 East Portland is becoming metropolitan in its demands, and wants a national bank.
 The British bark Boldon, Thomas master, which sailed from Liverpool March 11th, arrived in last evening.
 The youngest child of Capt.
 Ferchen, of East Portland, died on the 6th inst., and was buried at Vancouver.
 A girl living in the lower part of town, known by the name of Annie Lee, died last Tuesday evening and was buried yesterday.
 The Washington Packing company organized last Thursday. It is the intention of the company to put up a cannery next to the Union Packing company.
 An attempt will be made at the coming legislative session to remove the boundaries of Lake county, so as to be in accordance with geographical convenience.
 Commander Glass, late of the U.
 S. steamer Wachusett, and Thos.
 H. Brents, congressional delegate from Washington territory are on the incoming steamer.
 The Columbia sails to-day for San Francisco. The Oregon is due to-day, though her arrival on time would have all the delightful charm of novelty.
 She has 151 cabin passengers aboard.
 One of the things that are sure to do our Washington territory friends do not relax their efforts they can by continuity of action insure their admission as a state at the next session of congress.
 The members of the Hattie Moore Comic Opera company arrive on to-day's steamer, and appear this evening in the opera of "Olivette," in which they made such a sensation in San Francisco and elsewhere.
 The performance this evening is of the French school of opera bouffe, and is piquant in the respect of plot and incident. Not since the days of "Genevieve," and the "Grande Duchesse," has there been any such combination of the spirit of Offenbach as is seen in this Olivette will be given to-night. Reserved seats at Carl Adler's.

A Jury Selected.
 Since Tuesday afternoon the counsel for the defense and prosecution in the case of the state of Oregon vs.
 John Bain, have been engaged in questioning men summoned by the sheriff to act as jurors. Much care has been exercised in the selection, and it required the examination of nearly a hundred who had been summoned before a jury was selected. At 5:30 yesterday afternoon the twelfth man was selected and the jury was immediately sworn, and given in charge of the sheriff. The names of the jury are Francis Hill, Andrew Young, J. C. Trell-inger, C. J. Donahoe, Dan K. Sullivan, Alexander Normand, J. W.
 Minaker, Edward Roe, Olaf Thompson, Louis Hartwig, I. J. Arnold, and August Miller. The court then adjourned till 7:30 p. m.
 At the hour named the court convened and the trial began. After the usual preliminaries had been gone through with the case was opened for the prosecution by District Attorney J. F. Caples, who spoke for thirty-five minutes. At the conclusion of his remarks Judge E. C. Bronaugh, who with Judge Bowly and C. W.
 Fulton, is counsel for the defense, spoke in answer. When Judge Bronaugh had finished the court announced that he would adjourn till 8:30 this morning, when the testimony of the witnesses will be taken.

Along the Docks.
 The fleet of '82 has begun to arrive and the close of the salmon season merges in the beginning of the wheat movement seaward. Along the docks and in the stream is a continuous line of shipping. At the O. R. & N. dock is the Elwell with 58,000 cases of salmon aboard; she will take on 3,500 cases more. Just below is the Jas. G. Bain, with 14,000 cases; the remainder of her cargo will go on this week. Next comes the Collier Walla Walla, discharging a part of her coal, so as to get up into the interior. Below her is the J. W. Marr, discharging car wheels, fish plates, spikes, and other railroad material. This lot, together with the semi-weekly arrival of ocean steamers, and their throngs of arriving and departing passengers, and piles of freight, the daily steamers, etc., keep the employees busy. "Few and short are the prayers they say," not that they are disinclined, but because they have no time.

At Flavel's dock are the usual cluster of tugs, schooners and small steamers constantly arriving and departing, and further down is the fine bark Wolfe, a wooden vessel, a model of cleanliness and one of the finest vessels that ever came into this harbor.
 She is of the thirteen-year class, and is well worthy a visit. Out in the stream are many vessels just in, others awaiting a cargo; The Gen. Miles was swinging the Wallaceton to anchorage as we passed. This vessel lies ready for sea with nearly $400,000 worth of salmon and flour aboard.
 The scene is an animated one. The taper masts and swelling sails of the large vessels, the huge throats of the steamers, the cluster of little boats and larger schooners, and the dozen puffing tugs and tenders constantly darting about, and the responsive shouts and signals of the men make it a lively piece of water.

