The State of California is due this morning.

The Oregon was to leave Portland at midnight.

California fears a dry year the coming season.

Large quantities of ice are being stored up the river.

An Episcopal church mission is being held in Portland.

Portland visitors congratulate Astorians on the fine weather.

What is the body but a suit of clothes, worn out, and then thrown away.

Captain Wolfe, of the wrecked bark Ranier, leaves a widow in Port Gamble.

Blaine will deliver the eulogy on Garfield in the House of Representatives on the 27th inst.

The Carnegie cleared for Queens-town yesterday with 54,144 bushels of wheat on board, worth $53,529.

The Colfax Postmaster in strict compliance with the Sunday law will not open the office on the first day of the week.

THE WEEKLY ASTORIAN, full of news, in wrappers, ready for mailing, is on the counter, this morning. You need one to send home.

Any of our weekly subscribers who have not got their receipts for the ensuing twelve months can be accommodated, when in town, by calling any time.

C. J. H. Lindgren died suddenly of apoplexy yesterday morning. The funeral will take place from his late residence at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The Eastern papers are arguing the same question that Mr. Acton spoke so positively about in his recent lecture here: "Was Grant surprised at Shiloh? When that is settled, the next in order will be an inquiry as to whether or not he was surprised at Chicago.

In the vicinity of Heppner, Umatilla county, there are over 200,000 sheep. These will average six pounds of wool apiece or 1,200,000 pounds, which at an average price of twenty cents per pound yields $240,000 a year.

Dr. Agnew, one of the leading physicians of the country, says that all houses built with a view to the health of its occupants should be built so as to allow a clean sweep of air and light beneath them. Which the same is correct. See what a low death rate Astoria has.

We again call attention to the condition of the buildings dignified by the name of "school houses." If parents had fine blooded colts, that they expected would make good time and win a purse some day, they would not allow them to be in such dreary quarters as the little folks spend one fourth of their time in.

There is said to be a band of wild cattle ranging over the Chelatcho country, W. T., which is yearly augmented by accessions from the settlers' stock. But a few years since there was a band on the East Fork, Cowitz county, but owing to the assiduous efforts of certain public spirited citizens it was slowly but surely exterminated.

On account of bad roads no provisions could for some time be sent to the Chinese railroad hands at Yaquina bay. When "Chinese Charley," their contractor, appeared among them astride a cayuse sans rice or flour, they immediately lassoed him and strung him up to a tree, where he would have perished but for the interference of some white men.

Grand Raffle!

The elegant American gold watch, worth $150, the chances having all been taken, will be raffled for at 8 o'clock p. m. Saturday, February 12, 1882, at the Parker House. All interested will please take notice.

Hurtful to Astoria's Salmon Interests.

A Chicago dispatch of the 8th contains an opinion from A. Booth, in which he says: "I have no sympathy with the practice of labeling canned salmon with any label but that of the cannery in which it is packed, as the large salmon canning interests of the Pacific coast will suffer an immense injury if this illegitimate practice is not suppressed. I unhesitatingly denounce this practice and see no explanation for it except a desire to foist inferior goods on the market under cover of well known brands. I understand that parties on the Pacific coast feel much aggrieved by the false labeling of these goods, having been thereby obliged to meet unfair and illegitimate competition, and I have been informed these parties are in possession of certain facts bearing on what has been said, which they will gladly publish." All of which is manifestly correct.

Get out a Pamphlet.

We are in receipt of letters every week asking for information about this section; the soil, climate resources, population, etc. Now wouldn't it be a good idea for our Astoria Chamber of Commerce to get out a pamphlet with statistics and information, and have it sent broadcast. If any one, or two, or three of them will get it up and bring it along, we will do our part by putting it into type. We are sending papers now to nearly all inquirers, but think it would be better to have something in the way of condensed information to send them. Now, don't say "That's so," and then forget all about it; work it up.

The Salmon Hatchery.

It was decided last night by the directors of the Oregon and Washington Fish Propagating company, who hold a hatchery on the Clackamas river, to turn the establishment over to the government. Details of the transfer will be made public at the next meeting of the board of trade, to be held Monday night.—Oregonian 9th.

DeLong's Party.

The following dispatch from Lieut. Danehower, dated Irkutsk, Feb. 4th, was received at Paris last Wednesday: DeLong's party is between stations Buleur-boloni and Sisterouk-Ustoleonok, in a narrow wilderness eighty miles long; devoid of habitation and game. J. J. Collins volunteered to stand by the dying seaman, Hans Erickson.

We hear of no accident to the shipping yesterday, all holding well.

Capt. Whitecomb, of the Gen. Canby, reports the storm even more severe than that of Jan. 9th, two years ago.

