- Wish it would rain.
- School begins in district No. 18 to-morrow.
- Wild geese are flying south; sea gulls are coming into the bay.
- The wool clip of Oregon for '82 will exceed 10,000,000 pounds.
- The Oregon is due this morning. The Columbia goes out to-day.
- 464 pupils attend the Salem public schools: about the same as Astoria.
- Wheat is 56 cents a bushel in Walla Walla—63 cents per cental.
- The Corvallis Gazette has the best editorial on the senatorial question to hand so far.
- Mrs. T. S. Jewett goes below on to-day's steamer for a three month's visit to Santa Cruz.
- Capt. Flavel, and A. J. Megler, go to Foley Springs to-morrow, for a month's rest and recreation.
- A busy day in Portland, and lots of button-holing on the corners between now and Monday morning.
- Salem is afflicted with foot-pads and sneak thieves. The fair attracts that class from every community.
- Note the fact that L. J. Arvid attends to the understanding, and has a large stock of boots and shoes now on hand.
- Regular services at Grace Episcopal church to-day, both morning and evening. The Rector Mr. Wilson, officiating.
- A bill will be presented in the next legislature providing for the establishment of a paid fire department in Portland.
- 13,000 more people came into the state by way of the Columbia river than left it, during the year ending June 30th, '82.
- There will be divine service on board the British bark Corvella, lying at Gray's dock, at 4 p. m., Rev. McCormac officiating.
- "The First National Bank" of Salem will begin operations on the first of next month. Scotch capital is invested in the undertaking.
- The steamer Clara Parker will leave at nine o'clock this morning on an excursion to Knappa, Clifton and Westport, returning at 3 p. m.
- Rev. T. W. Walters will preach to-day at Congregational church at 11 a. m., and lecture to young people at 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at noon.
- Divine service at the usual hour in the Presbyterian church this morning. Sabbath school meets at 12:15. There will be no service in the evening.
- The swift steamer Gen. Miles will leave Gray's dock at four o'clock to-morrow morning for Garibaldi, and Hobsonville, Tillamook county. The expectation is to return to-morrow night.
- W. J. Parsons advertises in a paper to hand, that his wife Sarah left him two years ago, and if she doesn't come back in one month he will marry again. Our advice to Sarah is to stay where she is.
- To pay $10.75 freight from San Francisco on a consignment of ice to this city, and have it carried to Portland and then lugged down here again is not a pleasant experience, but is only one of many just such instances.
- The public school at upper Astoria has seventy-three pupils in attendance. Rapid progress in studies is being made, and the ability to handle such a large school reflects great credit on the ability of the teacher, Miss L. Allen.

Puget Sound Salmon.

The silver salmon this season are very small, but the Chinook fish are correspondingly large. Near the mouth of the Duwamish river the bay is literally dotted with canoes and boats, the occupants of which are engaged in fishing. The ruling price now is five cents each for good sized salmon, but as the season advances the price will decline.

Post-Intelligence.
 The Daisy will leave on to-morrow morning (instead of Tuesday, as previously announced) to convey the auctioneer and any others interested, to the Barrow's farm on Lewis and Clarke's river. See "Notice to Intending Builders."

The usual religious service will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Hall this afternoon at a quarter to three, led by Prof. R. K. Warren of Portland. Song service from Moody and Sankey's Gospel Hymns. Cordial invitation extended to all.

The experiments of W. Lair Hill in Wasco county, with alfalfa, demonstrates that all the dry hills of Eastern Oregon and Washington will produce alfalfa, which is probably the most valuable forage plant known. With that fact assured the capacity of that region is greatly increased, and its prosperity doubly assured.

Parties receiving and storing hay cannot be too careful this dry weather. Yesterday morning there could have been seen a wharf strewn with hay, and a man close by a bale smoking a pipe, the wind blowing briskly at the time. Astoria has been very lucky about fires; the present dry season should make every one doubly careful.

It may not be entirely out of place to suggest to some of our subscribers and patrons that in cleaning up their season's work, we should be glad to have them remember their little indebtedness to us. We have no use for money, no bills to pay, and we are never asked for the wherewith: but nevertheless, it would be a source of pleasure to have a few big silver dollars to use for sinkers when we go fishing.

At the last meeting of the Astoria chamber of commerce a committee, consisting of the president, vice-president, and secretary, was appointed to meet the visiting board of engineers, and tender them such assistance in the matter of data, statistics, etc., as they may find of use or value to them. Nothing formal is the intention; simply the usual courtesy in such cases. A private letter received yesterday afternoon, states that the gentlemen comprising the board will sail from San Francisco next Tuesday, which will make Thursday, the 14th, as the date of their arrival at Astoria.

The parties who took a tan terrace away from a little girl on Thursday afternoon, had better return the animal to George Hiller, at Astoria Brewery Saloon, and save trouble.

Notice to Intending Bidders.

Barrows Farm and Dairy Stock at auction on Friday, September 15th. E. C. Holden, auctioneer, will visit the farm in the steamer Daisy, for the purpose of cataloguing the stock, to-morrow morning leaving Warren & Eaton's wharf at 8 a. m. Intending bidders are invited to accompany him to examine the farm and stock preparatory to the auction sale, which will positively take place on next Friday at 11 a. m.

