ASTORIA, OREGON: SUNDAY, AUGUST 13, 1882

ISSUED EVERY MORNING, Monday Excepted. J. F. HALLORAN & COMPANY, Publishers and Proprietors.

Terms of Subscription. Sent by Carrier, per week, 25 cents; by mail, four months, $1.00; by mail, one year, $3.00.

THE CITY.

THE DAILY ASTORIAN will be sent by mail at 25 cents a month, free of postage. Readers who contemplate absence from the city can have THE ASTORIAN follow them, DAILY or WEEKLY editions being sent post-free without additional expense.

The Lizzie Bell went to sea yesterday afternoon.

The Columbia is due this morning. She has a large passenger list.

Ex-Senator J. H. Mitchell is on the incoming Columbia this morning.

The Gen. Miles starts for Shoalwater Bay next Tuesday morning at four o'clock.

Services in the Methodist church today at the usual hours. Sunday school at noon.

British Columbia is in a "fluttah." The Marquis de Lorne is about to visit that province.

Meeting at the Y. M. C. A. hall this afternoon at a quarter to three. All invited to attend.

Portland street car drivers work fifteen hours a day for $2.15 and are not allowed to sit down.

Presbyterian services at the Baptist church building, at 11 a. m. Sabbath school at 12.15. No service in the evening.

The Gen. Canby will leave Gray's dock at 9 o'clock this morning for Fort Stevens, Canby and Ilwaco, and will return by 6 p. m.

The State of California sails this morning. The boys at the O. R. & N. dock always like to have the boats come and go on Sundays.

A $7,000 fire at Spokane Falls last Thursday night, destroyed the Franklin hotel and adjacent property. A sudden change of wind was all that saved the town.

There will be divine service on board the ship Elwell, lying at the O. R. & N. Co.'s dock, Rev. J. McComae officiating. Services also by the same pastor at 6 o'clock in the schoolhouse, in upper Astoria.

Rev. Mr. Gray will preach at the Congregational church today at 11 p. m. Sunday school at noon. Rev. J. N. Walters will give his serial lecture to young people at 7.30 p. m. All are cordially invited to attend.

Lieut. Green, who has been making a preliminary survey of the proposed telegraph line between here and Cape Hancock, returned yesterday. He thinks it will be necessary to have some more surveying done, but the material will be here, and the work entirely finished the present season. The line will run to Young's river, thence to Fort Stevens, and from there by cable to Cape Hancock.

The steamship Dakota, Capt. Carroll, steamed away from Esquimault, says the Victoria Standard, at half-past twelve o'clock on the 7th inst., crowded with excursionists for Alaska. As she cast off from the wharf the splendid band of the 21st U. S. Infantry, which accompanies the party, played national airs amidst the plaudits and good wishes of those who had assembled on the wharf to see their friends off.

We have watched with considerable interest the building of the foundation for the Odd Fellows' brick building across the street from our office. It is a solid piece of work. Two hundred and seventy-six piles were driven down to "hard-pan," then sawed off just above the surface at low water; heavy 12x14 timbers were capped on, and in between was leveled with small cobble stones and rock, and the constant ebb and flow of the tide has packed and smoothed the whole surface till it is as hard and solid as a bed of concrete. The intention is to have the building finished by January 1st, though some little delay is experienced in getting the material on the ground.

The Trials of a Jury.

The jury in the case of P. A. Johnson vs. O. Wincent and wife, had trials and tribulations before which some of the ancient martyrs' sufferings read like pastime. The case was given to them Thursday afternoon, and they were placed in a snugly-fitted apartment to decide upon a verdict. The first ballot was ten to two for the plaintiff, and so it held until away into the night; there was no release, and as one of the jurymen expressed it to an Astorian reporter yesterday: "I'd a good deal rather be in jail than cooped up with eleven others in a little 7x9 room, without any accommodations whatever." All day Friday they held out, and when Friday night came hanks were hastily improvised; bags of sand were used for pillows and outer garments for bedclothes. It was a punishment such as few men would care to take for crime, and the thing is a fitting comment on our ridiculous jury system which requires a unanimous verdict in civil as well as criminal cases. The jury, being unable to agree, was discharged yesterday morning.

