good care of the new comer, and to grant him a separate bungalow and a pomegranate tree. The letter was tied to the neck of the corpse, after which it was buried. A son, however, of a skeptical turn of mind, whose intellect had been sharpened by an English education, strongly disapproved of the expenditure of 500 rupees under such circumstances, and secretly removed the letter of introduction. He then indorsed upon it, in a clever imitation of the handwriting of his father, a statement that the latter, having duly presented his credentials to the Archangel Gabriel, had received, instead of the separate bungalow and a pomegranate tree; nothing but abuse. Armed with this letter the lad visited the priest and informed him that he should invoke the aid of the police for breach of contract unless the 500 rupees were restored forthwith. He promptly received the money.

The first act of the Star-route drama ends with a disappointing tableau. We have insisted all the while that nobody must be condemned merely on trial by newspapers. Such fellows as A. M. Gibson must not be allowed to destroy the reputation of the humblest citizen.

Germany to Establish Colonies.

One of the oddest phenomena of modern politics is the growing desire of the German empire to establish colonies. Nor is the motive which prompts this desire less curious. It seems that the chancellor of the empire has got it into his head that the emigration of able bodied young men from Germany, which this year is assuming formidable dimensions, can be checked by starting German colonies in the Samoese, Japanese or other remote islands of the Pacific ocean, that may be open to acquisition. The emigrants to such colonies would, of course, remain German subjects, and as such liable to military duty and imperial taxation. But it would seem to us that this very reason, which lies at the bottom of Bismarck's new pet project, will work against it. The people who emigrate from Germany do so mainly to escape the tyranny of military conscription, and hence will not be anxious to take up their homes in colonies where they would remain subject to the same odious burden.

Ice Going South.

It is not so very long ago that a theory was broached regarding the accumulation of ice in the Arctic regions which must unfailingly upset the equilibrium of our planet by a preponderance of weight on its northern side. We are happy to be able to assure our readers now that never before in the history of navigation were seen such vast ice-fields as now float daily southward by way of the Atlantic. Which means that our good mother, the earth, intends to maintain her equilibrium by sending her matricidal-intent ice accumulations in the north southward to be there properly melted. It is the old story of the earth conspiring with her son Saturn to overthrow the reign of Uranus. The melted icebergs are as important to produce mischief as Uranus was after his conflict with Saturn.

The Japanese Style.

The Japanese editors have been getting into trouble. Nearly all the principal ones have been fined and imprisoned, just as they treat editors in Russia. It seems that two of the imperial ministers had addressed a document to the government depreciating the existing system of interference in matters of trade, and pointing out that a system of free commerce, similar to that in vogue in England, would be much more to the general advantage. This document was surreptitiously obtained by the editor of a leading journal, who printed it, and it was straightway copied into nearly all the other papers of the country. Hence the punishment referred to. Japan is rapidly adopting European ideas, only she seems to get them from the wrong end of Europe.

The Nevada and Oregon.

Ashtad Tidings.
Hon. J. S. Herrin tells us that his son in San Francisco, W. F. Herrin, met Col. Moore, one of the chief managers of the Nevada and Oregon railroad enterprise, a short time since. Col. Moore said that some New York capitalists were much interested in the projected road, and that if a practical route could be established from the Oregon line across to the coast at Port-Orford, they would furnish sixty per cent of the money required to build the road. He said further that he intended to make a personal examination of the proposed route this summer, entering Rogue river somewhere about the Meadows, following the river down until the rough, bluff banks are approached, and then striking off across the dividing ridges to Port-Orford. Mr. Herrin, of San Francisco, who is much interested in the scheme, and has talked with a number of railroad men about it, reports that Leland Stanford has said that this projected line of railroad offers the best field for enterprise and capital of the openings of new railroads on this coast, inasmuch as it would occupy a field free from competition.

Modern Excavation Mania.