A Suggestion.
 ASTORIA, Aug. 16, 1882.
 EDITOR ASTORIAN:
 Being present at the very pleasant entertainment given by the ladies of the Presbyterian church, the proceeds of which is to be applied to the completion of their new church building, I could not but be pleased with the aspect of the scene. The hall was well filled with representatives from the best portion of Astoria's population, all seeming happy and well pleased with the entertainment. These thoughts for a time occupied my mind; How much more rational this past-time enjoyment, entertained and amused by home-talent, and with the reflection that the trifling amount we pay for it goes, not to the profligate and vile, but for a worthy object and the benefit of our community. Such entertainments have many beneficial effects; two of which I will mention: the cultivation of home talent, and the moral effect upon the rising generation, teaching them to be satisfied with rational amusements. Now, I would suggest that a like entertainment be given as often as once a week. Let the different Christian and benevolent organizations come in rotation, in harmony with each other, and there can be no doubt of its beneficial effect upon our society and the accumulation of funds for the promotion of religion and morals in our city. And God knows we need it. We have plenty of talent in our midst, born, raised and educated in this sun-set land. All that is required, is cultivation and encouragement. Last evening's entertainment proved, how much pleasure and profit can be realized by a little exertion. SOCIAL.

A Wonderful Machine.
 One of the surest sources of an item is Capt. Hustler's office; when ships fail to come in, and steamers fail to connect; when men to whom children are born neglect to notify an awaiting public, and new-made bridegrooms utterly ignore the necessity of announcing the change in their condition; when people who want a notice of their doings forget to send the poor printer an invitation; when the startling things that ought to happen don't happen; when there is no one to praise or blame; nothing stirring in politics, nor anything new in religious circles; then we drop down to the salt sea waves and on Main street wharf find something worthy of chronicle.
 So, as the harbor bar was yesternoon moaning and the hundred bells and whistles clashed and shrieked the hour of noon, we went in to find how many cases of salmon the Wolfe had aboard (6,384) and heard from Mr. John Fox of a knitting machine they had at the works which was a marvel. He took us over and showed us the only machine of the kind in the world. It is an ingenious contrivance, too complicated for us to describe, even if we knew how. It appears to be an intricate combination of cams, eccentrics, cogs, cranks, clutches, hobbins, shuttles, springs, claws, and teeth, and has the most sense and discrimination of anything we ever saw that hadn't life in it.
 You put in an innocent looking bob-bin, covered with twine, just such as we have seen the fishermen making net with last spring, and adjusting it in place turn a handle, and at once there is a noise as the meeting of many waters while out pours a gill net, any mesh or dimension required, and so put together as to defy criticism. In the formation of the knot particularly, the machine seems to be endowed with reason. Like human fingers but with the rapidity of lightning it catches the twine, twists it, turns it, and throwing a loop around the crossing strands throws it forward a perfect knot. Mr. Fox spent nearly an hour explaining the workings of the machine. It is the invention of Mathias Jensen, and is destined to supersede the present system of knut-ting nets by hand. The Astoria Iron Works has a contract to build fifty of them, and next season they will be as simple a matter to knit a net as it is now to sew a seam. At least so it would seem.
 The machine will knit forty-five fathoms of net a day, and is a curiosity. To any one interested in machinery it is a practical demonstration that there is no limit to human ingenuity.
 While there we were also shown a filler, the invention of John West.
 About twenty of these machines are being made, and the precision with which one of them will cut and fill a can with a pound of salmon is something marvellous.

Peruvian Bitters.
 Cinchona Rubra.
 The Count Cinchon was the Spanish Viceroy in Peru in 1630. The Countess, his wife, was prostrated by an intermittent fever, from which she was freed by the use of the native remedy, the Peri-vian bark, or, as it was called in the language of the country, "Quinquina." Grateful for her recovery, on her return to Europe in 1632, she introduced the remedy in Spain, where it was known under various names, until Linnæus called it Cinchona, in honor of the lady, who had brought them that which was more precious than the gold of the Incas.
 To this day, after a lapse of two hundred and fifty years, science has given us nothing to take its place. It effectually cures a morbid appetite for stimulants, by restoring the natural tone of the stomach. It attacks excessive loss of liquor as it does a fever, and destroys both alike. The powerful tonic virtue of the Cinchona is preserved in the Peruvian Bitters, which are an effective against malarial fever today as they were in the days of the old Spanish Viceroy. We guarantee the ingredients of these bitters to be absolutely pure, and of the best known quality.
 A trial will satisfy you that this is the best bitter in the world. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating," and we willingly abide the test. For sale by all druggists, grocers and liquor dealers.
 Order of Loeb & Co., agents for Astoria.
