Sound Sentiment.

..JULY 7, 1882

In a recent college address, Gen. William Curtis, on "American scholarship," said some good a Schumann ...... "Spring Flowers" things; among other points, he b Strauss-Rive-King "Weiner Bon Bens said: Every year at the college commencement the American scolar is exhorted to do his duty. But every newspaper proves that he is a Saint Jacas ... Romance doing it. For he is the most practical politician who shows his fellow-citizens, as the wise old sailor man can afford to do about right." Take from the country at this moment the educational power which is contemned as romantic and sentimental, and you would take from the army its general, from the ship its compass, from national action its moral mainspring. It is not the demagogue and the shouting rabble; it is the people heeding the words of the thinker, and the lesson of experience, which secures the welfare of the American republic and enlarges human liberty. If American scholarship does not carry the election to-day, it determines the policy of to-morrow. Calm, patient, confident, heroic, in our busy and material life, it perpetually vindicates the truth that the things which are unseen are eternal. So in the cloudless midsummer sky serenely shines the moon, while the tumultuous ocean rolls and murmurs beneath, the type of Heaven.

In what we conceitedly call the dark ages collegiate degrees were conferred on women. Copernicus learned astronomy from a woman and the great universities of Italy employed women among their pro- Iron, Steel, Coal, Anchors, Chains, fesses, one of whom, who lectured at Padua, being so distractingly pretty that she was forced to set behind a screen in order to concentrate the attention of the students Nulls, Copper Nails and Burrs, on the lecture instead of on her- Shelf Hardware, Paints and Oils self. D. upon Miss Agents for Salem Flouring Mills. tronomy at Vassar, and daughter of Gen. O. M. Mitchell, of high astronomical and geographic fame. This is an instance of genuine enlightenment and liberty of thought, and may be the first step toward removing from women the ban which provides that the literary TANNERS AND CURRRIES work of women stands not on its merits. When that other relic of barbarism, paying a woman onethird of a man's wages for doing a man's work, is abolished, we may consider ourselves on the high road to civilization.

. In Chicago, and no doubt in all other places where there are federal office-holders to be assessed. the rate imposed for the coming congressional campaigns is regarded as excessive for an off year. It is not for the assessed to say, however, what are the exigencies of an off year. These differ in differ in different years. This year the Republican managers evidently look upon them as of an extraordinary nature; and, besides, it is money, and not opinions, that they want. They have adopted Demoeratic ideas in this instance, as the present tax is "a tariff for revenue only."
