No. 121.

IMPORTATION OF INSECT PESTS

Of late a great deal of California fruit has been brought to Portland. After the arrival of a California steamer from San Francisco hundreds of boxes of this fruit are distributed through the city and forwarded to all the interior towns of the Willamette valley and up the Columbia. If there are insect pests in California fruit we are importing them and spreading them broadcast through the land. Take apples that come from that state and you will find that a great many of them are wormy. That worm is the grub of the codling moth, the most vicious of all insect pests. Take up any number of the Rural Press and you will read about the loss occasioned to California by this pest, and efforts made to destroy it. It is destructive to fruit wherever it is known, and considered a scourge to fruitgrowers. If we escape it in Oregon this year it will be a wonder. Early in the season, at the suggestion of P. F. Bradford, Esq., an extensive fruit grower near Portland, we called attention to the danger to be apprehended, but there was then no remedy possible. We write in obedience to our appreciation of the danger, having intended to allude to it for some weeks, but we are directly reminded to it by J. H. Lambert, Esq., of Milwaukie, one of our most successful fruit men, who suggests that during the session of the legislature, which will meet next month, suitable legislation shall be passed, providing by the most stringent statute, for examination of all imported fruits, with a view of excluding such as cannot show a clean bill of health.

The importance of this matter cannot be over-estimated. It means the saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the producers. Once admitted here and we shall have an eternal fight against these destructives. Oregon has been exempt, hitherto, from such damage as California complains of, but shall not long be exempt if unrestricted importation of green fruit is allowed.

In pressing this matter we request our friends to express themselves freely as to the best means of legislation against the danger. We also urge its importance on the press of Oregon and Washington, and hope to see a united effort of all journals to make the facts known and secure the passage of a law that will answer the purpose.—Willamette Farmer.

Living Faith.

The signs are in the air. Men no longer preach doctrines to which they swore in their ordination vows—or they give to them new meanings, at variance with historic fact. It is beginning to be permitted men to preach their own view of truth unclipped by creeds. Sagacious and cautious men are quietly sowing seed which they know will by and by destroy old notions. Other men testify to change by greater zeal in preaching the old symbols of doctrine. Every age has a race of men who elect themselves to the care of other men's beliefs; who appoint themselves God's sheriffs to hunt and run down heretics. They are very busy. Men are ceasing to employ creeds as lines of separation between sect and sect, and are shaking hands in a higher fellowship over and across them. Creeds have ceased to be employed as conservatories of piety. Orthodoxy confesses that truth can no longer be kept in church or seminary by creeds, but only by living faith.—H. W. Beecher.

Best He Could Do

It was a Michigan man riding through West Virginia on horseback, and one afternoon as he came along to a settler's cabin on a mountain road he asked of a man leaning over the gate:

"Can you tell me how far it is to the town ahead?"

"I reckon I kin, stranger. You'll have to peg along for about nine miles yit."

"But it is nearly dark. Is there no tavern on the road?"

"Never heard of any, and I've backed my corn meal over this road risin' twenty years."

"But perhaps I could put up somewhere?"

"Praps ye could. There's Steve Taylor's down about four miles, but he'd beat ye blind on old sledge. There's Mose Smith, a mile nigher, but Mose would feel offended if ye didn't trade him that hoss for a stub-tailed mule. Might put up at Green's, but there's lots of rattlesnakes around his place. Kurnel Johnson is down about six miles, but the Kurnel would turn ye all out doors if he found ye didn't vote his way."

"But what am I to do?"

"Waal, I'm a squar' man stranger, and the best I kin do is to ax ye to stop here with me, an' to tell ye before-hand that if ye are awakened in the night by shingles being ripped off and logs pulled down, it won't be an avalanche nor a cyclone, but only me and the old woman a tryin' for the two hundredth time since the war to see who handles the money when I sell two coon skins for a dollar."

"I—I guess I'll go on," faltered the rider.

"Ke-rect, stranger! The last man who stopped here said he wished he'd have run the chances with the snakes down at Green's, an' I gin him my hand when he rode off. I'm squar' up and down, as I told ye, and Green's is the third cabin this side arter ye cross the creek."

A Virginia Barbecue

There were five fat mutton, two beef and a veal frizzling fragrantly over the fire all the morning, the sweet savor sharpening the appetite, while it added strength to the applause of the "old Virginia nigger" who was listening to the speaking meanwhile.

