ASTORIA, OREGON: SUNDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1882. J. F. HALLORAN, Editor.

The Columbia River Bridge.

The New Tacoma Ledger is informed that the construction forces lately employed on the river division of the O. R. & N. road are being removed to the new line and are to be set to work without delay. Engineer Charles F. White, who has for years taken prominent part in the Northern Pacific railroad surveys of this region, and particularly on the Cascade range started out from Portland on the 6th instant in charge of a party to locate the line from Portland toward Kalama and is now engaged in that work. The right of way has been nearly all obtained and there will not be any delay on this account. The line will pass down the Columbia river on the Oregon side to a point opposite Kalama, and trains will be transferred across the river on a large transfer boat now being constructed in the east. This will be a very large boat having powerful machinery. She will be as long as the steamship Columbia, will have side wheel engines on her guards and a capacity for carrying two trains. The builders are Harlan & Hollingsworth of Wilmington, Delaware. When completed she will be shipped out in sections and put together at Portland. The transfer boat is to be used at Kalama until the bridge shall have been built there. From present indications the bridge will be placed at a point about a quarter of a mile above Kalama, that being found a better location than Carroll's Point, which however has the advantage that the river is narrower there than above. But at Carroll's Point the depth of water in the river is 80 feet, while at the place referred to near Kalama the depth is only 30 feet.

Will President Arthur show himself a second Jackson? Nullification, more inexcusable than that which fifty years ago disgraced South Carolina, has broken out in Utah. Congress has absolute authority over that territory as it has over the District of Columbia, and more absolute than the legislature of any state has over its political affairs. Early in August congress empowered Governor Murry to appoint certain officials to succeed those then incumbent by election. The governor has made the appointments, and Mormons in office have refused to give up their places and their public property to his appointees. President Arthur's opportunity to proclaim the supremacy of the law is only second in importance to that which Jackson availed himself of.

The through route of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company from San Francisco to New Orleans will be completed and in operation on January 1, 1883. It will be under the exclusive control of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, which will thus secure a through line from Ogden, Utah, via Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, to New Orleans.

It is estimated that in Idaho over 8,000 men are engaged in railway construction, cutting ties, grading, blasting and tunneling, timbering and track lay. The lines upon which this work is being are the Oregon Short Line, the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company's line, and the Northern Pacific.

FURTHER returns from Ohio make no material difference in the result of Tuesday's election. The Republicans are badly beaten, and 'tis probable, from the result of Tuesday's election, that the next house of representatives will be under Democratic control.

A SALEM man has been counting the white horses there and finds a total of twenty-seven in the capital and vicinity. It is the dark horses that are attracting the most attention there at present.

Bad Year for Bosses.

A PITTSBURG despatch of the 12th says a prominent business man of this city, who always has been identified with the Republican party and who spoke for about 75 other business men, also Republicans, said yesterday they had made up their minds to vote the independent ticket, as the only way to rid the party in this state of machine rule. He believed the Democrats would elect their candidates next month; but this would not kill or seriously cripple the Republican party. Once rid of Cameronism they would reorganize on a new basis, which would give the people control, and would soon regain their lost ground with a prospect of retaining the power for an indefinite period. The sentiments expressed by this gentleman are whispered here and elsewhere in the state. There seems no chance for the Cameron ticket.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., claims the distinction of possessing the oldest hand fire engine in the country. It was built by Brooks of London in 1698 and imported by the Moravians of Bethlehem in that year. In 1848, after a century and a half of honorable service, it was retired to the museum of the Young Men's Missionary Society, where it now is, and, moreover in working order. These statements are attested by the maker's original bill and the shipping papers.

THE Oregon Improvement company reports its gross earnings for July at $262,875, and for the first seven months of the year at $1,758,220. The net earnings for the last named period were $609,456. The company owns and operates the Pacific Coast Steamship company, the Columbia and Puget Sound Railroad company and the Seattle coal and Transportation company.

Thus the editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. It must feel fanny to be that way.
