

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: TUESDAY, AUGUST 2, 1882. J. F. HALLORAN, Editor.

Arizona Apaches.

There is a story going the rounds of the press that a secret organization of 1,300 men has been formed in Arizona to attack the Apaches on the White Mountain reservation...

be stopped. Every Apache of the reservation should be treated as a hostile, which, beyond doubt, he is; the sole purpose of their going away is to satisfy their devilish fondness for murder and plunder.

War Notes.

In a "skirmish" between English and Egyptian troops last Saturday, both parties retired at sunset without material damage.

The Argonaut has a long account of "An English Hero," in the last number. The hero part of it no doubt is all right, but he is just as "English" as Nugent, or O'Donnell, or Clare, or any of the Irish soldiers who always find on alien fields the merit they fail to win under their own flag.

For the third time in his unique life, Ben. Butler has been nominated for governor of Massachusetts. First, the Republicans nominated him, and were beaten; then the Democrats set him up, and Long bowled him out; this time the Greenbackers take him for a figure-head.

Five and one-half millions of dollars is the sum at the disposal of the Mississippi River Improvement Commissioners. "Tis a good round sum." One of those millions judiciously expended, would make the Columbia river entrance as safe as the entrance to New York bay.

SACRAMENTO salmon is quoted in San Francisco at $1.25@1.30. Columbia river salmon at $1.45@1.47.
