

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: WEDNESDAY, JAN. 18, 1882. J. F. HALLOMAN, Editor.

A Very Plain Matter.

An article in the Oregonian of the 16th, entitled "A plain word or two about a plain matter," sounds in substance a good deal like Villard's speech in Portland last fall, when he told the folks to the tune of "great applause," that they could build warehouses and buy and sell wheat on the Sound. It seems an affirmative echo of his advice, where the Oregonian says: "If for the purpose of illustration it be conceded that Portland cannot be a place of actual shipment, and that the vessels which carry our grain to market must load elsewhere, her commercial status will not be affected appreciably." The invidious word "our" tends to mislead the reader and misinterpret the facts. Yet upon reading the article in question, in reference to places of loading ships, it is no point of objection from our standpoint that it should think so, or that Portland should continue in the speculating in wheat, while we take the shipping, stevedoring, etc. Besides carrying the grain to Astoria it is probable that some of the buying and selling can be done here also, but at best the system of grain and charter speculation in Oregon is only a substitute for the stock gambling of San Francisco, with its puts and calls, its bulls and bears, its shorts and margins, it being a business as risky for loss as the stock business without the corresponding opportunity to make. The Oregonian's article further instances the fact that though many vessels load at Benicia and other points above San Francisco, yet to the merchants of the metropolis directly accrue the profits. This is not entirely so. We are cognizant of several instances wherein vessels were chartered to load at Benicia and coming there were loaded with no more reference to San Francisco than had that city not existed. But wherever parallels or analogies may be drawn, Portland papers can hardly institute successful comparisons in the case of San Francisco. That city may compare itself to Sacramento. A little over one hundred miles down the Sacramento is the natural entrepot for the buying, selling and handling of grain; a little over one hundred miles down the Columbia from Portland is the coming rendezvous for the shipping business of the Northwest. This may be more than our contemporary will be willing to admit, but we speak of it simply in this manner—that it is a patent fact, a fact that would exist whether discussed or not, and one that cannot be prevented any more readily than it can be hastened; events and their inexorable logic being the producing cause in both instances.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1882. THE SUN for 1882 will make its fifteenth annual revolution under the present management, shining, as always, for all, big and little, mean and gracious, contented and unhappy, republican and monarchist, depraved and virtuous, intelligent and obtuse. THE SUN'S light is for mankind and woman-kind of every sort; but its general warmth is for the good, while it pours hot discomfort on the blistering backs of the persistently wicked. THE SUN of 1882 will be the same outspoken, truth-telling, and interesting newspaper. By a liberal use of the means which an abundant prosperity affords, we shall make it better than ever before. We shall print all the news, putting it into readable shape, and measuring its importance, not by the traditional yardstick, but by its real interest to the people. Distance from Printing House Square is not the first consideration with THE SUN. Whenever anything happens worth reporting, we get the particulars, whether it happens in Brooklyn or in Bohemia. In politics we have decided opinions; and are accustomed to express them in language that can be understood. We say what we think about men and events. That habit is the only secret of THE SUN'S political course. THE WEEKLY SUN gathers into eight pages the best matter of the seven daily issues. An Agricultural Department of unequalled merit, full market reports, and a liberal proportion of literary, scientific, and domestic intelligence complete THE WEEKLY SUN, and make it the best newspaper for the farmer's household that was ever printed. Who does not know and read and like THE SUNDAY SUN, each number of which is a Golconda of interesting literature, with the best poetry of the day, prose, every line worth reading; news, humor—matter enough to fill a good-sized book, and infinitely more varied and entertaining than any book, big or little. If our idea of what a newspaper should be pleases you, send for THE SUN. Our terms are as follows: For the daily SUN, a four-page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, post paid, is 25 cents a month, $6 25 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight-page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 45 cents per month, or $7 75 a year, postage paid. The Sunday edition of THE SUN is also furnished separately at $1 25 a year, postage paid. The price of the WEEKLY SUN, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, post-paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free. Address: T. W. ENGLAND, Publisher of THE SUN, New York City.
