MY ADVICE TO YOL.

Must I do as you do? Your way, Is a very good way : and, still, There are sometimes two straight roads to a

Lown. One over, and one under the hill,

You are treading the safe and well-worn wa That the prudent choose each time, And you think me reckless and rash to day Because I prefer to climb.

Your path is the right one, and so is mine. We are not like peas in a pod, Compelled to lie in a certain line Or else be scattered abroad.

Twere a dult old world, methinks, my frier If we all went just one way, Yet our paths will meet no doubt at a Though they lead apart to-day.

You take the shade and I take the sun : You take an even pace ; I like to mix with the strong, and run

I take danger and storm and strife You take a peaceful time. I take the passion and surge of life You take its gentle rhyme.

And then rest, after the race.

You take buttercups, dewy sweet. And crocusses, framed in snow I take the roses, born of the heat, And the red carnations glow.

I must live my life, not yours, my friend, For so it was written down. We must follow our given paths to the end But I trust we shall meet -in town. -Ella Whee