A Case in Admiralty.

Justice Bushweiler, of Couch, opened his court in the admiralty degree yesterday afternoon, and initiated Capt. M. Hall, of the American ship Annie Johnson, who paid $19,900 for information that may be of some importance to him. When the Johnson was coming up stream on her arrival, in charge of a river pilot and tow boat, she collided with the steamer ship Devonshire, doing slight damage to the latter. John Borthwick was employed to repair the ship, which he did, and presented his bill of $88 to the captain of the Devonshire. He was referred to the captain of the Johnson for payment, and the Devonshire put out to sea. The captain of the Johnson refused to pay and suit was brought, which resulted in a verdict for Borthwick for the amount and cost. It is claimed that the pilot is responsible for the damage, as he had charge of the vessel, but he is not within reach at present, and that it is a matter between him and the captain to settle. -Portland Standard.

The Trial of Lawrence.

Jas. A. Lawrence appeared in court yesterday afternoon and in response to the usual question from the judge, pleaded "guilty." It is the general impression that the matter will end in a fine being imposed; that he and Miss Sloan will be remarried, and that they will leave Oregon. It was stated positively that he and Miss Sloan were married at eight o'clock last evening, but we could find no official or minister who had performed the ceremony.

Some Beer.

The Standard thinks that prohibitionists will be startled to know that during the year 1881 there was manufactured (and, it is probable, drunk) in the state of Oregon 23,861 barrels of beer, or 739,381 gallons. From January 1st to May 1st, 1882, there was manufactured 214,365 gallons. The internal revenue tax on this amounts to nearly $40,000.

To-Day's Excursion.

Everyone who wants to enjoy a pleasant day will have an opportunity this morning to go to Young's River falls and the Claskanine river. The Clara Parker will leave Hustler's wharf at 9 o'clock, and will return at half-past four. The fare for the round trip will be only fifty cents.

The Fleetwood is telegraphed all right from Kalama. She will be on time to-day, and leaves at the regular hour to-morrow morning.

The election of officers of the Astoria Fire Department will be held to-morrow. The polls will be open at the lower hall of Keene No. 2, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

At a meeting of the ladies of the Presbyterian church yesterday it was decided to have an entertainment and sociable at Liberty hall next Tuesday evening. The first part of the entertainment is to be literary after which refreshments will be served.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church met yesterday afternoon and made arrangements to give a public entertainment and ice cream sociable (not a concert as was inadvertently implied in yesterday's ASTORIAN) on Tuesday evening next, at Liberty hall. The entertainment will consist of vocal and instrumental music and recitations by well-known amateurs, and a pleasant time is promised to all. Proceeds will be all devoted to the building fund of the new Presbyterian church.

Capital Notes.

SALEM, Aug. 8, 1882.

EDITOR ASTORIAN:

A cooling breeze that more than fanned the heavy foliage of oak and grape and honeysuckle into motion, came up the valley the other night, and a trifle wandering of the imagination would hail it as coming upon the devious way landward, direct from old ocean at Columbia's mouth. It stirred the maple leaves, revealing the silver lining underneath, it seemed to lift or allay some portion of the sultry atmosphere that has been languidly composing itself for the summer campaign. What would be more suggestive of the little city by the sea, in sight of the bar's foaming breakers where the favored few are in the enjoyment of such airs and skies and scenic views as harmonize where Astoria stands. THE DAILY ASTORIAN brings with it too—in imagination—a sea breeze of briny odor. It is read epicureally, so to speak; the first page primarily, then the locals, and last but not least, the editorials, and Astoria has been visible—in spirit.

Your city in its dearth of nature's pure liquid element, as frequently noted in THE ASTORIAN, calls to mind the Ancient Mariner's cry of "water, water every where and not a drop to drink," and is one of the anomalies of your locality, soluble only to the local mind. Without and Lebanon springs, Mehana on the Santiam, Yaquina Bay, and the lower hills of the Cascade, are absorbing our population, who have gone in parties to their favorite summer haunts. Were it possible for Salemites to avoid detention over night on the way, Astoria would not lack for summer visitors from the capital.