Since the days when the cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum were again brought forth to the light of day, the excavation of ancient ruins seems to have been developed into a perfect mania. From Nineveh, in Asia, to Carthage, in Africa, there has been an amount of digging done that would be a credit to our gold-mining regions. The tombs of Egyptian kings have been made to tell the story of the oldest civilization known to the world; Assyrian tablets to suggest the wild career of Nimrod and the strange legend of the tower of Babel; and in Greece and Asia Minor the splendid epics of Homer and the weird tragedies of the Greek poets have been made manifest to the eyes of man. On the American continent explorations and excavations are constantly going on, and it is now almost a certainty that the profound mystery which envelops the history of the red race will soon be dispelled. We shall know what manner of men were those who built the mounds of Ohio, Illinois, Missouri and other states, and those who constructed the wonderful cities that lie now as ruins from Arizona to the southern part of Central America. An odd feature in this modern excavation mania is this, that it is made to pay. Schlieman might have made many thousands, or perhaps hundreds of thousands, out of his discoveries at Mycenae and Troy, had it not been for his love of art and the generosity that prompted him to make a donation of his most valuable collection of ornaments and curiosities to the German empire, not to mention his gifts to Greece and Turkey. We all know how much Mesnola got for his Cyprus collection. And now Mr. d'Herisson has returned from the ruins of Ulica, in northern Africa, to Paris, with a collection of art objects that are said to be worth fully five times as much as the $20,000 originally invested in the enterprise by Messrs. Rothschild, Richard Wallace, Cayen d'Anvers, Alexander d'Gardin and Count Camondo. Mr. d'Herisson says further that from the one city of Ulica alone he might have brought home about four times as many objects of equal value, and that there are in that whole region, once the empire of Dido, some three hundred such cities in ruins. Among the discovered treasures are statues of the finest Greek workmanship, urns, lamps, rings and vases. The number of Mr. d'Herisson's treasures is over 2,500, and he spent only sixty days in digging these out from under the sand which now covers the city that was once the pride of the Carthaginian empire, but which has fallen into decay ever since the followers of Mohammed got possession of it.

Peruvian Bitters.

—The Count Clinch was the Spanish Viceroy in Peru in 1630. The Countess, his wife, was prostrated by an intermittent fever, from which she was freed by the use of the native remedy, the Peruvian bark, or, as it was called in the language of the country, "Quinina." Grateful for her recovery, on her return to Europe in 1632, she introduced the remedy in Spain, where it was known under various names, until Linnaeus called it Cinchona, in honor of the lady who had brought them that which was more precious than the gold of the Incas. To this day, after a lapse of two hundred and fifty years, science has given us nothing to take its place. It effectively cures morbid appetite for stimulants, by restoring the natural tone of the stomach. It attacks excessive love of liquor as it does a fever, and destroys both alike. The powerful tonic virtues of the Cinchona is preserved in the Peruvian Bitters, which are as effective against malarial fever today as they were in the days of the old Spanish Viceroys. We guarantee the ingredients of these bitters to be absolutely pure, and of the best known quality. A trial will satisfy you that this is the best bitter in the world. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating," and we willingly abide this test. For sale by all druggists, grocers and liquor dealers. Order it.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!
Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, it will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it, there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, but who will not say at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is never injurious to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, sold everywhere, 25 cents a bottle.

An Unrivalled Hair Dressing.
Promoting rich and cleanly appearance as if nature alone had imparted it. Burnett's Cocoa is the best and cheapest hair dressing—kills dandruff, cures itching scalp, and promotes a vigorous and healthy growth of the hair. No other compound produces these results. The superiority of Burnett's flavoring extracts consists in their perfect purity and great strength. They are warranted free from the poisonous oils and perfumes, commonly used in the composition of many of the fashionable fruit flavors now in the market.

Have Wistar's balsam of wild cherry always at hand. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, whooping cough, croup, influenza, consumption, and all lung and lung complaints. 50 cents and $1 a bottle.

—Look out for a big lot of San Francisco National brewery beer to arrive by steamer Oregon, at Max Wagner's agency.

Song of the Albany Beer!
Respectfully Dedicated to and Sold by
CHAS. GRATKE, - - - - - ASTORIA.
Good evening kind friends, just listen to me,
And when you have heard me, I'm sure you'll agree,
I will give you a story, and sing it out clear,
And the name of my song is the ALBANY BEER.
You can find it all round in this city of gold,
And the way that they make it has never been told.
That's the whole country keep and hold very dear,
For the whole country is drinking that ALBANY BEER.
The brewery is large and the machinery is fine,
And every order is sent to you right up to time.
They get all kinds of orders from far and near,
And every one's healthy that drinks ALBANY BEER.
For every thing there looks so clean and so good,
And their beer is so sparkling, it cannot be sold.
If you are feeling bad or the blues do appear,
You can drive them away by drinking ALBANY BEER.
I have an old father, who's now eighty-three,
And this is the advice he gave unto me.
He spoke to me kindly with a voice bright and clear,
"If you want to be healthy, drink ALBANY BEER."
Since then I have done so, and I'm hearty and sound,
At the round age of fifty I can always be found.
At my daily labor before the sun does appear
And each day and night I drink ALBANY BEER.
Also, on draught, THE CELEBRATED BOCK BEER.
