—The Shubrick is back from Fort Canby.

—The County of Argyle came down yesterday.

—Deep snow and violent storms in the mountains.

—It was snowing heavily at Bay View yesterday.

—Christian Peterson has been appointed postmaster at Olney, Oregon.

—An effort is being made to consolidate school districts Nos. 4 and 16 at Knappa.

—The first law suit ever had at Jewell was tried before Justice Walker on the 4th.

—Mr. Stewart climbed a tree near Salem last Friday morning and died in its branches.

—Four new members were elected to Astoria Engine Company, No. 1, last Monday night.

—It cost Mr. Failley, of the Dalles, five dollars to push a young lady off the sidewalk into the cardinal mud.

—"Old Probabilities" telegraphed at midnight on the 6th, that for the Pacific coast there would be local rains; he hit it.

—There are still two or three cases of scarlet fever, and we also hear of two cases of pneumonia. Otherwise the community is in health.

—Puget Sound loggers are paying big prices for men. So are loggers in this vicinity. There is money in the business for employers and employed.

—Four inquiries at this office yesterday for houses. Lend us $10,000 somebody, and we will have eight houses built and rented by April 1st.

—A Portland cow swallowed a hair pin and died. The postmortem disclosed the fact that the bifurcated appendage had penetrated the pericardium.

—A private letter from Mr. D. P. Thompson says that he is doing what can be done for the appropriation for improvement of the bar at the mouth of the Columbia.

—The Oregonian very justly "goes after" the system of buying goods from drummers. These fellows are a constant drain on the communities that support them.

—The Maryland legislature has very sensibly done away with the tariff of $4 50 on marriage licenses in that State, on the ground that it discourages home industry.

—The British bark Goodwood cleared yesterday for Rochefort, France. She carries 32,896 bushels of wheat which the custom house authorities have valued at $32,537.

—Mr. Stone, of Knappa, has brought down a petrified root of fir, which contains free milling iron ore. It has been placed among many other curiosities in the cabinent of the Occident.

—Mr. I. N. Foster, of Jewell, called yesterday. He reports two feet of snow in the mountains, roads almost impassable, plenty venison, good health in the neighborhood and everybody busy.

—Captain Morgan, of the Magnet, is about to join the aesthetes. He blew his whistle the other afternoon just after the Portland boat had whistled, and when asked why, said that he would have a little toot, too.

—The Oregonian has attained its majority, and grows confidential. 'Tis a good paper, with its little defects and inconsistencies. It sometimes has a bombastic way of announcing its sentiments that is intensely 'funny, especially when it tries to talk ex cathedra.

Police Court.

Organization.

At the Young Men's rooms to-night, at 7 P. M., Captain Nesbit, of the Carnegij, will organize a lodge of World's Good Templars. This organization is to be devoted especially to the benefit of sailors and longshoremen. All candidates for initiation and all others who may desire to join are earnestly invited to be present.

—The Clatsop county court meets to-day.

—The sale of the effects of the Harvest Home was postponed yesterday. It will take place at Holden's auction rooms this morning.

—The official title of Mr. John Muir, of the O. R. & N. Co. has been changed from "general freight and passenger agent," to "superintendent of traffic."

—An opium den was pulled Monday night and the unfortunate hitters of the joint were permitted to add to the city treasury or languish in captivity according to the statutes for such cases made and provided.

—At Shoalwater bay, the Simpson Bros. have a three-masted schooner well advanced. She is all ceiled up, and decks laid, and will be planked up by the end of January. A keel has also been laid for a new barkentine for Captain Glaser and others. She will be 120 feet long, and will carry 750,000 feet of lumber.

—Rumor hath it that General Sherman, Chief Justice Waite, and other distinguished men, expect to visit Oregon and Washington Territory during next summer. They will come over the route of the Northern Pacific, crossing the mountains on the hurricane deck of mules, and will reach Astoria some time in August.

—The residents of Jewell are now supplied with flour by the mill at Vesper, twenty miles above, being brought down the Nehalem in boats, and delivered at five dollars per barrel. Lumber is rafted down from Riverside, thirty-five miles above, and Vernona fifty miles, being delivered at $10 per thousand.

—A child of Mr. McKeever's recently fell into the Fishhawk, but was rescued after drifting a hundred yards down the stream; not satisfied, the following week the child swallowed a pin, from the fatal consequences of which he was also saved. When the child gets to be a man he will, doubtless run for office.

—The committee of management for No. 1's masquerade ball on the 14th of February desires to state that they have selected four very handsome prizes to be given to the handsomest lady and gentleman costume, also the best sustained characters for lady and gentleman. Prizes on exhibition at Dement's drug store.

—The senate committee on military affairs have agreed to recommend passage of Senator Grover's bill to reimburse the State of Oregon for its expenditures in suppressing the Modoc Indian hostilities in 1872 and 1873, with an amendment reducing the total amount to be appropriated from $131,000 to $70,268, a reduction of nearly one-half.

—We are indebted to Hon. M. C. George for a copy of the report of the United States Geological Survey. It is a very interesting work. The map that accompanies it is not remarkable for its accuracy. Cities of 6,000 people are carefully left out, and places that, to our certain knowledge, have only a saloon and a blacksmith shop, are carefully marked down; but yet it is a very creditable affair and about as reliable as most of the current literature of the day. We are also in receipt of a communication from some high Washington official requiring us to acknowledge the receipt of the aforesaid work.

—Any one wanting rope, suitable for sails, or in need of counter scales can get them from Capt. Berry.

—The "Always Handy" stovepipe shelves at John A. Montgomery's.

—A new lot of fur trimming, all colors, below San Francisco prices, just received at the IXL Store.

—You need one of those masks at Adler's for the coming ball.

The Queen of the Pacific.

Yesterday's New York Tribune has the following:

Cramp & Sons launched at their ship building yard in Philadelphia recently, the steamship Queen of the Pacific for the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company. She was christened as she touched the water, by Miss Cole of Staten Island. She is built of iron, and when she reaches Portland will be the finest and strongest specimen of marine architecture in the Pacific trade. She is built well, is 336 feet in length, 38½ feet beam, 22 feet depth of hold, and has capacity for 2,500 tons of cargo. Her accommodations for cabin passengers are different from those usually provided upon sea-going vessels, there being 49 staterooms on the upper deck and 13 on the main deck, fitted up tastefully and even elegantly. The staterooms are 10 feet long and 7 feet wide, thus being more spacious than usual. In addition there are four bridal rooms on the upper deck, which are to be furnished in the best manner. The dining saloon is 86 feet long, and 30 feet wide, the joiner work being like that of the City of Puebla, acknowledged to be superior to anything ever seen on steamships. The social hall is a spacious apartment which will be furnished with a fine library and piano. All of the latest improvements have been applied to compound engines and boilers to make them serviceable, durable and economical. The promenade deck extends from the pilot house to the stern. The ship is brigantine rigged with two iron masts. She will be supplied with steam power for handling cargo and steering the vessel, and with electric lights.

Formally Transferred.

It is reported that the transfer of the Pacific Coast Steamship Co's property to the Oregon Railway and Navigation company was formally made Saturday. While control has passed from Goodall, Perkins & Co., that firm will still retain the agency, and will also be given the agency of the Oregon company's steamship division, which has up to the present time been vested in Capt. Oterendorp, at 210 Sansome street. There will be few changes in the steamship company, either in its employes or in the time table.
