For The Astorias

So guickly flash, with glance and gleam,

A thousand things that come and go,

And cause the tides to ebb and flow A sad sweet strain, that 's borne along By breath of wind; a bit of song: A few foul words when dear friends meet The music of a laugh that's sweet; The sympathy that prompts a sigh A winsome face that passes by ; Brief joys, that stay their little while A kindly glance, a loving smile These ever come and ever go,

And, like the tides, they ebb and flow A lovely landscape, fair and bright One moment seen, then lost to sight.

The gorgeons clouds at set of sun. That crown the day when it is done: The curling smoke that floats away ; A snow wreath on a winters day ; Ail these, like waves that ebb and flow With ceaseless throb,—still come and go. LLW ACO, July 21st, 1881.
