Boyer water.

Holcomb has an attractive stock of tobacco and cigars. He deserves patronage.

The Columbia sails this morning with a full cargo. She takes on 2,578 cases of salmon at the upper dock.

The Olympia folks are going to give the A. O. U. W. delegates an old fashioned Rhode Island clam-bake today.

The Madison Square company that play Hazel Kirke, are all good, and they bring their own scenery with them.

The Tualatin river has been dammed as a nuisance, so Judge Stott says. If doing that to a stream makes it a nuisance, we don't know what to say about our water supply.

The Edwin Reed is ready for sea and will clear to-day with 38,900 cases salmon, and 500 tons of wheat and flour. The captain thinks he will have a full crew shipped to-night.

In Walla Walla, last Monday, Jas. McAniff was elected mayor, and Jno. Justice, marshal. In Seattle, on the same day, H. G. Struve was elected mayor, and J. H. Woolery, marshal.

The fastest boats on the Pacific coast are on the Columbia river. It's a common occurrence for the boat that leaves Portland at 6 A. M., 110 miles away, to be here at noon, making twelve or fourteen landings on the down trip.

This is the 12th of July, and when to-morrow or next day you read of the annual trouble on account of orange flags and handkerchiefs, you'll remember that one hundred and ninety-two years ago, to-day, there was a battle on the river Boyne, the echoes of which are still reverberating.

We have seen times livelier in Astoria than at present. The weather is so transcendently fine that in stopping to note it business is unattended to. The many pleasant summer resorts seem beckoning people to go for a vacation and let the sordid details of every day life go, for a season.

The great number of steam and sail yachts in our bay compares favorably with any of the world's ports, and elicits comments from up-country visitors. No subsidiary sight is prettier on these glorious days than to see the smooth surface of the water covered with steam and sail craft plying in every direction.

A thing of beauty is a joy forever, and that reminds us that if you own a horse, or want to own one, or expect in the future to own one or want to own one, come and get a copy of "Kendall's Treatise on the Horse." We have it, superbly bound in tinted paper, and retail the work at 25 cents a copy, four copies for one dollar, mailed to any address on receipt of price. The work has received the official endorsement of men who are well posted on horseflesh and is all it purports to be.

In another column will be found the advertisement of the Hazel Kirke combination, who play in this place Monday night. Mr. Thall, the advance agent, states that this is the "original" Hazel Kirke company, that they have played at the Union Square Theater in New York to crowded houses; that they bring an entire set of scenery specially adapted to the east, and that they will give as good a representation of the play, in Astoria as though they were playing in New York or San Francisco. If this is the case we have no doubt that the house will be crowded next Monday night.

Serves 'Em Right

Captain Purvis, of the steamer Devonshire, was arrested yesterday, says Tuesday's Standard, by the U. S. marshal, on a charge of violating the provisions of the passenger act in regard to the arrangement of berths on board his ship. The law provides that the berths shall run fore and aft and that partitions shall be placed every six feet. The berths on board the Devonshire are so arranged that the passengers lie athwart ship and the only partition is a cloth mark. The penalty is $5 for each passenger carried, and in this case amounts to $4,150. This is the third trip with which the Devonshire has made this coast and the characters were careful not to put too many on board, but it appears as if they were to be cinched all the same. It is stated that a complaint has been made against Capt. Lanikerman, of the Fritz for the same offense. In the language of the old Roman poets, "See it in us."

Just as We Supposed.

In yesterday's issue we copied an article from the Portland Mercury, in which it was made to appear that the Portland boys were very much dissatisfied with their treatment here on the Fourth. In commenting on which we said that it was probably inspired by some outsider who was sore because he did not get away with his bluff. Chas. Stockton, Foreman of No. 2, received a letter from a prominent fireman of Portland, last evening, in which he says: "Tell all our friends that they must not blame us for the piece that is in the Mercury, as it is an outsider that is kicking, and not the boys that went to Astoria. I will never forget the pleasant way my company was treated in Astoria; have been to a good many places, but none of them come up to Astoria. Accept our kindest remembrances."

Unsuccessful Attempt

A Salem dispatch of the 10th says: Lee and Graham, two convicts confined in the Oregon penitentiary, made a break for liberty this afternoon which resulted in the death of the latter. They concealed themselves near the gate leading to the outside brickyard, and when the gate was opened to admit a team, slipped out. They were observed by the guard, who ordered them to halt. No attention being paid to the demand he shot at Graham, the ball entering the upper part of the back and coming out of the center of the breast, killing him instantly. An employee of the brickyard, gave chase to the other, and succeeded in capturing him just as he was about to swim Mill creek. He was at once overpowered and returned to the prison.

A Nice Mouthful

Some one who feels aggrieved writes us that in our editorial on Mrs. Stow, and her paper yesterday, we were "too severe." We commend that person's attention to the following, cut from that paper. The article is signed by Mrs. Stow, an individual who disfigures the name of woman by assuming it: "Castration is in no way injurious to either the mental or physical faculties of human animals. The moment a pauper or criminal gives birth to a child it should be castrated. The operation is no more painful or dangerous than circumcision."

Our correspondent can chew on that awhile.

Guitan's bones have been nicely washed and are now lying on the roof of a shed in Washington; they will be strung on wires and articulated in a day or so, and then good little boys can go and see them on Saturday afternoons.

Delegate Brents of Washington Territory, and Congressman George of our state, are making good records for themselves. We are in receipt of a printed copy of a speech delivered by the former on the 29th ult., wherein he claimed the population of Washington to be about equal to the western representative ratio, and the assessable value of its property about $30,000,000 and the true value twice that amount. He claimed the clause in the ordinance of 1787, providing for the admission of states in the northwest territory with 60,000 inhabitants was extended to the Oregon territory, then including Washington and Idaho territories by the 14th section of the Oregon act of 1847. He criticized the ratio principle severely, and claimed that it had never been the rule in the admission of new states, and was repugnant to the spirit of the constitution. He showed that nearly every new state was admitted with less population and wealth than Washington has to-day.