Our city is just assuming that air of importance which always precedes the biennial session of the body legislative. From the state house to each private dwelling an interest is experienced in the approaching gathering, scarcely appreciable by dwellers in other places. Since the erection of the insane asylum (how the name recalls the semi-annual fight over the inevitable "insane bill" that was introduced only to be killed in the house or strangled in the senate) stands on the pinnacle of its dignity as the capital of the state.

Old Sol means business now, and sends down the most vertical of rays these long summer days, but the night are of delicious coolness.

Astoria is probably too far away to feel any particular interest in our local improvements, but the re-building (or not) of the woolen mills is the subject of much spirited controversy, and as the Statesman and Town Talk publish all the pros and cons, the reading public are highly entertained. It appears that the $15,000 demanded by the projectors of the enterprise, as an evidence of the citizens' interest in it, had been all subscribed, but certain conditions and contingencies caused some of the larger subscribers to be rejected. Whether this deficiency will be made good and so ensure the erection of the mills, or, through lack of it cause a failure of the plan, remains to be seen. That opposition to so important a project should exist, seems incredible, but such appears to be the case; the cause of which is without the province of your correspondent to explain. Be; the new flooring mill in north Salem will be built without doubt; the flume that will convey water from Mill creek to it, is nearly complete, crossing Commercial street at the extreme north end.

Several gay and festive youths (some of them born and bred at the capital) the confession is humiliating,) who amused themselves by firing vacant tenements, are passing their time in the county jail; as a consequence, citizens seek repose now 'nights with a feeling of security.

To-day's ASTORIAN gives notice of dramatic readings by Miss Henrietta Monroe, but, as ere this your citizens have had an opportunity of hearing her recitations, she has probably, in Astoria as elsewhere, made a favorable impression. Her personal attractions are considered not inferior to her talents as an elocutionist.

Preparations for the approaching State Fair are moving on apace—horses arriving to be put in training for the races, the floral gardens improved, etc. If the weather is good it will be most fortunate for the Agricultural Society, if not—well, it would be a sorry event, that is all; as two or three meetings in bad weather, crippled it financially. The Mechanics' Fair meets the same week in Portland, but Salemites were not disappointed or surprised when it was announced; it was no more, or less, than was expected. The capital asks no

"odds" of its sister (?) city "on-Wil-lamette."

PERSONAL. Mrs. C. Leinenweber and three children, of upper Astoria, are visiting friends in this city.

Mr. J. H. Moore, of the South Bend mill, South Bend, W. T., made a short stay in Salem, en route to join his family at Tangent.

CHEMISTRY.

How They Do at The Dailies.

Under date of August 8th, a fireman at The Dailies, writing to one of the chief officers of the department here, says:

"I have just witnessed quite a large fire, there being about twenty or thirty buildings burnt, one of brick and one of stone. The fire started in the rear of a China wash-house, and could have been very easily stopped by the firemen if they had been properly instructed by the chief, but in place of attending to his business, he was on top of the buildings with the nozzle and leaving hose, and at the engine ordering the engineer about, and when they called for the foreman of the engine he would run to the engine; the engine was set at cistern where there was only water enough for five minutes' work; this was all with the steam engine; the others did as they pleased, and the Hooks tore down a large house in the center of the fire causing the fire to spread across the street and burn the Columbia Hotel and several other buildings. Of all the fires I ever saw this was most poorly managed, but the boys elected a new chief, to-day, and are feeling pretty good; but the poorest fireman in Astoria could do better service than the present chief. The total loss will be about twenty thousand dollars; insurance about ten thousand. The loss need not have been over twenty dollars if the fire had been properly controlled; it was twenty-five minutes from the first alarm before the department got a stream on the fire, and had only two blocks to run; how high is that! The fire started on the water side of the railroad track, one block above the Cosmopolitan Hotel, burning that half block, then took the opposite side of the track and burned all the wooden buildings but two, and they were saved by a stone building and the assistance of the O. R. & N. Co. Zeno.
