The Oregon arrived in good season yesterday. The Columbia went to sea at noon.

It is thought that the bulk of the Sacramento river salmon pack will be sent east this season.

In the case of Carrie Bradley, in Portland, a jury was selected last Tuesday and the opening arguments made in the case.

A north wind of unusual duration in Colusa county, Cal., entailed a loss last week to the farmers of that county of one million dollars.

The English vessels in port presented a fine sight yesterday, each and all being decked with flags and streamers gay in honor of Queen Vic's birthday.

At 8:15 last evening a burning straw pile on Court street raised an alarm of fire that was quickly responded to, and when the boys found that there was no fire they threw a stream anyhow, just for instance.

Wm. B. Headington is putting up a fine building next to the Knights of Pythias building. It is for A. M.
 Johnson, is 45x70 feet, will cost $4, 200, and will be finished about August 1st. Squemogue street shows up well in the matter of improvements.

Astoria has the promptest fire department on the coast. Five seconds after the alarm sounded last night both companies were on the keen jump with their engines, and were their services needed that most valuable "first five minutes" would have been utilized.

Andrew Anderson, who has a place on Lewis and Clark, tells us that while plowing some new land one day last week he turned up the skeleton of a white man; the bones crumbled to pieces, except the skull, which was firm. The skeleton was six inches below the surface when found.

The pile-driver that Holt Bros. have in operation across the street from our office marks a new era in building in Astoria. Upon the foundation now in progress of construction is to be built a substantial three-story brick building that will admirably serve the purpose for which it is designed and further act as an incentive to others to follow the example.

Yesterday morning about eleven o'clock a boat was seen, with sail set and tiller fastened, bounding nerrily before the breeze and dashing through the water at a lively rate. Shouts from the shore excited no response, and it was not until the boat went crashing into Flavel's dock that the gallant crew bounded to their feet from the bottom of the boat where they had been lying—sleep. The The remarks they made may be found in the New Testament, revised edition.

The newly organized Portland Tug Company have telegraphed their representative in Philadelphia to buy the iron tug Pioneer, which has been in service there for four years, and is one of the most powerful on the Atlantic coast. Her cost is $44,000.
 The purchase was probably made yesterday. As soon as a commanding officer can be secured the tug will start for Portland, and is expected to immediately go into service on the Columbia river bar.—Oregonian 24th.
 The tug above referred to is of 160 tons register and has engines of 250 horsepower. The Columbia is 110 tons register, and the Brenham is 133 tons register, with engines of 210 horsepower.

Mr. Hill's Speech.

At eight o'clock last Tuesday night the hall was comfortably filled by an audience who had assembled to hear Hon. Wm. Lair Hill, of Waco, on the political issues of the day. After the band had finished playing a selection from Flotow, J. H. D. Gray stepped forward and introduced Mr. Hill.

The speaker began by assuring his hearers that he was not a candidate for any office, and after paying a neatly worded compliment to the ladies who graced the occasion by their presence he started to speak of the necessity of a clear understanding of the rights and privileges of American citizenship and the need of exercising due care in the casting of a ballot that shall decide for weal or for woe the future of this commonwealth.

