—The Yaquina will be down from Portland to-day.

—Bathing parties to Young's bay will soon be in order.

—We notice some beautiful styles of millinery at Mrs. Derby's.

—Lieut. Price and party are surveying the bar this week.

—The Oregon is due this morning, from San Francisco, with 151 cabin passengers.

—An advertisement in the East Portland Vindicator says: "Leave your empty houses with Matlock, Kirk & Co."

—Mr. Kann announces a special auction sale for the ladies at half-past two this afternoon at E. C. Holden's auction rooms.

—The Portland editors have got so far along in the exciting work of saving the country that they are calling each other "polecats."

—Shad is now caught at Ilwaco and other points on the Columbia. The flavor of this fine fish makes it a favorite with ichthyophagoi.

—Attention is directed to the new advertisement of the Pacific Mutual Life insurance company, of which Mr. A. McKinnie is the resident manager at Portland.

—There are at present over 180 white men employed by the Oregon Pacific company, and over 200 Chinamen, and this number will be rapidly increased.

—The "Citizens' Convention" which met at Portland last Monday afternoon, endorsed the state Republican ticket, and nominated a county ticket that is pinto.

—Queen Vic. is sixty-three to-day. But two English monarchs have had longer reigns than she. On the 18th prox. it will be forty-five years since her coronation.

—The Polaris editor is being laughed at all over the state for his little demonstrations of ignorance. He would make a good lightning rod agent. He never tumbles.

—If it is nice and clear to-night and you have any desire to see the comet, that celestial tramp, you can see it by looking in that part of the sky east of north and about half way between the horizon and the north star.

—There are three or four two-fisted huskies prowling around asking charitable looking citizens for "a quarter to get something to eat." They should be set to work. There's plenty of it if they want to earn honest money.

—Boat No. 34, of Kinney's cannery, was found capsized last Monday morning, there being little doubt that the two men that took it down to the station were lost overboard and drowned. Magnus Kaanto was the name of one of the men, the name of the other David Pesonen.

—The National Republican has an abundance of that useful quality known as "check." In a recent issue it says: "It is not pretended that the Republican can assure an office for each subscriber, but it is suggested that subscriptions do not prejudice this paper against subscribers. A word to the wise, etc.

—The Seattle Post-Intelligencer says that it is receiving this paper in bunches of three and four at a time, and adds, "Of course this is entirely inexcusable, and it is beyond us to imagine why we are so wretchedly treated by those handling the mails." We have been tracing this matter up for two months, and think that some one will hear something "drop" before long. We are confident that the mail leaves Astoria all right, but there our belief ends.

A National Appeal.

The following has been received from General Corbin and is self-explanatory:

At the last meeting of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland, it was proposed that under its auspices there should be erected in the city of Washington a statue or monument in memory of our former comrade, the late President James Abram Garfield. With that end in view, a committee was appointed by Lieutenant-General P. H. Sheridan, president of the Society, which organized and proceeded to work, and it is with much pleasure that the committee announce that its efforts have met with such liberal response from all parts of the country as to warrant the assurance that the work will be consummated.

The question now is, and to you we submit it, shall the statue be such a one as we can build with the funds on hand, or will you come to our aid in such a manner as to enable us to erect a work of art in size, design, and workmanship in keeping with the glorious name with which it will forever be associated, as well as an ornament to our already magnificent city? It is proposed that the work when completed shall be no longer the property of the society, but be formally transferred through their Chief Magistrate to the people of the United States to be a monument of their affection for all time.

We therefore present to you the opportunity to unite with us in this work, and thereby enable us to make the structure in every respect worthy the name of America's foremost people. To that end we request that on the 30th inst., a day when all hearts turn in love and grateful remembrance to the soldiers of the Republic, and we strew their graves with flowers, that a feature of that day shall be the offering and soliciting of contributions to the end set forth. But few can enjoy the privilege of placing a flower on his grave on Decoration Day, but all can contribute the cost of one, and thereby enable us to stimulate genius and exhaust art in the endeavor to plant here a statue that will testify to men of all time the great love the people bore him.

It is the desire of the committee that the work be general—one in which all the people can take part without feeling it to be a tax—and it is therefore suggested that no contribution from any one person on that day shall exceed one dollar, and one-cent subscriptions be accepted.

The press and postmasters throughout the country will receive and forward subscriptions; or, if preferable, a committee of citizens may take charge of the work under such plans as they may deem most efficacious. In either case it is desired that a complete list of subscribers be kept, as all subscription lists, as well as copies of papers publishing the same, are desired for deposit in the corner-stone of the statue, and will be carefully retained for that purpose.

An Extensive Business.

Last year, says the Chronicle, the salmon pack on the Pacific coast—by which is meant the canned fish boxed for trade—amounted to 1,100,000 cases; which at $5 25 a case represents a value of $5,570,000. It is true last year's pack was extraordinarily large, but at the same time the statement holds good as furnishing a trustworthy evidence of the extent of the trade at that time. As the purveyors of this vast amount of fish there are about eighty canneries at work, thirty-seven on the Columbia river, ten on the Sacramento, six in San Franciso using Sacramento river fish, one on Smith river, Cal., one on Eel river, Cal., two on the Umpqua, Or., one on the Rogue, Or., one on Puget Sound, W. T. eleven on the Fraser river, B. C., three on the Skeena, B. C., two on the Nass, B. C., one on the Nimpkish B. C., and four in Alaska, on the, Waschusett, Klawack, at Kodiac island and on the Cooper inlet. The coast line fished on is one of great extent, lying as it does between 37 and 60 degrees north.

Astoria Enterprise.

Barge No. 1 of the Astoria Transportation Co. went up the river yesterday in tow of the Clara Parker. She will bring down 1,000 tons of flour for the Laugrigg Hall, now loading at this port. This is an Astoria built barge, in tow of an Astoria built boat, carrying freight for a vessel that loads directly at Astoria for Liverpool.

During eleven hours and thirty minutes one day last week the Tacoma mill cut 170,750 feet of lumber, being the largest day's work ever done by that mill. Its capacity is constantly being increased, and the Tacoma people expect their mill to soon average 200,000 feet of lumber per day.

Travelers on foot, on horseback and in wagons pass through Ashland every day, most of them going northward. The prospect of short crops in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys is driving more than the usual number from California into Oregon and Washington Territory.

The best time ever made by any steamer from the Columbia river bar to San Francisco was that of the State of California, 35 hours and 40 minutes; the best time from San Francisco to Astoria was that of the same steamer, 42 hours and 15 minutes; and the best time from Portland to San Francisco was also that of the same flyer, 45 hours and 50 minutes, including 1 hour and 35 minutes spent at Astoria. Captain Debney always stops at Astoria and puts off freight and mails.

Swept to Sea.

About three o'clock Monday morning John Ditchburn, of Leinenweber's boat No. 7, while pulling in his net near the wreck of the Great Republic, heard a cry from a boat near him, and through the thick fog that hung over the water saw a boat sailing straight for the breakers. As soon as he could, he got under way to save the helpless men, but the fog closed down thick over the water, and before he could reach them the boat had upset, and the men were swept under by the tide. The boat—No. 25, belonging to Wm. Hume, was subsequently recovered off Sand Island. The name of the captain was Michael Brown; the other is unknown.