On account of the blow yesterday the Emma Hayward lay some time at Oak Point, and the Fleetwood at Skamokawa.

The road from Ilwaco to the beach is full of trees and the mail yesterday had to be carried on horseback and by a different route.

Just before the arrival of the steamer at Ilwaco, yesterday, the warehouse on the wharf was blown down and some of the shingles and sheathing were carried as far as the hotel, a quarter of a mile away.

Mr. Case received a telegram yesterday from Lieut. Gooding, stating that his little daughter Edna, had died of typhoid pneumonia. The little girl will be remembered with regret by those who knew the family while the Lieutenant was here on the Corwin.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said a blundering counsel in a suit about a lot of hogs, at Winnemucca, "there were just 36 in the drove. Please remember the fact—36 in the drove; just three times as many as in that jury-box, gentlemen." The Silver State says that counsel didn't gain his case.

Where the Compass Needle Really Points.

The reason why the needle points in a northerly direction is that the earth in itself is a magnet, attracting the magnetic needle as the ordinary magnets do, and the earth is a magnet as the result of certain chemical facts, much affected by the action of the sun. These laws have periodicities, all of which have not as yet been determined. The inherent and ultimate reason of its fact in nature, as gravity, light, heat, etc., is not known further than that it is in harmony with all facts in nature. Even an earthquake is in perfect harmony with the direct resultant of the action of forces acting under general laws. A condensed explanation in regard to the needle pointing to the northward and southward is as follows: The magnetic poles of the earth do not coincide with the geographical poles. The axis of rotation makes an angle of about twenty-three degrees with the line joining the former. The northern magnetic pole is at present near the arctic circle on the meridian of Omaha. Hence the needle does not everywhere point to the astronomical north, and is constantly variable within certain limits. At San Francisco it points about seventeen degrees to the east of north, and at Calais, Me., as much to the west. At the northern magnetic pole, a balanced needle points with its north end downward in a plumb line. At San Francisco it about dips sixty-three degrees, and at the southern magnetic pole the south end points directly down. The action of the earth upon a magnetic needle at its surface is of about the same force as that of a hard steel magnet, forty inches long, strongly magnetized, at a distance of one foot. The foregoing is the accepted explanation of the fact that the needle points to the northward and southward. Of course, no ultimate reason can be given for this natural fact in nature.

Triumph of an Oregon Grass Widow.

Jane R. Ramsey, who when a blushing maiden of 18 summers, married Robert L. Forbes at Plymouth, Michigan, and after coming out to live in Oregon in 1863, deserted him the following year, on which account he obtained a divorce from her in 1869, has lately obtained $5,000 damages from Wm. P. Ridgeway, at one time clerk of the Lick House and afterwards a partner in the Grand Hotel, San Francisco, for breach of promise. The San Francisco papers give a full account of the trial, and describe the injured party as a snowy haired lady of regal appearance and 55 years of age. After ten long years of mutual admiration and love Ridgeway broke his plighted vows and the court allowed her the $5,000 as a healing balm for her wounded heart. The Standard is of the opinion that should she now return to Oregon and bring along the coin acquired at the expense of much suffering, she would have no difficulty in finding one to take the place of the faithless Ridgeway.

The Storm.

Yesterday morning the winds which had been having a regular night of it out at sea, came sweeping landward, and a squall from the southwest struck this peninsula. The rain fell in torrents, the wind blew in short, sudden blasts, and out in the bay the whistling of the wind through the rigging of the ships, and the dashing of the waters that were lashed into foam, formed a combination unusual and unpleasant. Through the town signs, windows and chimneys suffered, and one or two smaller buildings were unroofed. Considerable damage was done in the matter of smashed glass and other brittle ware, and one or two injuries resulted. In Warren & Eaton's the glass of the front window blew in, and striking an employe, named Weiler, in the back, cut through his clothes, inflicting an ugly gash. A little girl, whose name we did not learn, was also blown down and badly hurt. Case and Conn seemed to have fared the worst in the matter of broken glass.

Did Not Organize.

It was proposed to organize a subordinate lodge of the order of Good Templars of the World last Wednesday night. Rev. J. T. McCormack had spent a month in working up the business, and quite a company met at the Y. M. C. A. hall. A deputy of the Right Worthy Grand Lodge of the World was present to install the officers and organize the lodge. The names of all present were taken and a dollar with each name, the offices of the lodge temporarily filled, and all was going on smoothly when a member asked: "Can a member of this order belong to any other order of Good Templars?" This created a little rustle, which increased, when it was announced as the decision of the R. W. G. T. of the World that he could not. The members of the L. O. of G. T. present rose to depart and others followed suit. It was found that not enough would remain for a quorum. Initiation fees were returned and all went home.