He spoke of the speech recently made in this city by the Democratic candidate for Congress, and thought that that gentleman's position on the Chinese and tariff questions was not consistent with the facts nor compatible with justice. In regard to the former question Mr. Hill was of the opinion that the matter of excluding the Chinese was not a party issue, but were it so declared he charged that it was a Democratic president that introduced official executive action concerning their immigration to our shores, and that it was Democratic legislation that fostered the diplomacy that culminated in the Burlingame treaty. He explained Republican action in this matter and claimed that to the united effort of Republican and Democratic Congressmen of this coast is due the fact that after the 4th of next August no Chinaman can land upon American soil. After spending about forty minutes in discussing this much vexed question and impressing his hearers with the sentiments so universally prevalent concerning the Mongolian influx, Mr.
 Hill turned his attention to the tariff.
 He was of the opinion that the rash-ness of youth and the inexperience of embryo statesmen should be devoted to the pursuit of knowledge upon this complex problem, and that studious effort should be made to understand the matter in all its bearings before venturing to rush in where grave and learned men do fear to tread. He was of the opinion that the best interests of our country demanded a certain amount of protection for the manufacturing interests, and that a due regard for American labor made plain the necessity for throwing around that labor such safeguards as should protect the American artisan from foreign competition with cheap labor, and foster the manufactures of this country to such an extent that American labor might always be well remunerated. The speaker thought that belief in the tariff was gaining ground in the United States; that the west and south were beginning to place more belief in its political and commercial necessity than heretofore, and that Oregon, if it expected to occupy the proud place in the sisterhood of states that its resources justify and make possible, should be heartily in favor of a tariff, of a policy which he thought it would be suicidal to reject or destroy. Mr. Hill was sarcastic in reference to those who did not agree with him and seemed hardly disposed to concede to others the consistency which he claimed for himself. He devoted about three-quarters of an hour to a discussion of the question, and displayed an intimate knowledge of his subject, and an earnestness of manner that showed he sincerely believed the truth of the sentiments to which he gave utterance.

Passing on from the statement of belief on this matter he entered upon a comparison of the two parties, which was from his standpoint somewhat uncomplimentary to the Democratic side of the house. He styled the Democracy an aggregation of obstruc-tionists, and thought that it was but necessary to announce any needed measure for them to oppose it, and but needful that such measure should be demonstrated to be successful to insure hearty commendation from its former opponents after time had justified the belief of its projectors. After several sparkling sallies of wit and anecdote, which were enthusiastically received by his audience, Mr. Hill spoke of two things that we were glad to hear spoken of from a political rostrum. To wit had all the charm that novelty can inspire and intrinsic truth can give, to hear a political speaker come right out squarely in favor of making the Astoria land grant forfeited and restored to the national domain for bona fide settlers to take up and hold in peace and safety.
 The Astorian is the only paper in the Northwest that keeps this matter agitated and shows the iniquity of allowing a set of conscienceless speculators to retard the development of this part of Oregon, and Mr. Hill is the first man we have heard open his mouth in public about it. He argued that nothing is more blighting to the prosperity of a community than a shadow over any title to land, and that were such shadow of pretended claim removed to the land in the immediate vicinity of this city, it would redound to our immediate prosperity in insuring the settling up of our fertile valleys and fruitful soil by a set of men who come to stay and make their homes among us.

The speaker also dwelt at length upon the advantages accruing to the inhabitants of the Columbia basin by having a free river, and thought that a due regard for our own interests suggested the return of a man to Congress that had given evidences by both words and deeds of the good intent he had for the assistance and advancement of the state of Oregon.

While Mr. Hill's style of oratory is not of a nature that would rank him with the eloquent speakers of the day, yet his manner of presenting what he alleges to be facts is convincing, and those who heard him for the two hours and forty minutes that he spoke, will have sufficient topic for thought for some time to come. At the close and during the speech he was vociferously applauded, and when he had bidden his audience good night, Mr. Gray called for three cheers for "the whole Republican ticket," which were given with a will. Mr. Hill left yesterday morning for eastern Oregon, where he will speak during the remainder of the time between now and the day of election.

An Oregon Artist.

Cleveland Rockwell, an attaché of the Civil Engineer's office, is engaged in producing a series of paintings eliciting universal admiration by their delicacy of finish and fidelity to nature.
 We noticed one some time ago "A Smoky Sunrise in Astoria," which is in Capt. Fivell's office, that gentleman having paid Mr. Rockwell $200 for the picture. Yesterday we were shown two more, which adorn Mr. A.
 J. Megler's parlor, one being a view of Mount St. Helens, from the Columbia, and the other portraying the cliffs above Oak Point. Mr. Megler is justly proud of his fine pictures which possess the dual merit of being valuable works of art and correctly portraying the lovely landscapes they represent.