A deep, wide ditch had been dug some three or four feet in the ground, and filled nearly with bark and dry sticks and set on fire. At one end of the ditch several large boilers were filled with the meat and parboiled. Across the other half of the trench stout green sticks were placed close together, and over the live coals the smoking embers having been raked away, was laid the meat, after having been boiled and gashed through and through. As it roasted over the fire several negro men were constantly busy with long switch mops, sopping a gravy of black pepper, butter, salt and vinegar from the bowls near by and saturating the browning meat as fast as it dried. It smelled good and the crowd of lounging dorkies watching the process, knew it was good, and longed and waited.

Near by were great hampers of bread and cold ham, buckets of lemonade, and long tables of pine planks spread under the trees.—Baltimore Sun.

Wm. Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier will positively be found a valuable remedy for chronic constipation, affected kidneys, dyspepsia, liver complaint, rheumatism, scrofula, and all other diseases having their origin in impure blood. Manufactured only by Wm. Pfunder & Co., Portland, Oregon.

Mean Temperature of Different States.

Figures gleaned from the observation points of forty-nine states and territories show that the hottest places in the Union are Florida, Louisiana and Arizona, the mean and annual temperature of which is 69. Texas ranks at 67, Alabama 66, Mississippi 64, Arkansas 63, South Carolina 62, Indian territory 60, North Carolina 59. Georgia and Tennessee stand on a par at 58, Virginia 57, Kentucky 56. The mean temperature of 55 prevails in California, Missouri and the District of Columbia; 54 in Maryland and Pennsylvania; 53 in Delaware, Ohio and Oregon; 52 in Idaho, Utah and West Virginia; 51 in Indiana, Kansas, New Mexico and Washington Territory; 50 in Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Wisconsin and Michigan; 49 in Nebraska, Massachusetts ranks with Rhode Island, New York and Colorado at 48; Michigan and Dakota are equal at 47; Alaska is not the coldest part of the Union, as is commonly supposed, but stands with New Hampshire at 46; colder than these are Maine and Wisconsin at 45; Montana and Vermont at 43, Minnesota at 42, and coldest of all, Wyoming at 41.

A Novel Lawsuit

The trial of a novel and amusing lawsuit, involving the maintenance of nine pug dogs, was recently begun at Frankfort-on-the-Main. The plaintiff is a Mrs. Brummer, who had contracted to take care of the dogs, and the defendants are the Marquis Henriette de Belado and the Baron M. Matthias. The joint ownership of the pampered pugs left them in the care of Mrs. Brummer for fourteen days, agreeing to pay twelve cents a day for the support of the handsomest one, and five cents a day apiece for the others, and the following bill of fare was further agreed upon: Breakfast, bread and milk; dinner, soup, meat and vegetables; four o'clock repast, bread and coffee; supper, in Connecticut, Illinois, Nevada and New Jersey; 49 in Iowa and Nebraska; Massachusetts ranks with Rhode Island, New York and Colorado at 48; Michigan and Dakota are equal at 47; Alaska is not the coldest part of the Union, as is commonly supposed, but stands with New Hampshire at 46; colder than these are Maine and Wisconsin at 45; Montana and Vermont at 43, Minnesota at 42, and coldest of all, Wyoming at 41.

The Yaquina bay railroad has 6,000 tons of steel rails in the warehouses of San Francisco, on which $168,000 tariff must be paid. All of this must be paid by the valley farmers to protect Pennsylvania millionaires. A fine thing is protection, for the wealthy.

A Varied Performance

Many wonder how Parker's Ginger Tonic can perform such varied cures, thinking it essence of ginger, when in fact it is made from many valuable medicines which act beneficially on every diseased organ.

Smile Again on Me!

Sighed Tom to his beloved. He knew not what gave her such a charm in his eyes. Her teeth, preserved by SOZODONT which she had used from girlhood, did his business. She held her lover by virtue of SOZODONT.

True happiness is derived from the use of Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier. People who have tried it once never give it up, because they want to remain happy.

SYMPTOMS OF A DISEASED LIVER.

Pain in the right side, under edge of ribs, increasing on pressure; sometimes the pain is on the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder and is sometimes taken for Rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are constive, sometimes alternating with laxity; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes attendant. The patient complains of weakness and debility; he is easily startled; his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low, and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it.

If you have any of the above symptoms, you can avoid being cured by the use of the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS. When you buy McLANE'S PILLS, insist on having DR. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, made by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. If you do not get the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, send us 25 cents by mail, and we will send them to you.