No more good weight at the Orient Baths. Three first-class barbers, all work guaranteed. Childrens hair cutting a specialty. J. G. CHARTERS.

This is a Growl

Information is accorded us that another combination is coming here. We are also, vouchsafed the usual information that it is "the greatest attraction ever seen north of San Francisco." Maybe it is; maybe it isn't. There's just this about it: we, of Astoria, are not treated just right in theatrical matters. Our theater going public put up "liberally," and patronize every "artist" that comes along, whether he or she plays a piano, stands on his or her head, sings, dances, whistles, rains, or grins; and are entitled to expect an effort on the part of the performers as though there were 100,000 people in the place. Take the last performance—that of Julie Rive King; she had a good home, and made big money for her 48 minute appearance. She came waddling out on the stage with a flower in her hair and a frown on her face, and with a contemptuous glance at the crowd of common creatures that had assembled to hear her, she condescended to play on an alleged piano set up on a canteen box and a three-legged chair. Now we don't know anything more about music than a last year's bird's nest, but if that was a specimen of her Portland performance, then the musical critics of that city must be as bad off in point of culture as ourselves. They praised her performance; we copied the favorable notices of the press, and after having her playing we felt like apologizing to our readers for having done so. The point is this: Mrs. King can, no doubt, charm the birds off the bushes with her playing, but she did not think it worth her while to show what she could do in Liberty Hall; so it has been with a good many others: "it is only Astoria," and though Astorians patronize them, they put us off with a simple appearance. Time and again we have sat in Liberty Hall and seen acting on the stage that was unworthy the actor; Sheridan, Miss Holbrook, and the Uncle Tom's Cabin company deserve honorable mention; they did as well as if they were in a San Francisco theater.

We have no fault to find with the management; Mr. Stockton is a good business man and keeps his engagements; in the last entertainment our townsmen, Mr. E. C. Holden, exhibited commendable enterprise in securing the appearance of a lady who is alleged to be so great a pianist. A theatrical manager is not to be blamed for any shortcomings or whims on the part of the company, but we distinctly assert that business is business, and if our citizens put up their dollars to see or hear an advertised performance, they are entitled to the best efforts of the performers. We may not be as au fait in musical culture as some, but our dollars are just as good as though we had the whole business by heart.

Card of Thanks

At the adjourned meeting of Reseno Engine Company No. 2, held at their hall on Saturday evening, July 8th, the following resolutions were unanimously passed, and ordered engrossed upon the records of the company:

Resolved, That the thanks of this company be and are hereby tendered to Mrs. M. C. Crosby for the generous present and token of her appreciation of our victories over competing firemen in the 2nd ornament; and that the same be placed upon the wall of our meeting-room, and a copy of these resolutions be engrossed upon the company record and furnished THE DAILY ASTORIAN for publication.

Resolved, That the thanks of the company be and are hereby extended to our honorable member, Miss Mollie Burke of Portland, for floral tributes, and to Mrs. J. G. Megler of Brookfield, and to Mrs. Van Dusen, Mrs. Snow, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. Worsley, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. C. J. Trenchard, Miss Van Dusen, Miss Loeb and other ladies, who kindly furnished us with flowers and in other ways assisted in decorating our hall and engine on the 3d and 4th days of July, and that a copy of this resolution be engrossed upon the company in the ordinance of 1787, providing for the admission of states in the northwest territory with 60,000 inhabitants was extended to the Oregon territory, then including Washington and Idaho territories by the 14th section of the Oregon act of 1847. He criticized the ratio principle severely, and claimed that it had never been the rule in the admission of new states, and was repugnant to the spirit of the constitution. He showed that nearly every new state was admitted with less population and wealth than Washington has to-day.

By order of the company, A. A. CLEVELAND, President. B. S. WORSLEY, Secretary.

Buried on Sand Island.

Bernard Leis who has been down on Sand Island since the middle of June, reports that on the 23d of June he found the dead body of a man who had evidently been in the water for a long time, and who was unrecognizable. He and his partner buried the remains on the island and put a cross at the head of the grave. He brought up a small silver chain, (the only article that could be identified found on the deceased) and left it at this office. If any one is missing from this locality, the chain, which is at this office, may serve to identify and explain who he is and his sad fate.

The Australian Pain Anacrot

Mr. P. C. Blinn, a gentleman who is well known throughout the United States as an advance agent, arrived in the city yesterday in advance of Professor Scott, the great Australian pain anacrot, who is the manufacturer and proprietor of the world renowned toothache, neuralgia, tic douloureux, and rheumatic cure "Magic Balm."

Mr. Blinn has with him some very fine testimonials representing the wonderful and successful cures the Professor has effected with the "Magic Balm," in all parts of the world. Professor Scott lately arrived from Australia, where he has been for the last ten years manufacturing and selling the "magic balm." After leaving there he visited New Zealand, China, Japan, Africa and India, and brought letters of introduction to some of the leading gentlemen of San Francisco and Portland, O. We would state that the professor is the proprietor of a very large factory in Ballarat, Australia, and receives regular shipments of the magic balm from that place.

Mr. Blinn showed us some excellent printing advertising the magic balm, from which we should judge, that it is a medicine of very high standing. Professor Scott is now doing a very large business in Portland. He intends to pay us a visit in the course of a few weeks, and we have no doubt but that he will meet with the same success in Astoria as he has met with elsewhere.