If you want nice fresh lard, or good sugar-cured hams, just from the country go to F. B. Elbersson's bakery.

Commercial.

The following review of the Oregon produce market, is from the Willamette Farmer, of Sept. 8th.

Harvest is well over, and hauling to mill or warehouse is being pushed very rapidly to improve the dry weather. The grain is in excellent condition, and will class with the best.

We have seen a sample of wheat sold as white wheat, brought back from Liverpool, on which the Liverpool Corn Trade awarded damage of almost 2 1/2 a bushel, because there were a few grams of red-appearing wheat in it. The shipper brought this sample back to show here, and it appears that it is really the old white wheat of the country, which has a flabby color when ripened on wet land. It was, of course, a mere catch to claim a deduction, but we learn from it the necessity of selecting good seed and securing clean seed of good white wheat, for the English buyer asserts that he buys Oregon wheat to get the color pure white, and, if not so, will claim deduction.

The wheat market is dull here, except that some exporters have to provide cargoes for ships they have chartered, and so sustain the market. One house gives $1.55 per cental as the top of the market; another puts it at $1.57 1/2, and all agree that the situation is so uncertain that there is no decided price for anything, as no cargo can be bought and shipped here for what English orders will allow.

The English market fluctuates about as it has been; slight fluctuations and no excitement. Crops are usually good the world over, and prices cannot become high, though an active demand may come up, and freights may come down enough to help the farmer's prices. One charter was closed here lately—an iron ship for the United Kingdom at 60s. Another ship is supposed to be just chartered at 57s 6d per ton. At San Francisco, yesterday, iron ships for U. K. were chartered at 51s 3d, and a wooded vessel for 50s 3d per ton. It is thought tonnage will be considerably lower there; a shipper here says that freights should come down to 50s. in the Columbia river. So we live in hope, and the wheat growers of this valley are expectant that cheaper freights will come and create a better market. But while some look for lower tonnage, some ship owners are holding for a rise in freights. We hear of some that refuse charters under 60s.

Comparing the wheat market now with last spring, we find that an April shipment of Walla Walla wheat brought 49s per quarter, while orders now for the same wheat will not come within five shillings of that price. The freight market helps to keep prices up. Good valley wheat may be quoted at $1.55-1.57 1/2 per cental. Some time since an offer of $1.52 for a choice lot of Walla Walla wheat was declined. The season's crop in the vicinity of Walla Walla is excellent, but wheat grown up Snake river is more or less shrunken.

On Wednesday a cargo of California wheat sold in Liverpool at 42s 6d per quarter, which is four shillings less than current rates for good Oregon wheat.

A Sea Captain's Revenge.

It has been often said that there is no despotism in the world equal to that exercised by the captain of a vessel while at sea. This, of course, does not apply to yachts, for these are not registered vessels, but sail under a license, and the captain of such a craft could be discharged by the owner when in mid ocean if, for any reason, the owner found fault with his management. But with merchant vessels, when once out of port, the authority of the captain is, by the laws of every nation, supreme.

It is necessary that this should be so. A ship, when at sea, represents a number of different interests; those who own the vessel, those who own the cargo, those who insure the hull and its contents, and there are the lives of the crew, and possibly of passengers. There must be a responsible, directing head, armed with the legal power to enforce any order he may think necessary for the protection of these different interests, and this authority could be lodged nowhere but with the captain. His judgment may be at fault, but if at the end of a voyage he can make oath that he considered what he did to be necessary, for the protection of the interests intrusted to his keeping it is almost impossible to punish him for his mistakes. An example of this arbitrary power was given some years ago by the captain of a merchant vessel sailing from one of our Atlantic ports. The ship was bound on a voyage to the west coast of South America, and her owner invited one or two of his friends to go down the bay in her and return in the pilot boat. When outside, the weather became somewhat threatening, and the pilot boat was not immediately on hand. The captain had long cherished a grudge against the owner, and saw in the situation an opportunity of revenging himself. In spite of commands and then of appeals made for the owner, his friends and the pilot, he put the vessel upon her course and stood out to sea. His involuntary passengers were, of course, in a wretched state of mind, coming, as they did, wholly unprepared for a voyage around Cape Horn, and very well aware that their relatives and friends would have doubts as to their existence. This led the owner to resort to measures which the captain construed to be malicious, and hence he had the former placed in confinement, while the entire party, with the exception of the pilot, were treated very much as if they had been common sailors, so far as their food supply was concerned. When the ship arrived at her port of destination the captain was instantly dismissed; but that was all the punishment that could be inflicted on him.

In the Whole History of Medicine
 No preparation has ever performed such marvelous cures, or maintained so wide a reputation, as AYER'S CURE FOR PECTORAL AFFECTIONS, which is recognized as the world's remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs. Its long-continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it universally known as a safe and reliable agent to employ. Against ordinary colds, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders, it acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering, and often saving life. The protection it affords, by its timely use in throat and chest disorders, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. From their knowledge of its composition and effects, physicians use the CURE FOR PECTORAL AFFECTIONS extensively in their practice, and everyone who has used it, is absolutely certain in its remedial effects, and will always cure where cures are possible.

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS.

Have Wistar's balsam of wild cherry always at hand. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, whooping cough, croup, influenza, consumption, and all throat and lung complaints. 50 cents and $1 a bottle.
