ASTORIA, OREGON: WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 11, 1882

J. F. HALLORAN, Editor

How Will They Live.

ANNUALLY, there is an enormous accession to the number of lawyers, doctors and preachers, and the future of such an army of novices in the profession, is often the subject of conjecture. The professions already have more members than can earn a comfortable subsistence from them; in every city there are swarms of men who have received diplomas as lawyers and doctors, who cannot earn as much in the course of a week, as the man whose business it is to shovel sand. It is far too easy to obtain licenses to practice these professions; the result is that they are crowded with incompetents who not only destroy the lives and waste the property of those who deal with them, but increase the difficulties in the way of those who are really qualified. Of the many law and medical schools in the United States, there are few, if any at all, which will admit only those who have passed through a college course. But the men who have attained the greatest eminence have been those of the most thorough culture, obtained either at college or by private study. It is unfortunate that merit and solid attainments do not always bring success; the failures noted are the real reason why such multitudes of really ignorant and illiterate persons seek admission to the professions.

The rewards which merit may reap are sometimes princely; the apparent overcrowding of the professions does not result in any excess of persons who are worthy of high places. The rank and file have a hard time before them, and it would have been better for those who had not the advantage of a good education if they had sought some other means of winning their way through the world. It would be invaluable to the men who have no intention of following the profession, if they could have the benefit of a course at a law school. Every man cannot be his own lawyer, but there are so many fundamental principles of law which are involved in every business which play so important a part in politics, that neglect to study them should be regarded as unwise as neglect to study the principles of chemistry or physiology. The law schools do not carry their students much further than every well educated man ought to go, though he have no intention of adopting the profession. The mass of crude, puerile and unconstitutional legislation which is had in almost every state, is one of the results of the popular indifference or ignorance of the bed-rock principles of the legal science. If the hosts who are passing through the law and medical schools would then turn their attention to commercial, manufacturing or agricultural pursuits, they would be almost certain to succeed in life and attain a position, which would be more than doubtful if they attempted the practice of the professions. The time has long since passed when the learned professions offered the only avenue to distinction in civil life.

S. L. ROXBAND, one of the oldest printers in the country, and at present public printer, has told Mahone that no Virginian in the government printing office should be discharged on account of any refusal to pay political assessments. The doughty senator from the Old Dominion is "incensed," and has attempted to override the plucky Chicago man. Rounds is right, and should be upheld by every printer and newspaper in the United States.

ARGUMENTS in the Star Route trial will be closed by Col. Ingersoll for the defense, to-day when the case goes to the jury.

700 Acres! Dairy or Stock Farm.

and Valuable Timber Land.

50 Dairy Cows, 2 Three-quarter Jersey Bulls, 2 Horses, 1 Yoke Work Oxen, 2 Milk Wagons, Farm and Dairy Implements and Furniture. 50 tons Hay.

The above Valuable Property is for sale at a very low appraisalment, viz. $9,000, one third of which can stand on Mortgage.

It is situated on Lewis and Clark's River, 7 miles south of Astoria, and 2 1/2 miles from Clatsop beach. There is a good steamboat landing which is accessible to any of the O. R. & N. Co's river steamboats. About half of the 700 acres is tide land, well bridged, on which cattle keep fat the year round. The other half, level timber land, and about 200 acres in tame grass. Thousands of cords of hemlock, fir and spruce can be cut, worth two dollars and a half at the landing to which there is a good wagon road from all points. Every cord cut finds a ready market. In addition, there is any quantity of mill lumber and good piles. Good dwelling house, barn, and necessary outhouses, etc. This desirable property is admirably adapted for settlement by a company desiring to colonize, as it is large enough to divide into several farms and homesteads. The contemplated bridge between Astoria and Clatsop plains connects this property. Early wishing to sell is now supplying Astoria with milk, and if desired will build over good will and business to the purchaser of the property. If not sold before September 15th, at private sale, the whole property will be sold by catalogue sale, at Public Auction, to the highest bidder for cash, on Friday September 15th, 1882, at 11 A. M. Title Warranty Deed. For further particulars apply to E. C. ROLDEN, Auctioneer and Real Estate Agent.
