THE DAILY ASTORIAN will be sent by mail at 75 cents a month, free of postage.

Owing to some injury to the machinery of the California near Portland, she will not leave for some days yet.

Mr. J. A. Vaughan has returned from McMinnville. He says he doesn't like it up there and can do better here.

Mr. Severance, the enterprising agent of Davidson, the Portland photographer, folded his tent last evening and leaves for home to-day.

Speaking of the recent shipwreck of the Alice Buck, the Alta thinks that for the sake of humanity an investigation should be had.

The Lanarkshire has finished unloading ballast at the wharf, and is now loading salmon. It will probably be a week before she is ready for sea.

The observatory on Hansen's new building is assuming definite proportions. It is somewhat unique in architecture, being less of a Doric than a Tusco-Gothic design.

The ladies of the M. E. church will give a social at the residence of Mrs. C. Brown this (Friday) evening.

Portland had a case of "mysterious disappearance" last Monday, but a telegram from the n. d. from Astoria that he was "all right," and would be back on the next steamer calmed all fears.

Fall opening at Mrs. H. A. Dorby's of trimmed bonnets and hats on Friday, October 7th, 1881.

Considerable improvement is manifest about the Custom House. The fences are receiving several coats of much-needed paint, and is being hauled on the grounds, and a general cleaning up is going on.

Doctor Watts, the eminent temperance advocate, will lecture to-morrow evening at 7:30 p. m. in the Congregational church.

In the official journal of the Oregon Methodist Conference, Astoria is placed in the Puget Sound district; this district is credited with five schools, 1,431 scholars, and seventeen churches, valued at $27,800.

The receipt is acknowledged of a neatly printed pamphlet, bearing the imprint of the Walla Walla Statesman office. It sets forth the advantages of the upper Columbia country and is well gotten up, reflecting credit upon its publisher, F. T. Parker.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Riley, who has long suffered from consumption, passed peacefully away. She leaves a boy ten years old, and a sorrowing husband to mourn her loss. Her remains were placed on the Portland boat last evening, and will be interred at East Portland, the home of her childhood.

The conservatory of the Occident is in fullest bloom and freshest fragrance this week, several rare exotics having bloomed during the last few days. The report that Megler & Wright contemplate having it heated by steam and giving Saturday afternoon concerts therein is, we believe, without foundation.

After examining the various plans submitted to them, says the Seattle Intelligencer, by different engineers, the Columbia and Puget Sound railroad have concluded to build their new wharf at Seattle of large piles, driven close together, and copped or sheathed with the heaviest ship metal, thus securing them absolutely against the ravages of the teredo.

To the Reading Public.

If you know anything happening, or going to happen, and if you think that it would make other people wiser or better or happier to know it, sit down and write to us, telling us all about it.

The Lockett will go to sea to-day. A bark was reported outside yesterday.

The Misses Crosby returned last evening.

We met a free American of foreign dialect yesterday who said that he had forgotten all his French, and had n't learned any English. That's a bad fix for a man to be in in this country.

Senator Slater passed through Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory, last Wednesday, on his way to Washington. He is expected to reach Washington by Sunday next, in time for the opening of the special session of Congress.

Attention is directed to the advertisement in this morning's issue relative to the letting of contracts for street repair. So far the contracts have been generally taken by the resident property owners and the work is done in a manner that speaks for itself.

The bashful young man who asked a lady on Cass street yesterday if he "could see her home," was much surprised to hear her reply, "that he could go up and see it if he wanted to, but she didn't think her father wanted to sell," then she coolly walked off with the man of her choice.

The American bark Belle of Oregon, 1163 tons register, 151 days from New York, Matthews master, arrived yesterday, Columbia towing, Hanson pilot. The Belle of Oregon is a Portland vessel and was named after Mrs. R. B. Knapp of Portland, who was some years ago considered the belle of Oregon.

Below the Belt.

The San Francisco Chronicle has the following in reference to the dramatic troupe that recently started in this region: "The Sheridan party has returned from Oregon in splendid health, with much gained flesh, sun-tanned faces, and with high-strung spirits over the rarity of sustained good business. From all reports Sheridan could have stayed as long again in the country without endangering his popularity, and it was only the recall from his nervous manager that brought him back so soon. The route included Oregon, Washington territory and British Columbia. The repertoire was made up of eight pieces; the company numbered about a dozen, with R. M. Eberle as stage manager and a bouncing 'Gratiano.' Of all his characters, Sheridan's 'Richelieu' was best liked, next his 'Rover' in Wild Oats, and last of all, his 'Louis XI.' The people did not appear to understand the wretched old French King, and from putting up the piece as the opening attraction it was gradually degraded to the place of last attraction. Some curious stories are told of the audiences in the more retired localities. At one, during a performance of Richelieu, a man in the orchestra loudly declared that he 'didn't think much of the old man with the cough, but the fellow in the grey coat ('Joseph') made a good 'Muldoon.' At another place, during a performance of Hamlet, a man fainted when the skull was thrown up out of the grave, and was carried out of the house as limp and white as a washed sheet.

Shingles are in great demand at Astoria. The M. E. church is delayed for want of them. Mr. Hartwig has laid upon his contracts in this city thus far this year 186,000.

The British ship Tait Sing, 815 tons register, Crompton master, 37 days from Shanghai, arrived last evening, Columbia towing, Maledon pilot. The Tait Sing left London on the 6th of May last for Shanghai, remaining there 20 days when she left for Astoria, arriving here in just five months from London, a remarkably quick passage.
