

The Daily Astorian. ASTORIA, OREGON: TUESDAY, JUNE 20, 1882. J. F. HALLORAN, Editor

The Queen of the Pacific.

The fleet that plies between Astoria and San Francisco is justly famed for the elegance of its appointments, the courtesy of its officers and the regularity of its arrivals and departures.

She has an inverted direct-acting compound engine, with 45 and 90-inch cylinders and 48-inch stroke of piston.

She has valve pistons, the first ever applied in this country, similar to those on the Alaska, and is expected to develop 3,000 horse power, and a minimum speed of engine of 80 turns per minute.

the 15th of August when our citizens will have an opportunity of inspecting her.

Want to Know, You Know.

It would be interesting to know just what the parties to the unfortunate strike which has begun, think of the tariff, apropos the existing state of things. Men who ought to know better, not content with taking the tariff at what it is worth and stopping there, waste their breath in arguing that all the country's prosperity and none none of its adversity is due to protection. The workman has been told from time immemorial that he would have high wages as long as there was high tariff; but at the moment when everything else is highest, and his earnings go the shortest distance, he finds that the tariff or something else has gone back on him, and that his wages cannot be raised. The employer has likewise been led to understand that the boom of the last few years was due to the customs laws, but though the duties are as stiff as ever he finds himself unable to pay his workmen the better wages which they ask, and his furnace fires therefore go out. Not one or two, but several trains of events lead up to the lookout which now extends all over the country. Both the employer and employe know very well what the tariff has done for them, and at times like the present cannot be blamed for inviting the doctors who prescribe more tariff for every ailment to throw their physic to the dogs.
